THE Smartest Fashions & Well-Dressed Folk

A WELCOME VISITOR

DEAREST ELEANOR:

You remember Bob's stunning cousin, Elizabeth Boyd, who was one of our house party last fall?

I finally captured this popular lady, after repeated efforts of dire failure. She has given us a fortnight, and I want you to come over, if you can arrange to do so, before she departs.

This morning we had a rather late breakfast. Just as Betty was serving the coffee, Ruth and Grace called on their way to the Country Club.

Ruth just returned from abroad, you know, and wore a smart suit she brought over. It was of navy blue turkish toweling. The coat followed the directoire lines, which are so popular this season. White toweling was used for the high girdle, collar and broad lapels, with a fascinating dash of cherry red. She is a wonderfully chic girl and carries tailored gowns well.

Grace's frock was a tan-colored linen, coarsely woven. The front was adorned in military fashion with stitched bands of the same material. Ecru net was used for the chemisette. A collar of black net edged with a narrow pleating of white finished the neck line. The jabot was of pleated white net bordered with a pleating of black.

Betty was so pretty in the quaintest frock. She is so original in everything! The material was of cotton, soft and supple, designed to imitate the old-fashioned chintz.

The bodice was a draped surplice effect, folding far over to the right side. White mull formed the chemisette and sleeves. The skirt was looped up below the hips, producing a modified pannier effect. A ruching of the material defined the high waist line.

I made myself such a charming coatee of mauve Paris muslin; this was its premier appearance. The entire outer edge is bordered by a ruching of the same material. A garland of tiny pink roses adorns the front. My plain little frock of white Persian lawn was given an air of distinction by this pretty negligee.

Let me hear that you are coming soon.

Ever fondly,

MADGE.

CARUSO AGAIN LOVESICK SWAIN

Object of Affections Is Daughter of South American President.

Young Woman Gives Prompt, But Negative Answers to Proposals.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)
(By PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUX.)
PARIS, May 25.—Enrico Caruso is again a lovesick swain. This time the affair seems to be the most serious of his life, and at the same time the most aggravating, for he finds that his charms fail to arouse any serious responses in the loved one.

The young lady who is being burdened by the theatrical devotion of the great tenor is Mlle. Sevedra, who is but 22 years old. She is buxom—almost stout—with pale white face and jet black hair. She is highly cultivated and possesses a very high voice of remarkable quality. She is the natural daughter of the late Velasquez, president of the Argentine Republic.

Mlle. Sevedra lives in a magnificent apartment at 14 Avenue De La Grande Armee, and just now is in the shadow of what is an awful tragedy for her.

Velasquez was most fond of his daughter. He humored her every whim and lavished money upon her. He gave her magnificent jewels and homes about Europe and she was looked upon as one of the richest and most beautiful girls in France.

When the late president came to France, Mlle. Sevedra lived with her father in the house in Boulevard Des Champs Elysees, managing the affairs of the household for him.

STARTLING REVELATION.

But there was a startling revelation for her when her father died two months ago and his will showed that he had not provided a son for his child. So Mlle. Sevedra found herself the mistress of several estates, possessing jewels like a queen, owning automobiles and horses and having a large retinue of servants—with only $2000 a year to maintain all this splendor.

When she realized the terrible position in which she was thrust, Mlle. Sevedra nearly went mad. Then Caruso came upon the scene and tried to console the young woman with the love of a great tenor. He deluged her with love letters; he smothered her with flowers. He became the ardent lover in true Italian style, but his efforts seem to be wasted on Mlle. Sevedra, who refuses his proposals of marriage daily, saying:

"While I like Caruso very much, I could not ever bring myself to marry a plumber, even if he is the world's greatest tenor."

Caruso is moping about Paris and even the signing of a four-year contract to sing in America at an advance over his price of $3000 a performance, does not seem to cheer the great tenor. At the first performance of "The Girl of the Golden West" at the Paris Grand opera house, Caruso had Mlle. Sevedra in one of the boxes with his small son and a nurse. During the performance the little boy was continually throwing kisses to his father on the stage, which Caruso returned when opportunity afforded. Those who saw the inter-play thought that too much feeling was put into the kisses that Caruso blew from his finger tips to be simply paternal.

PRINCESS OF TECK GETS INTO HOT WATER

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, May 25.—Princess Alexandra of Teck, Queen Mary's sister-in-law, has got into very hot water and has received a severe lecture from King George.

On the day of the death of the late King Frederick of Denmark was announced the princess, entirely forgetting court etiquette, which by the way seldom bothers her, went to a children's party given by Lady Cowdray. To make matters worse the princess went to the party in a gown of bright purple.

The entertainment for children was followed by a small collation at which a number of grown-ups were present and the princess actually danced.

When the awful news was conveyed to headquarters both King George and Queen Mary were deeply shocked. For the next few weeks the Princess Alexandra will be treated coldly at court.

The little princess, after Princess Patricia of Connaught, is by far the most attractive member of the royal family. She is very pretty and extremely unconventional. She and her big husband, who is in the Household Cavalry, are enormously popular with all classes. Much has been done for this couple by the King and Queen, who are really devoted to them. For instance, the Tecks were specially selected to represent the British court at the coronation of the King of Siam. They are by no means well off, but live rent free in a suite placed at their disposal by the King at Windsor where they are daily seen walking about unattended.

EGYPTIAN PRINCE TO VISIT UNITED STATES

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, May 25.—American helmsmen, with a love for title, will presently have a golden opportunity of meeting another royalty to whom a few millions or so would be extremely welcome, for Prince Mohammed Ali, brother of the khedive of Egypt, is to visit America in the near future, presumably in search of a promising matrimonial contract. The prince, who is unquestionably popular in European society, is said to be handsome and brilliant conversationalist, unmarried and able to speak all the languages.

TAKEN HERE AND THERE ABOUT EUROPE

Mlle. Lydia Kyasht

WHO THEY ARE

Our picture shows Lady Lytton, with her two daughters, Lady Hermione Lytton, little Lady Katherine Lytton, and Lord Knibworth, her eldest son. Lady Lytton is a daughter of the late Sir Trevor White-Flores of Haverhill, Ore., Sussex, and married Lord Lytton in 1902. She has two sons and two daughters. The above snapshot was taken at Knibworth, Hampshire, one of the latest additions to the garden village of Outer London. In this village Lady Lytton is of course keenly interested, as it stands in the neighborhood of her own beautiful Hertfordshire home, Knibworth House.

Miss Warwick plays the part of the wicked Egyptian beauty who lures Ben Hur (Arthur Wontner) from the baths of virtue and duty. She is required to look handsome and to be always alluring—accomplishments which are not difficult to this popular actress, who as the demi-mondaine in "Woman and Wine" knows all the tricks of melodrama to perfection. Arthur Wontner as Ben Hur—stern, persecuted but eventually triumphant Jew—is wonderfully natural and difficult amid surroundings perpetually at war with nature as it is known anywhere but in dramas of blood, thunder and pyrotechnics, which "Ben Hur" is an excellent example.

Above is seen a new and charming portrait of Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, the famous ballerina, who is at present appearing in a delightful little ballet entitled "The Water Nymph." This ballet has been carefully written, produced and arranged by herself.

Mrs. K. N. MacLaren is the widow of the late Captain James MacLaren, Gordon Highlanders, and a daughter of the late Sir George Keith-Buchanan, Bart. Mrs. MacLaren is a prominent golfer and a well-known figure on the Colchester links.

The above snapshot depicts Miss Harriet Quimby, who has won the honor of being the first woman to fly her own aeroplane across the English channel. Miss Quimby, in addition to being one of America's foremost flyers, is a famous dramatic critic. She is seen in the novel flying dress, which is her own design.

Mlle. Arlette Dorgere, a portrait of whom is seen above, is equally well known in London as she is in her native Paris. Mlle. Dorgere is at present at the Casino, Paris, charming everyone as usual with her singing, dancing and lovely toilettes.

MOURNS DEATH OF ISIDOR STRAUS AND WIFE

(By COUNT VON ELPHBERG.)

BERLIN, May 25.—The dowager Grand Duchess of Baden, mother of the present reigning grand duke, granted a special audience at Karlsruhe to Nathan Straus when he was in Germany recently in order to express her deep sympathy in connection with the tragic death of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Isidor Straus, who went down with the Titanic.

A close friendship had existed for some time between Nathan Straus and the dowager grand duchess through their

DUCHESS IS FIRST AID TO SOCIAL CLIMBERS

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, May 25.—The Duchess of Rutland is the latest admiration to the swelling ranks of titled women who are willing, for a consideration, "to arrange dances" for hostesses with no social position. She is arranging a dinner dance to be given by the Countess Clancarty on May 30 and also a big ball which Lady Clancarty is to give in July, for her beautiful daughter, Lady Beryl Le Poer Trench. The duchess managed a successful ball given by the elderly Lady Petrie at Clancarty's hotel.

The duchess cannot be described as a leader of society because many of the best people decline to know her, but she has a large following in a certain aesthetic set. The late King Edward positively declined to receive the duchess and never took any pains to conceal his dislike and the passion developed by his nephew, Prince Arthur of Connaught, for one of the duchess' pretty daughters made matters worse.

A climax was reached, however, when the duchess invited Queen Alexandra to tea to meet Cavalier, the beautiful and frail prima donna. Under the new reign the duchess has regained her position to a great extent and is received by King George and Queen Mary. This is largely due to the exertions of the Marchioness Rippon, who is Queen Alexandra's latest friend, and whose fascinations have proved successful with Queen Mary.

SPANISH ROYAL CHILDREN LIVE FAIRY TALE LIVES

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

MADRID, May 25.—The real fairy story prince and princesses living in beautiful palaces with great parks as playgrounds and donkeys and ponies and carriages and everything they could wish for; with soldiers as their playmates, with white capped nurses and governesses following their footsteps, and with an army of servants to do their bidding, are the children of the King of Spain.

Four children have come to bless the union of King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, who was a royal English princess. With all the traditional homage, regal state and lavish indulgence that has come to them through their father's side their mother has seen to it that their children lead a healthy, out-of-door life, with the consequence that there are probably no happier children in the world today than the Prince of the Asturias, the eldest son of King Alfonso, and heir to the throne of Spain, and the Princess Beatrice, his sister.

HORSE SHOW RIVALS TO MEET

Vanderbilt Seeks Grays in the Hopes of Strengthening Four.

(By CHESTER OVERTON.)

LONDON, May 25.—The international horse show, which opens at Olympia in June, will witness some changes in the line-up of the American exhibitors, who have usually had everything their own way except the jumping and minor events.

In the first place, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is not conceded to have a chance in the coaching marathon this year, chiefly on account of that his famous four grays, which have drawn his coach Venture to so many victories, are no longer fit for hard contests. His loss last year to Judge William H. Moore was attributed to this cause.

Vanderbilt has been making an attempt to build up his stables again, and has given unlimited commissions to his agents here and in the United States to find him coaching horses. His stable of show horses has been in a bad way for several seasons owing to his interest in coaching, so last year, while he took space for stabling his usual large number of horses at Olympia, he did not dare to show but very few in the ring, on account of lack of condition.

MUST BE GRAYS.
Vanderbilt has insisted upon one condition in giving orders to his agents for coaching horses. They must be grays, and grays up to date have not been procurable in any price.

As in past years, Vanderbilt will act as judge of coasters, the East End cart merchants and their donkeys, which is one of the most amusing features of the show. For the first time his brother, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, is on the list of judges. He will represent the United States in judging harness horses and ponies.

A new American exhibitor is J. Sumner Draper, who will have entries in the harness class. Judge William H. Moore, an old hand, will be the most dangerous competitor to everybody. Forty horses of his string are now en route from America. He will defend his international cup in the coaching marathon with the same four as last year, including the famous Lady Grey, and he will also attempt to capture the coaching coronation.

Walter Winnans, the very wealthy Anglo-American, who became disgraced last year just after missing many blue ribbons, captured by Judge Moore, and who threatened to withdraw from the show, has decided to make as many entries this year as last and has engaged the same stable room usually reserved for him.

OTHERS TO BE PRESENT.

Other Americans who will be on hand and who have taken boxes surrounding the show ring are J. H. Dunbar, M. D. Jordan of Boston, Adam Barry, Esq. of Chicago and Clifford Sifton of Ottawa, who is bringing a team to compete for the King Edward cup.

Another interesting feature of the show will be the riding of Miss Dunne, who is expected to win the silver cup in its entirety the Stokes statue of thirty crack jumpers. Mrs. Chapman also will show in the ring and will drive her famous hack, Canterbury Belle.

In the annex to Olympia the "Millions" silver cup is being held out as a prize for the stabling of horses. One of the chief streets has been taken by Judge Moore, whose stables will be decorated in gorgeous fashion. The center street, however, which formerly housed the Vanderbilt horses, is being taken by a silver nameplate on the door of his stall, has been taken over by the show committee for a parade ground of every type of horse bred in England.

The Olympia arena has undergone another transformation in its plans for the scheme this year. It will be a tropical garden with thousands of palms and other imported tropical plants. The show promises to be the usual great society event of the season, and among the new box-holders is the Countess of Warwick, who is now planning to entertain on a large scale.

Much disappointment is expected that the American army is not sending a team, this year to compete in the international jumping contests.

PLANTING THE SEED OF DRAMATIC WORTH PRIMARY LESSON IN ELEVATING THE STAGE

PHOTOGRAPHIC RECORD OF THE FIRST HIGH SCHOOL SHAKESPEARIAN FESTIVAL, HELD AT THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, AND SAM HUME, WHO HAS OUTLINED A PLAN FOR AN ANNUAL DRAMATIC PRODUCTION.

PERDITA and FLORIZEL

SAM HUME

CHORUS AND PROLOGUE

AUTOLYCUS AND CLOWN

Hume Studied With Edward G. Craig

Sam Hume, the University of California graduate who has contributed the following interesting article on the proposed dramatic productions in high schools, has for years been a close student of drama and is himself an actor of no mean ability. Hume's most important work has been with Edward Gordon Craig, the son of Ellen Terry. After appearing with marked success in a number of dramatic productions at the State University, Hume went to London, where, in 1909, he got into communication with Craig, who was at that time in Florence, and, on Craig's suggestion, Hume joined him.

Craig was preparing a model for the production of Hamlet, which received an ovation in Moscow a few months later. Hume assisted him in this work. Later they spent some time in London preparing a new scene designed by Craig for Miss Terry. At this time Hume built the model which Craig presented to W. E. Yeats of the Irish National Theatre in Dublin, and from which Yeats built the large scene employed by him at the Abbey Theatre for some of his plays. Hume worked with Craig for two years, and when not with him, was traveling in France, Italy, Spain and Germany making a study of the theater and its work in large cities.

(By SAM HUME.)

FEW weeks ago at the invitation of the English Club of the University of California, three high schools, Oakland, Berkeley and Lowell of San Francisco, participated in the first Shakespearean festival to be given in the Greek Theater. These schools presented various scenes from Shakespeare, of their own selection, and the performances given by all three were decidedly above the average of amateur productions of this kind. The English Club in this way opened a gateway of opportunity to these young high school students, and in return met with a most enthusiastic response. The festival that each of these schools was eager to unite in producing something worth while and that the students were ready to devote their time and talents in order that they might be a credit to their respective schools.

"A Winter's Tale" by the Berkeley High School was unique. Unique, not because the actors displayed more talent, not because the costumes were more beautiful nor the singing and dancing more delightful than the same elements in the production of their fellow participants, but because in the work of preparation, in the various details attendant on such a work, they had employed the talents and utilized the enthusiasm of almost every department in the school. The costumes were designed by the art department and executed by the sewing classes, the properties were made by students in the department of manual training, the orchestra of the school furnished the incidental music and the whole piece was directed by the faculty of the English department with the assistance of some of the alumni.

Here then we have a play presented in the true amateur spirit—a spirit found only where people set about doing something for love of the doing. With the exception of the materials used in the costumes and properties no money was spent. Not a cent paid for services, no hired costumes or properties and no paid orchestra or coaches.

SPRIT WORTH FOSTERING
And so following this production, the cast and members of the faculty interested, believing that the spirit and enthusiasm shown in this work is worth fostering and that the interest of the school in productions of this kind, done in this way, should be made continuous and consecutive, have formed a society in the Berkeley High School to further their aims and perpetuate them in future productions. Not a dramatic society in the common acceptance of that word but a society whose framework is large enough and all embracing enough to include all those departments of the school which are called into service in the production of a play in this new way. Not an honor society, but a working organization, presenting the opportunity to each young student in the school, no matter in what direction his or her talents may lie to perform his share. This brings all into actual participation, and the boy who bends a shepherd's crook in the shop and the girl who sews a seam on one of the costumes, become as much an integral part of the completed performance as the star actor of the school.

The original draft of the society includes a department of music, whose part in a production is obvious, a department of dancing, a costume department whose work consists in the execution of the costumes, in conjunction with the art department whose designs for the costumes of the first play have already been bound by the book-binding section and filed in the library of the society as a record and for reference in the future. This department will have charge of the arrangement and preservation of the wardrobe which with each year's addition will in a few years grow to a considerable size. Included in the plan is a department of properties which will be made up of students in the branches of manual training, all the properties used in "A Winter's Tale" were made in the shops of the Berkeley High School and will be kept by the master of properties for use again in the future.

LITERATURE OF DRAMA.
Coming to the actual play itself, there will be a department dealing with the literature of the drama. This department will in a way supplement the English work now in the regular school curriculum. Here various plays will be read and discussed, and those deemed to be best suited for possible production will be kept in readiness to offer to the whole society when the time comes each year to select a play. Another department will take up a course of study in the art of acting, including voice production, the art of expression, gesture and deportment. The department shall aim not only to prepare students to fill the roles in the annual play, but also to assist the average student to speak his native tongue clearly, purely, and with a better enunciation and expression, to help him to overcome his self-consciousness and to acquire an ease and poise so noticeably lacking in young men and women of the high school age. This branch will from time to time during the course of the year present scenes from different plays for the entertainment of the society in general. Still another department will be formed for those students interested in the history of the drama. Before them lectures will be given dealing with the various epochs in the history of the theater and the drama.

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF 35.
The executive board, or controlling body of the society, will consist of the students who attain to speaking parts in the annual play, seven or eight members of the faculty of the English department, and a representative from each of the above mentioned departments or sections. This will make a working body of about thirty who will elect a president and other officers, including a librarian who will be required to keep a record of the performance of the year, photographs of the cast and chorus, hand designs of costumes, the prompt book, and all data collected during the year which bear directly on the work of the play. This body will also elect an historian whose duty it will be to write the chronicles of the year, including those in an account of the work done in preparing the annual play, an account of the play itself, and any extracts from the minutes of the society, or from the speeches delivered before the various sections during the year.

Here a plan has been briefly outlined for a society possessing a definite aim, with high ideals, and organized in such a way that he utilizing and bringing into participation every interested member of the student body of the school the realization of these aims and ideals become a possibility.

tember the various departments will at once commence on their particular duties, the designing of the costumes, the execution of the properties, the selection and preparation of the music and dancing. The cast will be selected in January, and the work of putting the almost completed blocks into shape and the arrangement of the completed picture will be commenced. In April, with all the rough corners polished down, with each completed part placed in the mosaic like picture, will come the performances, the culminating point in the year's work. The society will then throw open the doors of the theater and invite the public to come as its guests and receive from the presentation of the completed work some of the pleasures which the school has experienced in its preparation.

And, so in this way and through the means of a society such as this we have the opportunity to reach the attention of the next generation while its mind is still in a formative state and if we make the most of such an opportunity as this we should be able to develop a taste in regard to the things of the theater that will be more effective than all the elaborate attempts to alter the adult mind whose taste is already fixed in the habits of the past. The theater, like every other institution is a reflection of the people and the only way to raise the theater is to begin by raising the standards of taste in the people to a point where the tawdry and cheap and superficial will no longer appeal to them. Working in this way and with such a spirit actuating all concerned, without a cent paid to anyone in the preparation, nor a cent demanded from the audience at the completion, by thus removing absolutely the corroding influence of money from the work, we may hope that a real art born of enthusiasm may appear.

WHEN IZETTA JEWEL "SUPED"

Izetta Jewel, who, during the last summer was one of the most popular visiting stars at the Liberty, has been playing "Madame X" with the Poll stock company in Washington, D. C. At the same time she has been telling the reviewers there of her experiences as a "super" in Sarah Bernhardt's company in the same play when the great French actress was out here on the coast.

Speaking of her experience, she told the following:
"A fellow actress and I arranged to go on the stage in our customary manner. Instead of being paid for our services we had to buy the privilege from some of the regular people."

"During the whole of the trial scene I stood where I could watch Mme. Bernhardt's face, which was hidden from the audience by her heavy brown veil, which she held before her eyes during most of this act. So tragic was the pose of this wonderful actress, as I had seen her from the other side of the footlights, that I had imagined her face must reflect deep emotion even though invisible to those in front. What was my surprise, however, to see the great actress, behind her veil, carrying on an animated conversation with various members of the French company and even joking with some of them so that they could not help but smile at her. I had never seen her so happy and so at ease. But when the moment came for Madame X to drop the veil and give that heart-thrilling sketch of conversation, the mention of her son's name, the change was magical. I could hardly bring myself to believe that I had seen aught. "At the end of the scene the stage was all confusion, filled with members of the company and superintendents. Then came the first time this season in New York the first work in August."

After Charles Heston's local engagement in "Dear Old Charlie," he will take to London the entire production of "Interior Sex," played here by Maxine Elliott.

Hattie Williams and practically an all-star cast for the performance of "The Girl from Montmartre," a genuinely humorous farce with music, will leave for the first time this season in New York the first work in August.

Footlight Flashes

ELLIAN BURKHARDT GOLD-SMITH, the former vaudeville star and recently successful lecturer here and in San Francisco on subjects pertaining to the drama, has gone back on the boards. She is now appearing in the Mission play at the Mission San Gabriel, a novelty that has struck the fancy of the southerners with appealing force.

Stella Archer, a former member of the company at the Liberty, and seen here the past winter with Robert Hilliard in "Cool There Was" is a member of Hilliard's new company giving "The Avalanche," a comedy by the setar and W. A. Tremayne. Another member of the company known here is Alleen Flaven, who was the soubrette with the comic opera company at Idora Park early last summer.

Molly Maintry will play the title role of "Buntz" in the delightful Scotch comedy, "Buntz Pulls the Strings," when it is seen here shortly. The play has been one of the few really big successes of the New York season.

Ethel Barrymore is to tour the country during the coming season in a repertoire of her best successes.

When Henrietta Crossman appears here in her new comedy, "The Real Thing," she will have three supporting players of particular excellence. They are Josephine Lovett, Fred Tiden and Albert Brown. Miss Lovett was one of the "Shirley Rossmores" in the New York production of "The Lion and the Mouse." Tiden has supported practically every star of note, while Brown, who has made an especial success, has been a prominent player in stock.

Kolb and Dill, who will be seen here this coming week, began their season in Los Angeles on June 9. They will open in "The Girl in the Train," which has been so successful that Oliver Morosco has booked the comedians in the southern city for a seven weeks' engagement. Later it is understood he will send them to Chicago in "The Politicians," with possibly a New York engagement.

Ora Waldron, former Oakland favorite, is playing the leading woman's role in "The Marriage-Not" at Maxine Elliott's theater in New York. The play is a comedy by a San Francisco man, Joseph Noel, and in it Miss Waldron has received excellent notices.

Sixty thousand dollars are being spent by William K. Vanderbilt and his associates in transforming the roof of the Century Theater, New York, into the first children's theater ever established in the United States.

Pierre Loti, according to the Abbe Ernest Vimet, writing in the Saturday Review, is one of five men who really mean anything among the Forty Immortals of the French Academy. The other four are given as MM. France, Leconte de Lisle, Baudelaire, and Loti and the other four, says the Abbe, "are men in whose presence you cannot find yourself without feeling that they are the embodiment of a great portion of French activity. What Loti and the others thought millions have thought after them in unconscious docility; their particular manner of viewing the world, their moral attitude towards it have been so copied as gradually to become familiar even to the man in the street." Pierre Loti is to visit the United States this fall to be present at the production of his Chinese play, "The Daughter of Heaven."

"General John Regan" is the name of a new play which George C. Tyler, managing director of the Lyceum Co., has just bought in London. It is said to be a delightful satire on life in rural Ireland.

Viola Allen has closed her season in "The Herford," a play dealing with a man and wife, both of whom are sculptors, and their young daughter, whose proper rearing is threatened by the demands of her parents' art. Miss Allen H. B. Warner is in the enjoyment of a dual pleasure—playing "Alma Jimmy Valentine" to capacity at the Plymouth Theater, Boston, and thereafter adopting merrily to Bass Rock, Mass., in his 50th year, "The Safe Opener." At Bass Rock Warner has what he calls a message, and he gives it out that the main reason for his accepting the Boston time was that Boston is hard by Bass Rock. "Alma Jimmy" profits bought the "message" for H. B.

toured through the South and West and accumulated such tidy takings as $3000 a performance in even the smaller towns. Miss Allen doesn't really stand in need of such material recognition, her husband, Peter Duryea, being a man of large wealth. But she takes as much interest as her work as if her livelihood depended on it.

"The Garden of Allah" closed its first season May 18. It played for thirty continuous weeks to the largest money offer paid over a box office window for a dramatic attraction. It is estimated that that Robert Hichens-Mary Anderson play has been seen by 375,000 persons at more than a million dollars. The first month of business averaged more than $3000 a performance, and for the entire run, more than $2000 average had been maintained—easily the record-breaker. It will reopen in Chicago Labor Day, the Auditorium being the Middle West scene of Allah's garden.

Amelia Gardiner, playing in "The Unwritten Law," is a likely candidate for future stardom. Her record for the past few seasons has been an unbroken succession of personal triumphs. She is essentially a womanly actress, with an appealing, sympathetic personality.

It seems that the President sets the styles in theater-going. He attended the first performance of "Romance of the West" in Washington, and there was not a seat unfilled throughout the rest of the engagement of this charming comedy in the Capital city.

"The Gossoon" with Carroll Johnson, Irish singing comedian, as the featured player, was the only theatrical attraction of the week beginning Sunday, May 26, 1912, in Oakland. Play and player were seen at the now defunct Oakland theater.

Maud Granger, who was "Aunt Ida," in one of the hits of Margaret Anglin's comedy, "Green Stockings," to be seen at the Macdonough next week, appeared as a star at the Oakland theater some twenty years ago. At that time she was considered one of the most beautiful and talented actresses on our stage, and when she appeared here in "Inheritance" and "The Creole," had a large following. She played here on February 2 and 3, 1912, and so far as theatrical records show, has not been seen on the coast since that time.

Florence Roberts has been appearing in Seattle this week at the Orpheum in "The Miracle." It is described as being intensely dramatic, and in it we shall soon see the popular star at the local Orpheum.

Ann Murdock, whose success as the girly bride in "Excuse Me" this past season, is still pleasantly remembered, will be featured in a new play next season, according to reports from New York. Willis Sweetman, who was the negro porter of the farce, will have the role again for another year.

A professor in the University of Chicago, connected with the amazing discovery that Washington Irving stole the story of "Van Winkle," because slight points of exact similarity occur between this legend and a narrative in the letters of Desiderius Erasmus, a fifteenth century citizen of Holland. If the learned gentleman would examine the literature of other nations, also, he would doubtless discover that it appears elsewhere in even earlier folklores. Washington Irving never claimed to have originated the plot. Will M. Cressy broke out while playing at Toronto. He told a local newspaper, "The average actor can just as well have Jack Rabbit, probably because the actors have 'kitten' on to Mr. Cressy, and don't buy his sketches any more. The main point of Cressy's discouragement was that vaudevillians spent more money on everything excepting a sketch."

When Billie Burke ends her present season in "The Runaway," which has given her one of the best acting roles she has ever had—she will turn at once to memorizing her next season's part, the heroine of "The Mind-Trap," the Flinno play that created such a sensation in London, where it is still running.

The Incivility Of The Unemployed Woman

"The Faces of Rude Women Become Cat-Like, Only Cats Are Prettier. Hard Lines Form Around the Mouth. Chins Are Pressed Down Until Baggy. Any Woman Who Cares for Her Looks Must Practice Civility" — Says

Lillian Russell

S. T. P.: If you wish to keep your hair light it is necessary to wash it at least every two weeks. When washing the hair add a tablespoonful of peroxide of hydrogen to the last rinsing water. Do this only once a month. Be sure to rinse the hair thoroughly, for nothing will spoil the hair more quickly than soap if it is allowed to remain in it.

If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be happy to send you a formula for an excellent shampoo for blonde hair. I would advise you to take your switch to a reliable beauty shop and have it lightened. I should not advise you to attempt to do this yourself. I shall also send you the formula for an excellent hair tonic.

"This amiable, gray haired, distinguished looking woman bristled up and turned on him fiercely."

"The sidelong critical glances they gave each other were a curious study to an observer."

MRS. E. M. S.: The following lotion is excellent for warts and also for corns: Twenty grains salicylic acid, one-eighth ounce alcohol, and one ounce flexible collodion. Mix and apply with a camel's hair brush over the hard surface of wart or corn, being exceedingly careful not to get any on the surrounding skin. Do this for three nights, then soak in hot water, when a layer of skin will come off. Continue this treatment until wart or corn has disappeared.

C. M.: You are entirely too young to have wrinkles. Are you in the habit of frowning or arching your brows? If you are, stop it; for this is bound to make ugly wrinkles in your forehead. Massage with a good skin food is good for wrinkles. When massaging the wrinkles always massage contrary to the direction in which they run.

To get rid of blackheads the face should be thoroughly cleansed with a good cold cream at night before retiring. Do not be afraid to use water and plenty of good soap on your face. More harm is done when using too much cold cream for cleansing the face. Wash the face at least two or three times a day. Green soap also is excellent for blackheads. You can buy it at any drug store. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you the formula for an excellent cold cream, also directions for using the green soap. I shall also send you formula for skin food and directions for facial massage.

V. M. P.: I think you are too young to put your hair up without wearing a ribbon. A pretty, girlish style is to divide the hair in two parts, braiding it, then put the braids around your head. You could either wear two bows or one, whichever suits your taste. It is hard to advise one whom you never have seen how to wear her hair. I would suggest that you sit in front of your mirror and do your hair several different ways, then adopt the one which is most becoming to you.

The length of your dresses depends entirely upon your height and size. If you are large for your age I would advise you to wear them a little above your shoe tops. Whether you should wear a corset depends upon your size and development. If you are well developed I would advise you to wear one.

At night before retiring cover the hands with sweet almond oil, then put on an old pair of kid or cloth gloves to protect the bed linen. This will heal the hands and make them soft.

"She thought nothing of glancing rudely into her pocket book when she opened it."

Working women would never stop to think all the unbecoming thoughts that those women must have turned over in their empty minds.

Love of Self Their Only Thought.

The trouble with the unemployed is that they do not use their brains. They have them, but they only think of themselves and what they want. There is little of the "live and let live" thought in their makeup. That all proves that the women who work are more womanly and beautiful than the women who idle life away. And the women who work have so little time to think of their imaginary troubles that they look more beautiful. They are clearer in eye, complexion, and manners.

It is not masculine to be a good fellow. A pleasant smile will never compromise any woman when given to another woman. No danger ever came from a friendly word or a friendly look. In fact, faces become more lovely by the thoughts of consideration, gentility, and humanity depicted upon them.

Women can make life better and easier if they will give other women credit for being as respectable and as refined as they are themselves.

It is particularly unbecoming to middle aged or elderly women to sniff or look unpleasant; they cannot afford to distort those worn features. A smile beautifies any face.

Remember: Kind thoughts are cheap enough to indulge in freely. Unkind thoughts are an unnecessary extravagance.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MARIA: I have never heard of egg shampoo turning the hair gray. If you wish the formula for a tonic for dry hair I shall be glad to send it to you upon receipt of a stamped addressed envelope. I shall also send you the formula for a shampoo.

AFFLICTED: If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I shall be happy to send you the formula for a stronger bleach for freckles.

ETHEL K.: Hot witch hazel is good for an oily complexion and large pores. I think the two holes on your nose are just enlarged pores, and I am sure this can be remedied with an astringent. Cloths wet in hot witch hazel and placed over the nose will reduce the pores materially. I consider witch hazel one of the best astringents and a necessity. I shall be glad to send you a tonic for dandruff if you will send me a stamped envelope.

"Think kind thoughts. Practice the little courtesies of life if you would be beautiful," says Miss Russell.

BY LILLIAN RUSSELL.

NEVER realized how uncivil woman could be to one another until I had occasion several times lately to go into confectioners' and restaurants for luncheon.

During rehearsals I would go to some fashionable restaurant or some confectioner, where they serve luncheons to women, instead of going to Sherry's or Delmonico's.

I prefer the luncheon place, as everything is ready or nearly so, and, as they cater to the better class of women, the food is not cheap.

On one of these occasions my attention was attracted to a table beside me, where an amiable looking elderly woman sat alone. I was just remarking to my companion that the woman in question looked so distinguished and sweet, when the waiter stepped up to her and asked if he might seat another woman at her table, as she was in a hurry and every other table was taken.

This amiable, gray haired, distinguished looking woman bristled up and turned on him fiercely. "O, I suppose so." When the other woman took the vacant seat opposite me two glances at each other as if they were aware of some terrible reason why they should not be at the same table.

The "intruder" was quite middle aged and most demure and respectable, quite a fashionable woman I judged by her dress. The sidelong critical glances they gave each other when one of the other wasn't looking became to me a curious study.

No Reason for It At All.

When the first woman paid her check the other glanced at the amount and then into her pocketbook when she opened it, stared her up from head to foot with a malicious sniff—why I do not yet understand.

I made it my business in days to follow to go to similar places where the fashionables took luncheon to see if that case was the only one. To my surprise I saw two or three similar cases every day. In fact, I never saw two women who were placed at a table, not acquainted with each other, ever give a pleasant glance to each other. I could not help feeling it my duty to make this fact the subject of an article.

What harm could possibly come to an elderly or middle aged woman if she pleasantly remarked upon the weather or the quality of the food served in the luncheon, or even gave a pleasant smile to a stranger who might have the misfortune of being placed opposite her?

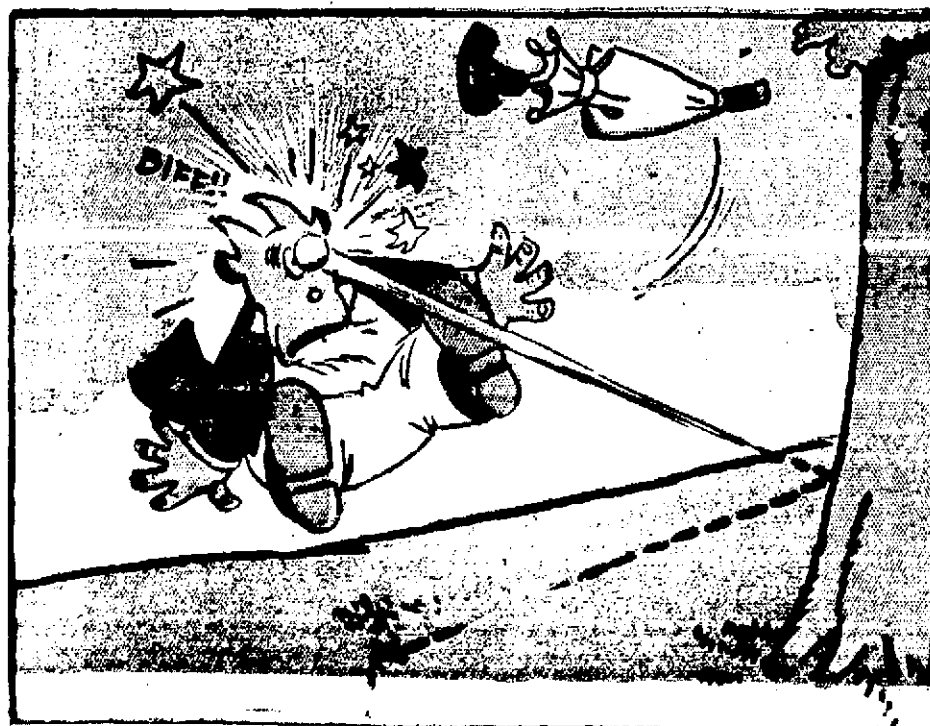

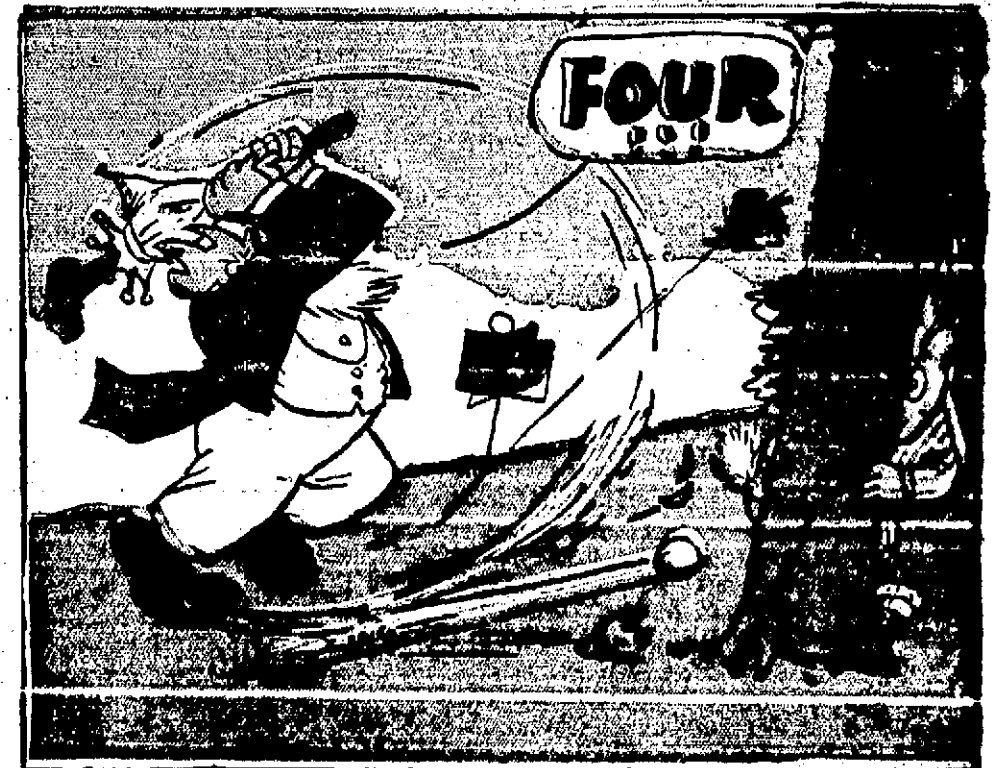

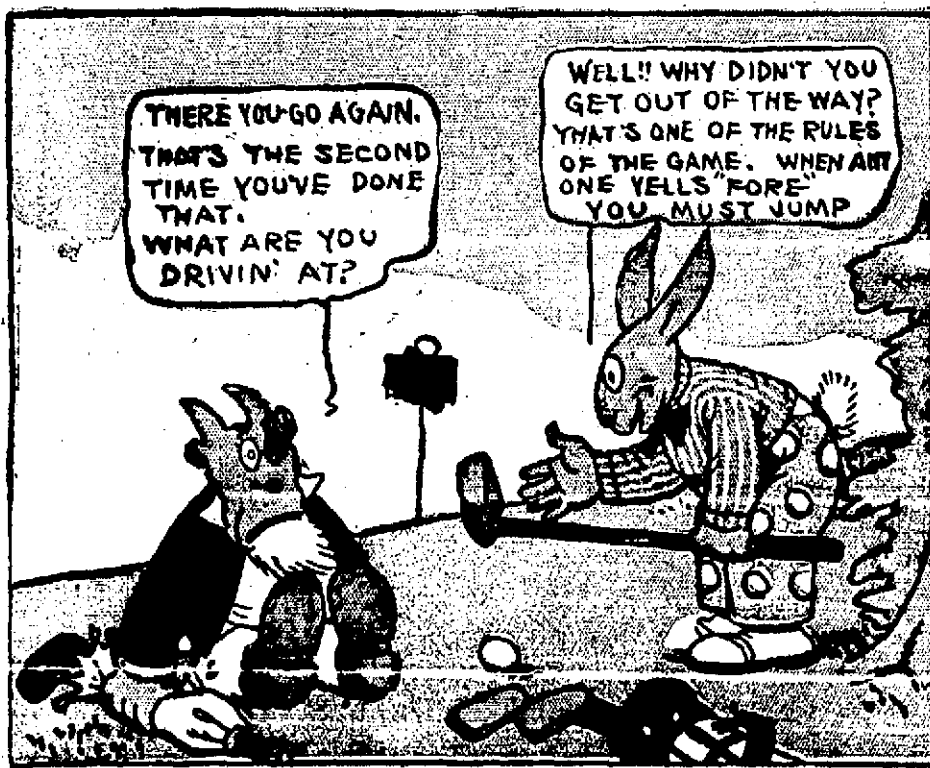

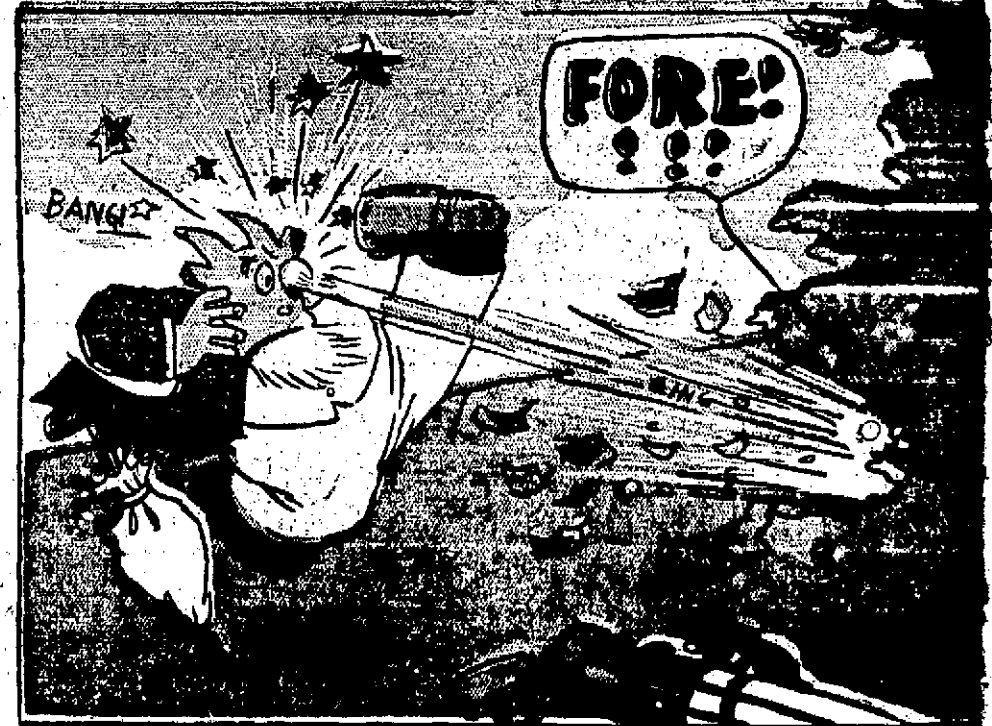

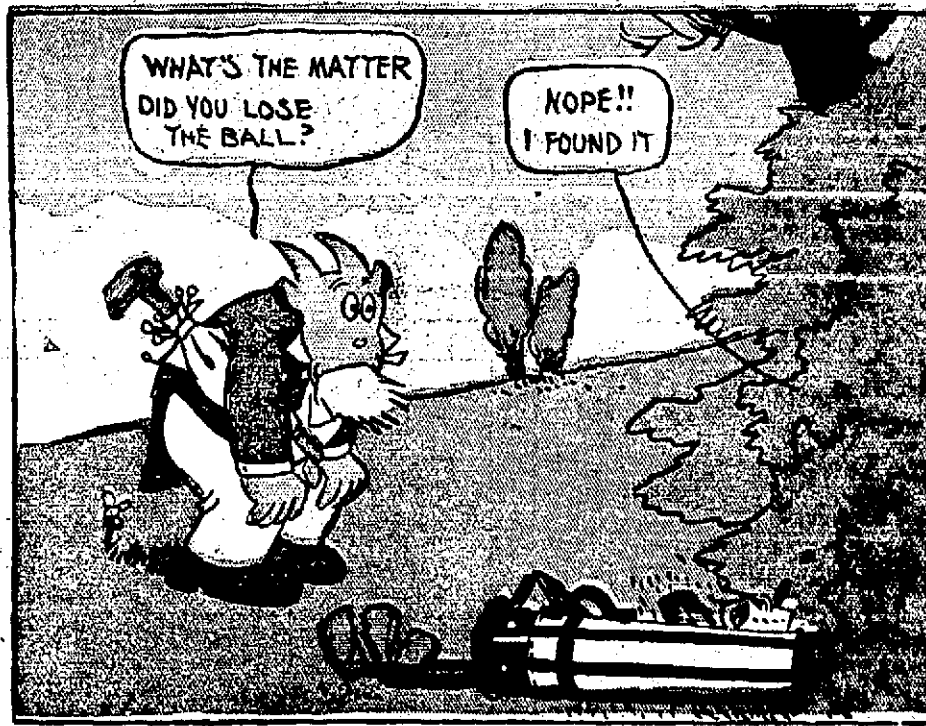

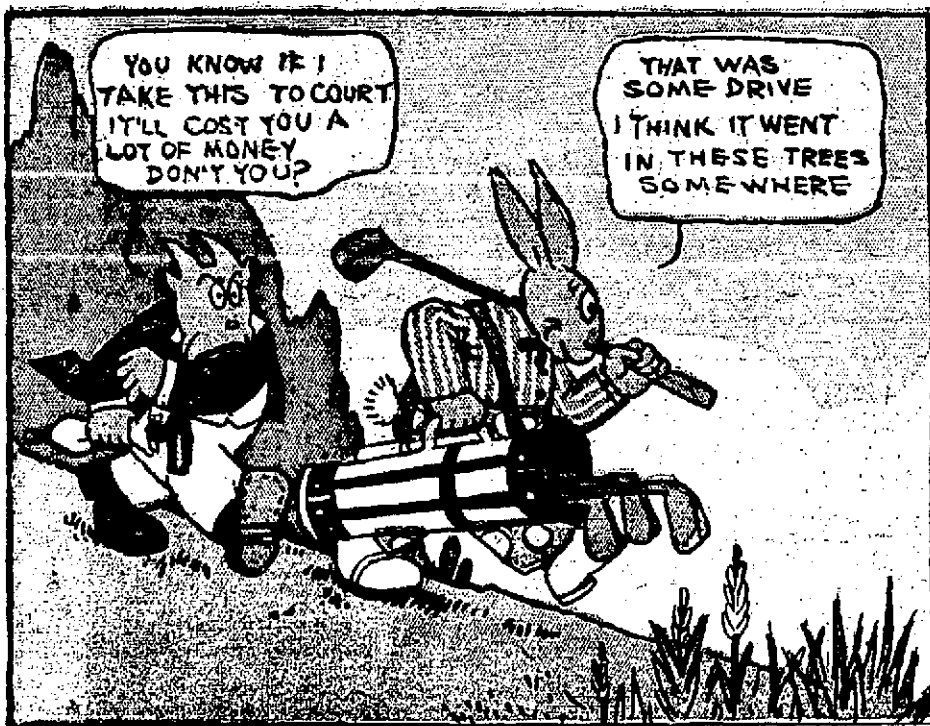

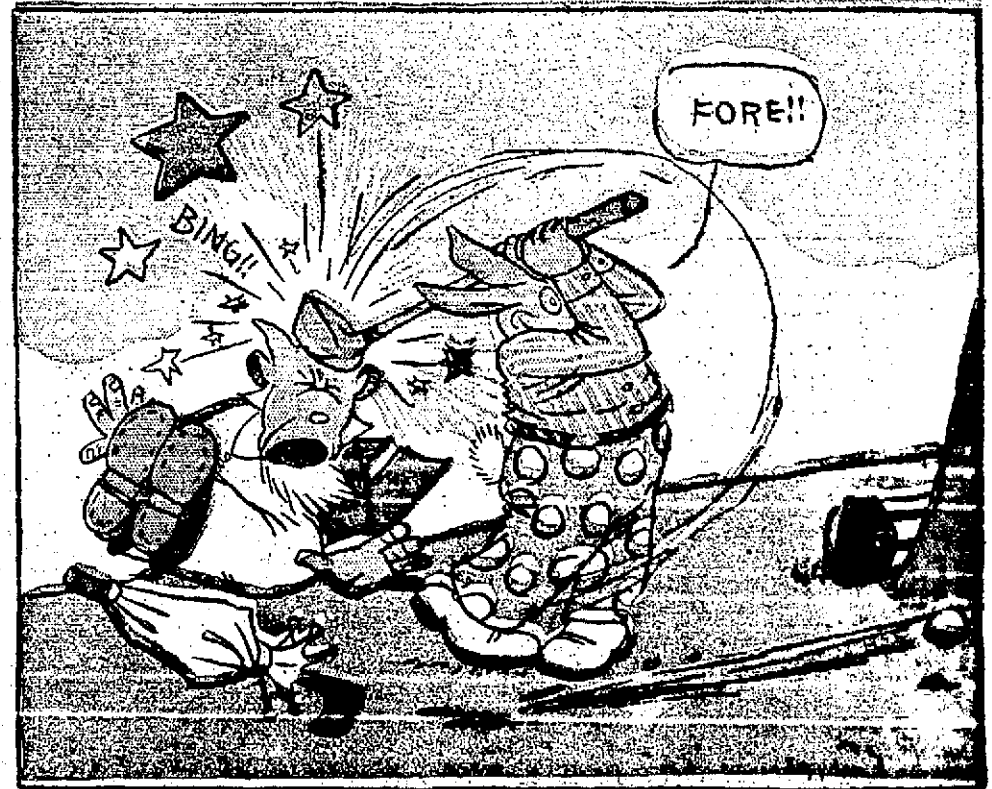

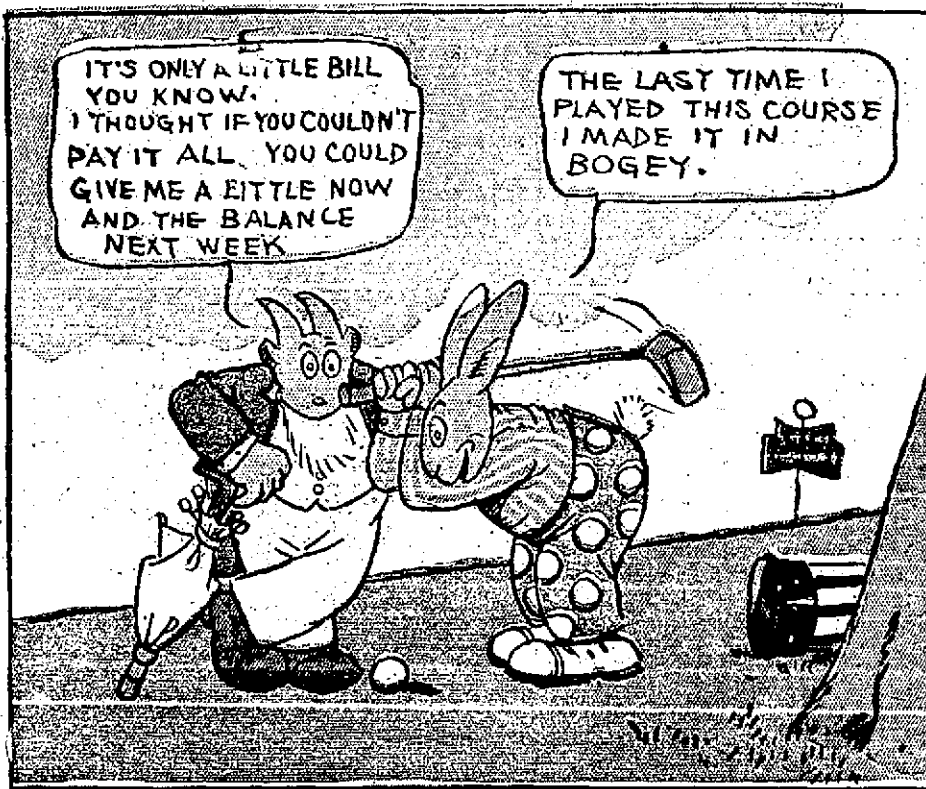

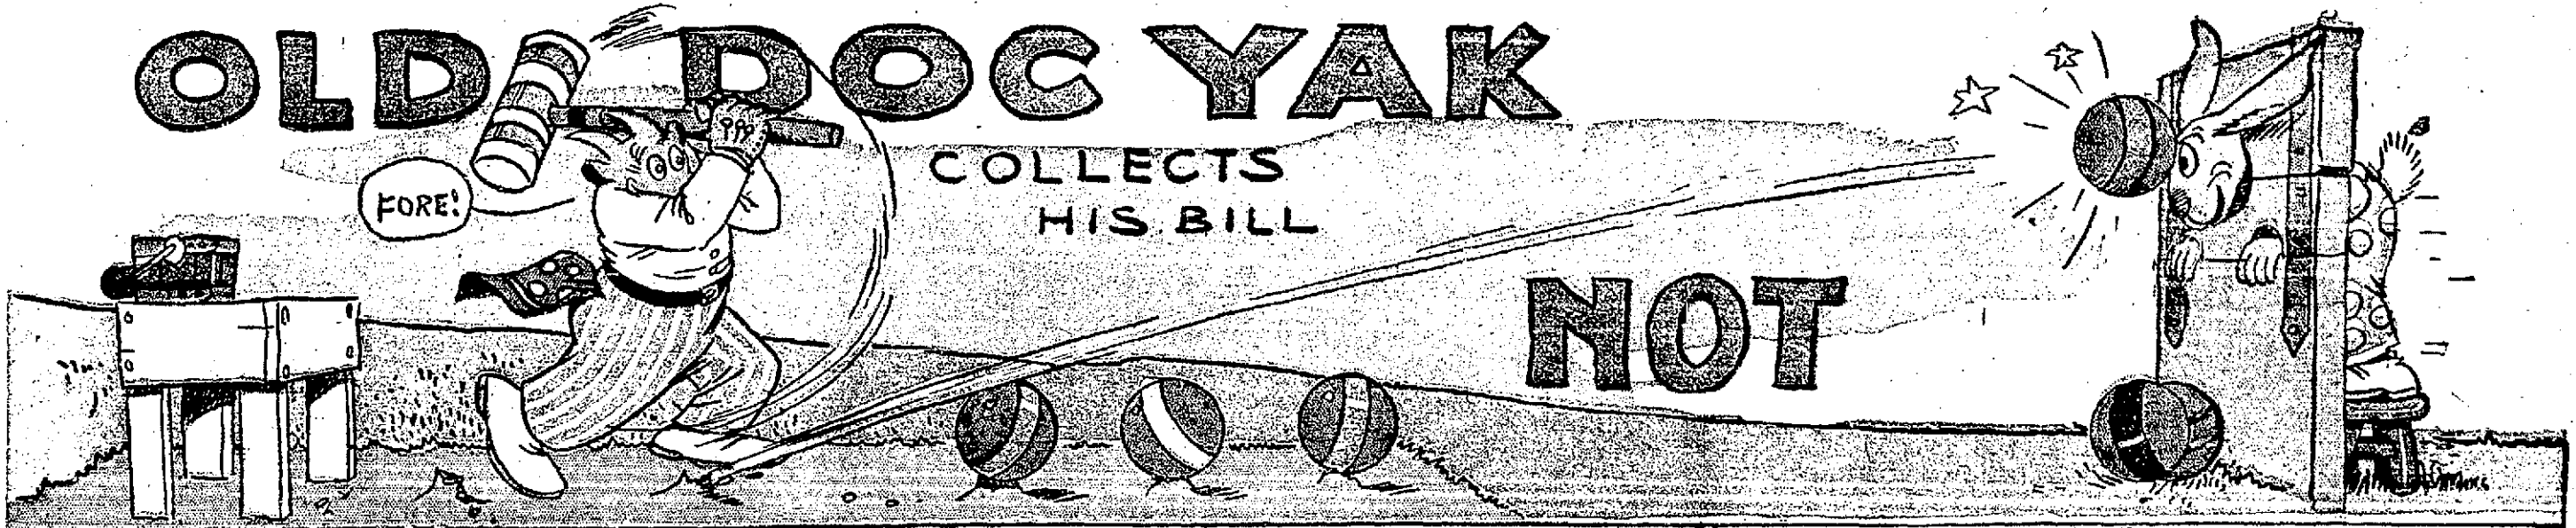

What can a woman gain by such self-aggrandizement as was exercised by those two. Their faces became catlike, only the cats were prettier. Hard lines formed around the mouth. Chins were pressed down until they had little baggy creases under them. Nostrils arose and they were altogether unlovely.

C. TOLLIVER IS MAY TOOK AND WIFE SLAIN

Former Secretary Confesses to Murdering Inventor of Airship

Lies in Wait for Couple and Shoots Them as They Enter Home

SAN DIEGO, May 25.—C. H. Tolliver, dirigible balloon inventor and builder, and his wife, were murdered here about 11 o'clock tonight. Their bodies were found in their little bungalow at Twenty-eighth and B streets about half a mile inside the city limits, by H. A. McFadden, a neighbor, who was attracted to the place by the noise of shots.

McFadden, who lives about two blocks from the Tolliver home, heard two shots fired and went to the telephone to notify the police. On the way to the phone he heard six more shots, and after telephoning he heard two more.

Running to Tolliver's house, he found Tolliver bleeding and dead in the front room. Passing through the house he discovered the lifeless body of Mrs. Tolliver with blood issuing from bullet wounds, lying on the kitchen floor. A search of the house failed to reveal the presence of firearms.

In front of the house stood Tolliver's automobile and blood was found on the cushions of the front seat. Apparently Tolliver and his wife had just arrived at the house just before the murder was committed. At midnight Bert G. Lewis, former secretary to Tolliver, was arrested and immediately confessed to the crime.

"I DID IT," When arrested Lewis said: "I did it. He stated that during the absence of Tolliver and his wife this evening he went to the house, coaxed away the bulldog which guarded the premises, and then he went into the house. Returning to the house, he found Tolliver and his wife, killing them as they reached the door. Lewis said Tolliver seemed to be in a hurry, and he saw him looking at the door. Tolliver, according to him, was carrying a package.

Captain Told Him First That Vessel Was Doomed, So He Escaped Quickly

Senator Compares Actions of J. Bruce and Those of J. J. Astor

NEW YORK, May 25.—New evidence purporting to show that the Titanic was going at full speed, with all but five of her 24 boilers lighted, was the night the great ship was given today aboard the White Star liner Olympic by Fred Barrett, former chief fireman of the Titanic, but now of the Olympic, to Senator William Alden Smith, chairman of the investigating committee.

Barrett said that he was in the forward compartment of the ship when she hit the iceberg. "The water rushed in about 2 feet above the floor plates," said the fireman. "I jumped for the next compartment, No. 5, just as the watertight door closed. There were only two in the forward compartment who escaped. The ship was a long one. At the same time the red lights—danger signals—came up."

GOING AT HIGH SPEED. Barrett then explained that the signal had previously shown white, indicating full speed. "How many boilers were lit?" asked the Senator. "All but five out of the 24," said the fireman. "I don't know, though, whether they were all connected up or not."

Senator Smith said later that this testimony was the most significant he had yet obtained on the question as to whether the Titanic was out to make a record.

CAPTAIN IS QUIZZED. Senator Smith, with Rear-Admiral Watt, chief of construction of the navy, posed the Olympic to question Captain Haddock and Wireless Operator Moore. The drift of the questions asked by Senator Smith showed he was anxious to ascertain how Captain Haddock had handled the first messages that came to him showing that the Titanic was lost.

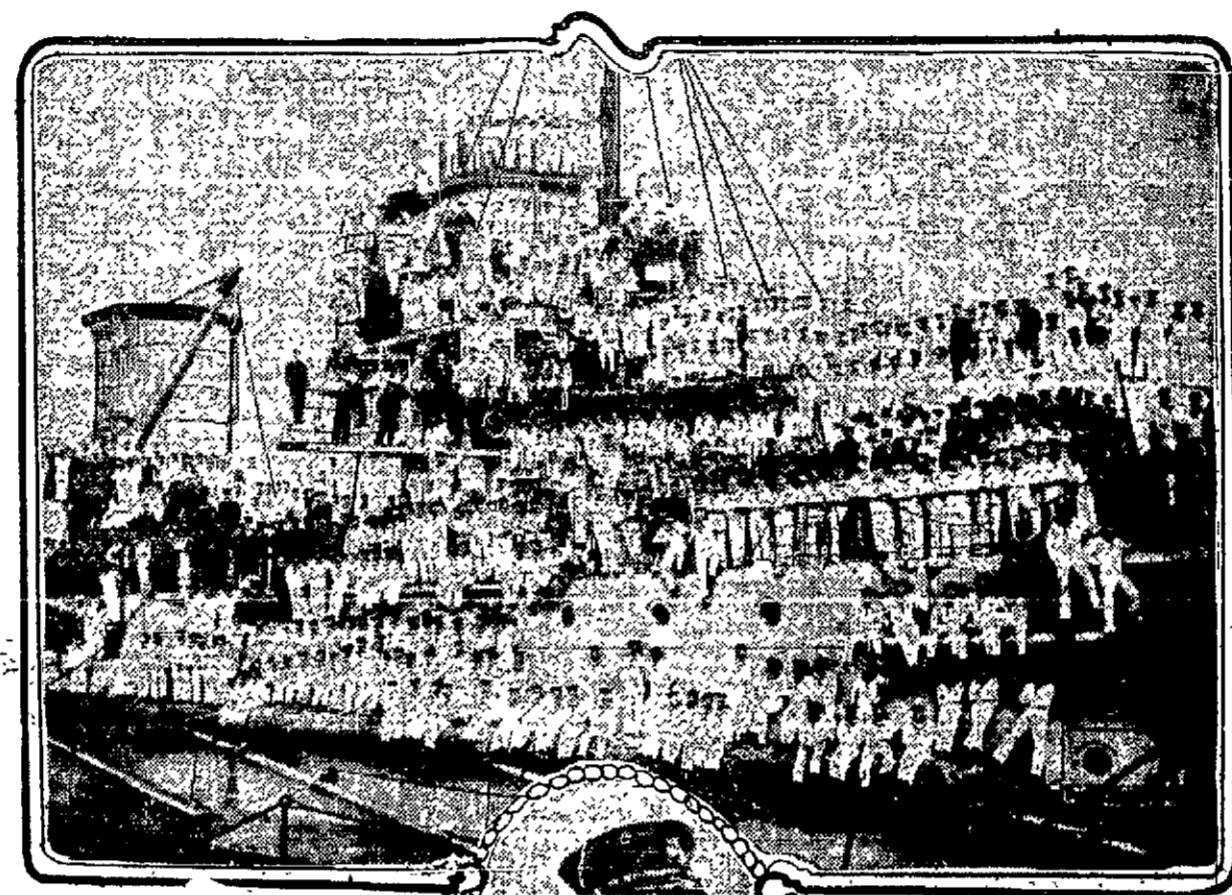

Herbert Cottam, wireless operator of the Carpathia, bottled up for many hours, on his own initiative and ability.

DELEGATES SHY AT BOOSTING GOVERNOR

Johnson Not Mentioned as Vice-Presidential Candidate

(BY EDWARD H. HAMILTON.) SACRAMENTO, May 25.—The Roosevelt delegates and leaders have been eating and discussing for the good part of a day, guests of the governor at luncheon and dinner, and during their talking in the governor's private office. And yet they have not formally put Governor Johnson into the fight for the vice-presidential nomination. Colonel Roosevelt has invited him to make a second speech in Chicago in the Roosevelt behalf, and he has agreed to make it. But when it comes to that vice-presidential boom, there is a strange shyness.

"I would not know how to approach the governor on the subject," said Senator John W. Peterson, president of the Roosevelt League. "I don't know his views in the matter."

A BIT IN AWE. All of which shows that the progressives are a bit in awe of their governor. Then, too, some of them fear that Johnson is too conservative. They fear that without him the progressive cause would go to pot.

"If Johnson remains as governor we know we can re-elect him," said one of the delegates, "but if he should become vice-president, we would have a man who would be the next governor of California. Lieutenant Governor Wallace is well meaning enough, but is not a leader, a sort of sour ball, in fact. We need Johnson right here."

Francis J. Honey said it might be necessary to use the vice-presidency in doing some trading for Roosevelt, or in the view of strengthening him after his nomination by bracing up a doubtful state. With this in law, there has been mention of Governor Hadley of Missouri, former Senator Beveridge of Indiana and some man from Michigan.

NO KNIGHT SUCCESSOR. And as the vice-presidency was kept in the background for all the talk, so there was nothing done about selecting a knight successor. It was tacitly agreed that the matter should go over until the delegates were on their way to Chicago over the Santa Fe.

The two aspirants for the national committee place are Meyer Lissner of Los Angeles, chairman of the Republican state committee, and Chester H. Rowell, editor of the Fresno Republican. Rowell could not be present today because he was concerned with the obsequies of his uncle, Dr. Chester Rowell, whose heir he is and whose controlling interest in the Republican will now go to him.

SPECIAL TRAIN. It was decided to make the pilgrimage to Chicago over the Santa Fe. Representatives of that road and of the Southern Pacific and Western Pacific argued long and hard to have their respective roads favored. The Santa Fe won out by reason of the desire of the southern progressives to entertain the delegates in Los Angeles. So it was agreed that the special delegation train shall leave San Francisco June 11; then the reception in Los Angeles will be held on the 12th. There will be a stiff breeze blowing. The crack yacht Fiere de Lis won the class A.

Warm Welcome Will Be Accorded Admiral and His Men

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The warm welcome accorded a division of the United States Atlantic fleet on its visit to Germany last year will be equalled, and, if possible, outdone, by the demonstration that will greet Rear Admiral Robeson Paschowitz, in command of the German flagship Moltke, and the cruisers Statia and Bremen, when he and his ships visit this country this week. From the time they arrive off Cape Henry, on May 30, to the date of their departure from New York on June 13, the German officers and men will be the guests of the navy department, and will be the objects of a program of entertainment that will include everything from a visit to the President of the United States to receptions by the cities on their itinerary, and private dining parties.

For weeks the navy officials have been busy planning the entertainment of the foreigners, even arranging to meet the German admiral and his fleet off Cape Henry with two of the newest ships of the United States navy—the Utah and the Florida. These boats will salute the visitors and escort them to Hampton Roads, where they are expected to arrive on June 8. Here their anchorage will be made to the accompaniment of a roar of welcome from the sailors of the entire Atlantic fleet, which will be assembled especially for the occasion.

June 4 will be given over to visits between the American and German officers and men, and the performance of naval manoeuvres for the benefit of the visitors. Beginning June 6, the German admiral and his officers will be the guests of the navy department and President Taft. They will be entertained by the President in the evening.

Flag Is Not Desecrated by I.W.W. Members in N. Y.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The American flag, which was trampled upon at a previous similar meeting, was not desecrated at the meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World in Union square today. Just after William D. Haywood mounted the platform to address the throng, two elderly women with large flags pinned on their breasts, edged their way to the front and stood before the speaker's stand. Behind them stood two American soldiers with their arms crossed.

"I heard the anarchists were going to tear down the flag, and so Mrs. Cunningham and myself came down here to dare them to do it," said Mrs. F. J. Warnecke. "Both of us belong to the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic. These people don't love the flag because they don't know it. None that they love have ever followed these color."

Haywood only looked down and glowered. The Industrial Workers denounced the arrest of their leaders at Lawrence, Mass., and San Diego, Cal., but no violence was offered the flag. More than 100 plain clothes men and members of the strong-arm squad were scattered among the crowd.

ed to arrest him. As he fell the officer drew his revolver and fired twice, wounding him in the chest and arm. The assailant, one bullet passing through Lopez' abdomen and the other through his hip. Farmer dragged himself to the house of a caretaker in the Huntington grounds, where he gasped out a call for aid from police headquarters. Surgeons, who examined the officer, said he had small chances of recovery.

General W. W. Wotherspoon, now in command of the department of the Gulf at Atlanta, to be a major-general. The vacancy caused by General Wotherspoon's promotion would be filled by the transfer to the line of Brigadier-General Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau.

There are two other vacancies among the ranks of the brigadiers caused by the retirement of General Brush and the death of General Duncan. It is the intention in filling these to recognize the services of some of the old veteran colonels, soon to retire. The slate includes the name of Colonel G. F. Chase of the cavalry, now an inspector at Governor's Island, and Colonel Edward J. McClelland, First Cavalry, now at the Presidio, San Francisco. These officers will retire for age in July and December, respectively.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Four high army vacancies, one in the grade of major-general and three among the brigadier-generals, will be filled next Wednesday when President Taft returns to Washington. If he accepts the recommendations of Secretary Timson, he will nominate Brigadier-General W. W. Wotherspoon, now in command of the department of the Gulf at Atlanta, to be a major-general. The vacancy caused by General Wotherspoon's promotion would be filled by the transfer to the line of Brigadier-General Clarence R. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau.

The gunboat Paducah, with marines aboard, received hurry orders to proceed to that point today.

Pacific Torpedo Boat Is Coming for Repairs. Iris Expected at Mare Island and Will Return South in July.

MARE ISLAND, May 25.—According to information received at Mare Island today the parent ship, Iris, of the Pacific torpedo boat flotilla, which has been stationed for some time past at San Diego bay, is to arrive at the local naval station some time early next month from southern waters to undergo extensive overhauling. The Iris will be conveyed to the coast by the big Mare Island built collier Prometheus of the Pacific coast auxiliary fleet. The Iris will probably proceed to San Diego in July in company with the submarine Alert and the new submarines F-1 and F-3.

German Aviators May Go on Strike. BERLIN, May 25.—The German professional aviators have unanimously decided to strike tomorrow if the demands of the German Aviators' Union for a minimum wage of $75 monthly, which was presented today to the aeroplane construction companies, is not granted before noon. Tomorrow is the principal day of the aviator week, and a strike of the aviators will cause its failure.

It is stated that the wages of some of the professional aviators are as low as $37.50 a month.

White-Winged Yachts Race Across Bay to Vallejo. VALLEJO, May 25.—Twenty-two yachts of the San Francisco Yacht Club participated in the first race of the season to Vallejo this afternoon. The boats made fast time up to the bay, as there was a stiff breeze blowing. The crack yacht Fiere de Lis won the class A event. The boat had a 25-minute handicap. The challenger, owned by W. G. Morrow, won the class B event, sailing from scratch. The challenger arrived at the finish line at Vallejo at 4:35 p. m. Tomorrow the same yacht will take part in the return race from Vallejo to San Francisco.

Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan issued to the entire 28 delegates their credentials and certifications under the state primary law, but the Taft

German as to what the stand-patters were driving at in that district. They seemed to scent some charge of fraud. In the matter of routine work, Governor Johnson was chosen chairman of the delegation and Philip Bancroft of San Francisco the secretary of foreign affairs. East Side Boys Start the City Beautiful Activity

Although the general observance of the "city beautiful" movement in Oakland was not carried out yesterday on account of the rain, the day did not pass without some signs of the energy which is to remake the city into a cleaner and more beautiful one. In several sections of the city the boys had their workers out cleaning up weeds and rubbish and otherwise indicating what they mean to do when the postponed observance of the day occurs during the coming week.

In the Seventh ward, where Mrs. N. C. Lake is chairman, with headquarters at the Garfield school, the boys in the east side settlement gathered and carried out their share of work in and near Dennison and East Nineteenth streets and Twenty-third avenue. Following the work, luncheon was served to the boys and their captains at the Garfield school building while the "Garfield boys" band played to encourage the workers. The mothers' club of the section was in charge of the luncheon.

Mrs. Zoe Green Radcliffe, who is the prime mover in the "city beautiful" movement, has yet announced the day during the coming week when the general observance of the municipal clean-up will take place.

TO SET DATE.

The time will probably be set, however, within the next few days. At that time the work in the various wards will be in charge of the chairmen and captains, who have been assigned as follows:

WOMEN GUESTS OF THE ALASKA CLUB

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—With an elaborate entertainment, and dance, the women guests of the Alaska club were welcomed into the handsome new quarters of the organization at 4 Eddy street this evening.

The Alaska club only recently took formal possession of its new home, and last night was the first occasion on which the quarters have been thrown open to the ladies.

Edgar A. Minkner opened the program with a few remarks, after which President Howard H. Hart made an address of welcome to the guests. Captain H. H. Norwood also made a brief talk, explaining the aims of the club in promoting social intercourse among its members.

A feature of the musical program was a song by Miss Regina Stuart, followed by a violin solo by Mrs. Carrie Gobel. Several professional entertainers assisted during the evening.

The entertainment committee of the club, which had the reception in charge, was composed of the following:

J. B. Zimbar, chairman; William M. Webster, D. W. Sample, Olaf Lindholm, C. E. Crutcher, Arthur S. Burpee, Fred Thoenner, W. Millmore, M. A. Tucker, George S. Dunn, George W. Butler, C. G. Benke, L. REBELS FAIL TO HALT TWO BRIDES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—The pretty romance of a double wedding, which the exigencies of political disturbances in Mexico could not interrupt was completed this evening at Trinity church when Rev. F. W. Clappett simultaneously united two young officers of Uncle Sam's navy to two belles from Washington, who arrived here this morning from the east under the chaperonage of an aunt rather than postpone their wedding until their absence could obtain leaves of absence.

The couples united are Assistant Paymaster Arthur Middleton, who married Miss Olive India Lewis, and Ensign Edwin Guthrie, whose bride was Miss Ruth Genevieve Field. The only attendant at both ceremonies was the aunt of the two young women, Mrs. H. W. Marshall, who accompanied them from the east.

The young men are officers on the U. S. S. Yorktown. They had met their brides at a state hall last year at the capital and were to have been married there with elaborate ceremonies, but when Mexican disturbances arose, found it impossible to secure furloughs, so induced the young women to join them at San Diego. After their brides elect had left Washington the ship was ordered to this port. Then the telegraph was resorted to in order to change the rendezvous to this city.

JUDGE ACCUSED OF BUILDING SPITE FENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—S. C. Smith of 824 Astor street filed a second communication with the supervisors today, protesting against the alleged spite fence erected by Judge Thomas F. Graham, and inviting the supervisors to inspect the barrier.

Smith said that the fence made his father ill, that it was 64 feet high and that the Judge built it in a "spirit of revenge." He said that his father was willing to front the windows of his flat, so that tenants could not look into the Judge's windows, and that as the Judge's windows were so high, the tenants would have to lean far out of the windows to gaze into the home of the jurist.

Heretofore large wine shipments were made by the water route, but recently transcontinental rates for shipping tank cars were made and local shippers have fitted up sufficient cars to carry the wine surplus to the East. Each car carries 6500 gallons.

INSTALL WIRELESS ON NORWEGIAN FREIGHTER

Grace Company's Vessels All to Be Equipped With the Marconi Outfits.

LOADING OF CEMENT
IS DELAYED BY RAIN

New Crowley Launch Soon to Join Fleet of Small Craft.

The repairs to the Norwegian freighter Curo of the W. H. Grace line are nearly completed and it is believed that the vessel will be ready for commission in a few weeks. In addition to the Curo's repairs the vessel is having a powerful Marconi wireless system installed at the Moore and Scott shipyards where she is undergoing repairs. The installation of the Marconi system aboard the freighter was, according to officials of the Grace company, brought about by the Titanic disaster and to prevent a similar fate happening to any of their craft. The Grace people are said to be making arrangements to establish wireless outfits aboard all of their liners.

The wireless system has been installed in several windjammers sailing for the northern fisheries and, according to report, every windjammer in the fleet of the Alaska Packers Association and North Alaska Salmon Co., will open the next season with wireless outfits aboard.

The heavy rain which fell yesterday forenoon was responsible for hindering of the loading of the steam schooner Temple B. Dorr with cement at Long wharf. The longshoremen and stevedores worked under the greatest difficulties in handling the cement. Canvas thrown over the sacks kept the cement scattered enough so that it was impossible to work. The delay will result in the Dorr sailing several hours later than was scheduled. She is loading 1000 tons of cement for northern shipment.

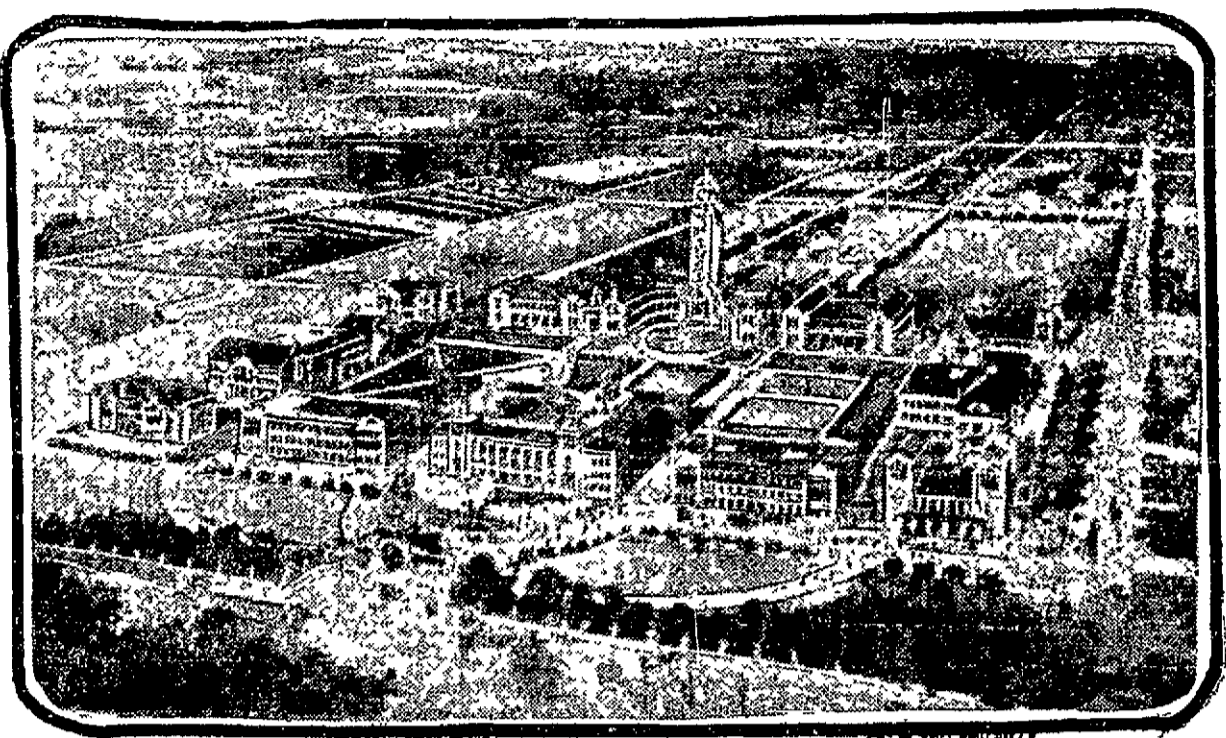

CROWLEY LAUNCH.
Work on a Crowley launch at the William C. Crowley shipyard is going forward at a rapid rate and it is hoped to launch the craft Tuesday. The launch will be known as Crowley No. 20. She is a 40 foot affair, has a 11-foot beam and a depth of 4 feet. She will be propelled by a 30 horsepower Standard gas engine. The Crowley Company has been making strenuous efforts to increase their towing fleet and for the past few months have been busy at work looking up new towboats. Thomas Crowley, president of the company, who several weeks ago made a flying trip to Europe, while up in that country purchased the tug H. H. Buhne. The vessel is at a Bremer grand having a new smokestack installed and other repairs attended to.

TO REFORM OLD SHAFT.

The breaking of the crank shaft of the river steamer Pride of the River of the California Transportation Company, resulted in the removing of the river steamer Constance from the company's Oakland-up-the-river run to the one formerly made by the Pride of the River and in the place left by the Constance the river steamer Leader is now making the run until the crank shaft to the Pride of the River has been completed. An interesting feature of the repairs to the Pride of the River is the fact that the new crank shaft is being forged out of a portion of the intermediate shaft of the old steamer City of Peking. The iron relic of the once famous liner is said to be of a better quality than is now obtainable. The broken crank shaft of the Pride of the River is 26 feet in length and weighs 16,000 pounds.

STOCKTON, May 25.—Only two pieces of unreclaimed land remain in San Joaquin county, for the McDonald and Garrett tracts containing 3800 acres were purchased Monday by Lee A. Phillips of Los Angeles, and added to his recent purchase of the Henning tract adjoining, making a new reclamation of 6100 acres as soon as the deal was made orders were given to start seven dredgers at work building levees around the tracts with the determination to bring the new lands into cultivation in two years. The big machines were put to work at once, plans for the improvement having been made while the deal was being closed. With this big purchase there remain but two unreclaimed tracts in the county, Manteville Island, owned by the Pierce estates, and the Bacon tract on Old River, owned by the Bacon heirs in Oakland.

PIONEER PASTOR TO PREACH.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—There will be a memorial service for the late Rev. Philip Coombe tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at Richmond Congregational Church, Seventh avenue and Geary street. Mr. Coombe was a pioneer pastor in the Richmond district and during the Spanish-American war was especially active among the troops encamped in the west side of the city. Dr. Cull, the present pastor, will deliver the eulogy.

Oaklanders is at the Croyer shipyard undergoing a general overhauling. The Komes freighter Osiris, Captain Schwank, completed her nitre discharge at Long wharf late last night and shifted over to San Francisco to load merchandise for Europe.

The steam schooner Brunswick, Captain Linder, from Port Bragg was the only arrival here yesterday afternoon. She tied up at Long wharf where she is discharging a 250 000 foot lumber cargo.

Dedication Ceremonies Will Be Held on June 16

SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY, May 25.—When rebuilt according to plans which have just been completed, the Santa Clara University will have one of the most imposing and beautiful groups of buildings in the country.

Several of the buildings are now being constructed on the old site and the dedication will take place June 16. Graduate students from all over the country will assist in the great celebration.

When completed the university will comprise a group of twelve buildings, with kitchen and roof, Mission arch colonnades and white Medusa finish. They will form a striking group of buildings surrounding the quadrangle. W. B. Shea of San Francisco is the architect.

The central building will be the administration building and will include the museum, library and debating society rooms and the right wing of the students' chapel. The faculty building to the left has just been completed. Offices and reception rooms and the chapel are on the first floor. Over the chapel is the library, which is 100,000 volumes.

The roof will be used as an open air recreation place by the fathers. Living rooms and studies are on the second and third floors.

Senior hall will be ready for occupancy soon after the beginning of the new semester. There are sixty rooms on the second and third floors, arranged for two students to each room. All conveniences, including steam heat and shower baths are provided.

Plans are being prepared for the remodeling of the group, which include the junior hall, science building, power house, gymnasium, laboratories, church, etc. The buildings are all of the reinforced concrete type of construction.

TULARE LAKE FISH BETTER THAN EVER

Report That Finny Ones Are Dying Is Denied by Deputy.

FRESNO, May 25.—Deputy Game Commissioner D. H. Hoen of Tulare county, has returned from a trip to Tulare lake, where he had gone to investigate the report that the fish were dying as a result of drainage work that was being done around the lake. Hoen says that the report was greatly exaggerated. In company with Deputy Mathews of Kern county, Hoen visited the region whence originated the report and found less than a dozen dead fish.

FISHING BETTER.

A great deal of reclamation work is being done around the lake, says Hoen. Nine sections of lake have been reclaimed this spring by pumping the water from enclosed portions into the main lake. A deep channel had been dug toward the center of the lake in every instance, and the fish had escaped through this channel into the deeper waters of the lake.

Conditions are even better now for the fish in Tulare lake than they have been for some time in the past. Due to reclamation work the water is confined to a smaller area, and is therefore deeper.

CATFISH SCARCE.

A matter of interest to all local fishermen and sportsmen is Hoen's report that the flood waters have not yet reached the Kings river weir. For this reason fishing for catfish at that place is very poor at the present time, and will be until the flood waters arrive.

Bass fishing will begin on the first day of June. Due to the rigid enforcement of the laws better fishing for these game inhabitants of the stream is expected this year than ever before.

FRAZIER VALLEY IS STILL STOCK CENTER

VISALIA, May 25.—Fred and Will Gill of Exeter, who own a large ranch in Frazier valley, have disposed of 375 head of cattle during the past week. They say, which shows the tremendous business that the cattle industry still holds in this county. The cattle were sold to Mr. Mann of Fresno, who will ship them to Tacoma for slaughter.

The Gills have probably the largest stock of cattle in the country and are among the few remaining cattle men of the valley who make this their entire business.

Special Dispatch

NEW YORK, May 25.—Business and professional men and their wives, actors and actresses and people in all walks of life here in New York, are using Sulphurro. The fame of the new Sulphur medicine, which was originated by Mr. C. M. C. Stewart in Seattle, has spread across the continent. Friends of Sulphurro here and in all parts of the East, where it has come into use, are fully as enthusiastic over its powers and its cures as are those upon the Pacific coast.

Orders for Sulphurro from individuals are going West daily from New York and the other big cities of the Atlantic seaboard, and those who have heard of the Liquid Compound of Sulphur made by the C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Company of Seattle, are eager for the medicine to come when Sulphurro will be on sale in all the drug stores on this side of the continent, which time will arrive as soon as the company can distribute its most remarkable product.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH CABLE COMPANY

Charles C. Adams, Executive Offices.

Second Vice President, 253 Broadway, New York.

Mr. Frederick B. Chandler, 105 Cobb Bldg., Seattle, Wash.

My Dear Mr. Chandler:

I received your kind note of the 15th inst., and I realize that in addition to informing Mr. Stewart of the wonderfully curative effects of Sulphurro, that I should also have written to you, as, had it not been for you, I would not have had the good fortune which I regard came to me through your recommendation of Sulphurro.

My rheumatic afflictions were slowly, but surely creeping over me again, but after two weeks' consistent use of Sulphurro, they were completely scattered and eliminated. Mrs. Adams had similar good results from about three weeks' use of Sulphurro. We shall both always most pleasantly and gratefully remember you as the means of our deliverance from our afflictions.

Trusting that you are well, and with all good wishes and warm regards, believe me, as ever, remedies ever discovered for the cure of rheumatism and all disorders of the blood, skin, stomach, kidneys, etc., and already some surprising cures have become known. Sulphurro's advent into New York came through its beneficiaries in Seattle, who sent it to friends in this city, and since then business men from the West, travelers and others have brought stories of its cures, and constantly the circle of Sulphurro devotees has widened.

(Signed) C. C. ADAMS

High Postal Official Enthusiast.

Capitalists of wide renown are included in the list of Sulphurro "boosters." The case of Mr. C. C. Adams, one of the vice-presidents of the great Postal Telegraph Company, is a noteworthy example. Both Mr. and Mrs. Adams were cured of rheumatic afflictions of a most serious nature. Since then Mr. Adams has distributed many bottles of Sulphurro among his friends, and is lauding it to the skies. He learned of the new medicine through Mr. Frederick B. Chandler, an old friend, now in Seattle. Recently Mr. Adams wrote Mr. Chandler a letter of appreciation for making Sulphurro known to him.

An actress with the company of the famous English actor, Forbes Robertson, was benefited by Sulphurro, and recently sent to Seattle for two bottles of the medicine to be forwarded to her brother in England, feeling confident it would cure his rheumatism without delay.

Trail of Sulphurro Across Continent.

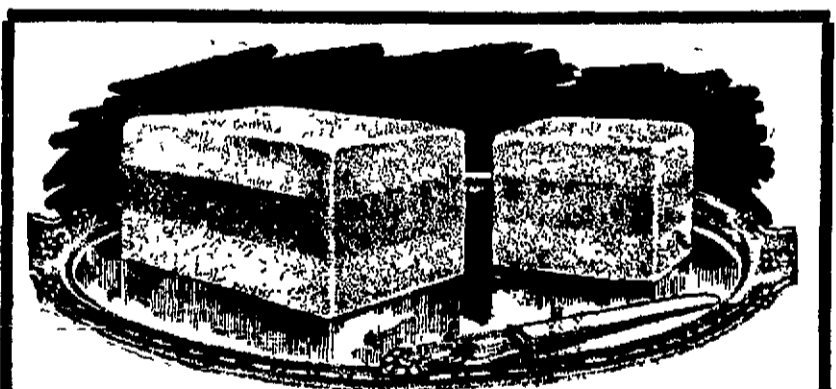

One of the leading members of the "Alias Jimmy Valentine" company obtained some Sulphurro when his company was in Seattle, and it quickly cured a long-standing case of rheumatism for his wife. Since then he has talked Sulphurro right and left, leaving a trail of Sulphurro friends across the continent.

Another member of the same company recently wrote to Seattle for some medicine and declared his friend could not express sufficient gratitude for the marvelous cure of his wife.

So the story goes. By the time Sulphurro is formally placed on sale here it will be well known through the effective agency of its friends, and that is always the best advertisement an article can have.

It is generally known here that Sulphurro sells for 50 cents and $1 in drug stores and that a most interesting booklet on the "Why" and "How" of its cures can be obtained free by writing to the C. M. C. Stewart Sulphur Co., 71 Columbia street, Seattle.

POETIC DRAMA 'TOAD,' PIECE DE RESISTANCE

Townfolk to Unite With Celebrities for Week of Festival.

CARMEL-BY-SEA, May 25.—Carmel is again putting on its festive attire in preparation for its annual pageant and play. The program this year promises to be more extensive than ever. In addition to the play and pageant, "Alice in Wonderland" will be given by the children of Carmel.

Carmel is unique in the united efforts which all her inhabitants put forth in making the celebration a success and the town famous.

Foot and house painter, carpenter and artist work side by side in the preparation for the great week.

The principal event of the year is the annual production by the Carmel society of an original play. The work selected this year has the strange title, "The Toad," written by Mrs. Bertha Newberry, a suffering poetess, dealing with the life and death of an Egyptian king.

Among those who will take leading parts is Miss Helen Cooke, the daughter of Grace MacGowan Cooke, the famous novelist. Miss Cooke is from New York in order to take the part of Clea, the Seeress of Ammon.

NEWBERRY AS "TOAD."

Mrs. Bertha Newberry, the poetess, wife of John Kenneth Turner, of "Barbarous Mexico," will play the part of Kaza, the Seeress of Ammon. Miss De Neale Morgan, the artist, will play the part of Arabella, and Perry Newberry, the short story writer, will carry the title role of "The Toad," the hunched servant of Manetho, king of Acoris.

Side by side with these celebrities of the writing world are the actors of Carmel. Tom Reardon, who is in business taking the role of Manetho. He will be remembered as playing the part of Antonio in "Twelfth Night."

Among the private life, rents cottages to the townfolk, is to be the leading, comedy character, "The Toad," played by Mrs. Bertha Newberry, Fred Laidig, the leading grocer, this year is the toppling figure of the townfolk take part and each time they approach the play with greater enthusiasm. Carmel is rapidly developing among its citizens a pride in its play that is akin to the production of Oberammergau.

The stage has been enlarged this year for the better management of the play. Dressing rooms are being built in the woods, and the stage is being brought down from San Francisco, and the production of the play promises to be worthy of the drama itself, which is interesting and poetic work accomplished in Carmel, the western home of the mimes.

CHILDREN EXCITED, TOO.

All the children in the town are wild with excitement over their play. "Alice in Wonderland" is to be given on the night of Friday, July 6. Over 100 people will take part in Alice's adventures, and the children will be the stars.

The little ones under the expert guidance of Miss Van Brewer, who has long been identified with sylvan scenes at the Carmel festival, will be the stars of the play.

Then to crown all comes the historic mission pageant, a gorgeous spectacle by over 200 men and women, some on horseback and some on foot, who picture in the beautiful forest the ancient scenes that center round Carmel. This takes place on the afternoon of July 4, and is free to all who care to come and witness it.

The entire festival is under the direction of Carmel Holme, dramatic coach of the University of California, under whose masterful direction the festival has grown from the giving of one play to a week's festival.

INDIANS ARE EXPERTS ON MUSHROOM POISON

CHICO, May 25.—Indians around Enterprise, this county, are great lovers of the mushroom and are considered adepts in the art of gathering them.

From Henry Clay, the oldest Indian of the tribe in the Enterprise vicinity, it is learned that there are four varieties of the mushroom that grow on the hillside. One is deadly—a person eating of this has never been known to live. Two are poisonous—making a person seriously ill, but for which there is an antidote. But one is good.

SEEK NAMES FOR NEW PRODUCE ACT

New Initiative Measure Would Eliminate Commission Merchant.

J. S. Cato, state organizer, is here in the interests of the campaign to secure signatures to the initiative petition for the State Produce Exchange measure and to organize branches of the league in Northern California. Thirty thousand names are needed and those in charge of the work say that they expect to get 60,000 by July 15, the date when the petition must be filed with the secretary of state.

The object of the state produce exchange act is to make the state, through a commission of five to be named by the governor, the commission merchant, eliminating the middle man and his profit. The state commission is expected to handle the farmer's produce at actual cost, constructing co-operative packing houses, distributing centers and co-operative free markets in the larger cities. It is optional, of course, with the grower whether he wishes to take advantage of the state commission or continue to deal with the commission merchant.

The league had its origin in Turlock and has met with considerable support in the San Joaquin valley. Headquarters have been secured in Oakland at 1025 Market street.

CROPS IN THE DELTA REGION ARE AVERAGE

STOCKTON, May 25.—Carson C. Coe, manager of the Rinquo Land and Reclamation Company, says that despite the light rainfall, the crops in most sections would not fall below the average. In some places in the delta regions the crops will not be up to standard, but on practically all the lower lands water can be secured. In most sections of the delta the grain is good. Although the potato crop cannot as yet be accurately forecasted, the production thus far has equaled that of former years.

Special Demonstration of the Merits of Gossard Corsets

This is the last week the expert corsetier from the East, who recently joined our regular corps of skilled fitters for the purpose of assisting those women who prefer a Gossard in their selections—and of making new friends for this front lace corset—will be with us. Those who have not yet taken advantage of her visit are urged to be here this week to get the benefit of her expert opinion and fitting.

GOVERNOR'S
FAIR IS RESENTED

AN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Our Governor has raised some Cain with our Fair—and, for once, he is in wrong. Democrats, Republicans, Socialists, Progressives, Reactionaries, Stand-patters, Radicals are all for that Fair.

And the truth is the funds are being spent with a niggard hand. There is no money for anything. Everybody is cut to the bone. Those banquets and entertainments are nearly all paid for out of the personal pockets of the directors—which is something of which California ought to be ashamed.

The trip to Washington, which Johnson and Heney called a "junket," was really a desperate, forlorn hope. It seemed that we were beaten. Johnson went along and sulked. He preserved his political honor, but he was bumptious at the expense of his State.

Of course money was spent in Washington. Moore's statement that if it had not been spent there would have been no fair, amply covers the whole thing. Why go behind that? Bribery? Well, as you like. Money has to be spent and spent freely to accomplish things at Washington.

But Now for the Votes

The Governor's hysterical attack—prompted by a decided bit of foolishness on the part of President C. C. Moore—temporarily stopped the influx of the subscription funds. They are flowing again, and will soon be up to normal.

But the Governor is getting more and more in the position of an antagonist of the fair. If he can't have it go his way, he doesn't want it to go at all. Some of the directors have said that they can go ahead and raise another $5,000,000 by private subscription and let the Governor and the State's $5,000,000 go hang!

Another chap, however, offered a more practical political idea. Said he:

"Johnson is no fool. When he sees what he is going up against he will drop his opposition. Two years from now will be a State campaign. Well, do you stop to think that 17,000 voters will be at work inside the fair fences? Just take a slant at that and then say whether anybody but a political maniac wants to go up against it."

More Police Than the City Proper

The figures seemed enormous until one on the inside said:

"That's about right. You have no realization of the number of men who will be connected with that exposition. Take the item of police, for instance. Do you ever stop to think that there will be more guards and detectives in the exposition than police in the entire city of San Francisco outside of it?"

"Well, there will be 10 guards. These will be officered by United States army officers, probably with Major Sidney A. Boman in command and Captain Rethers second to him. Then will come the regular detectives—a detail from every city in the country, changing all the time. And that's just one item. No man wants to go against that."

The First Great Work

The first big work on the fair will be the building of a fence around the Harbor View site—and that's where the fair, and all of it, is to be. That will be a nine-foot fence without a crack or a knot-hole.

Now that fence will not only pay for itself, but will pay hundreds of thousands of dollars net. As soon as it is erected the fair directors will begin taking toll. All the rubber-necks and chump-chariots will have to pay to see what is doing on the fair grounds.

Chicago and St. Louis both found they had taken in something like half a million dollars each before they had formally opened their fair, just because people were willing to pay to watch the progress of the work. Hundreds already go to see the dredger dredging and the old buildings being torn down. So that fence and the charge to "look-see" are the first things now.

Thank Heaven, Not in Our Time

The other day a Chinese band marched into the Palace Hotel court and played. The band was made up of young Chinese. It was called the band of the Chinese republic. It did not play Chinese music, but our own ragtime popular melodies—and it played them well.

"The band is only six months old, and some of its members are only nine years old," said the man who brought the serenaders in.

"Why, we had a band of white men down on the Mascot oil fields who practiced for two years and couldn't play as well as that," said Colonel Tim Spellacy, last Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

"Yes, and they say there is no 'yellow peril,'" snuffed a cynical old chap sitting by. "You see the wonderful adaptability of these youths. You know how many millions of them there are. Do you ever stop to think that Ghengis Khan was incomparably the greatest soldier the world has ever known. Well, the overrunning of the earth by the yellow race is as sure as fate. Another decade or two or five and then another Ghengis Khan—or another Kublai or Hulagu, for that matter—and nothing will stop them. Thank heaven, it will not come till after we have passed along to a place where we can watch the struggle with Ghengis, Tamerlane, Kublai, Jagtai and the rest. It'll be hot there, too."

So Passes the Social Glory

One morning this week the dispatches told that Morgan Hill had been stricken with paralysis at Elko, Nevada. I wonder how many memories that called up in Oakland and San Francisco society.

Thirty years ago—perhaps more—when your Oakland exclusiveness centered on Jackson street above Twelfth, Hill used to slip over to Oakland and write his name in a round, confident hand, "H. Morgan Hill," in the register of the Grand Central Hotel. Then every mother shuddered.

He was then known as the most dangerous man, and the best dancer in California. A member of the firm of Jones & Company, wholesalers in white goods, he had been on the right side of the then booming stock market, and so had money for clothes and horses and entertainments. Really he was a royal good fellow at heart, and he wasn't at all dangerous unless the women wanted him to be so—but the name was his, and the mammas shuddered.

He was eager to marry the dashing Minnie Fox, stepdaughter of Supreme Justice Charles N. Fox, but the parents would not have it so. Then he went on and married beautiful Diana Murphy, the San Jose heiress, and they have since lived much of their time in Paris and Washington.

The former dangerous beau grew very deaf as the years went on and he had to carry a great ear trumpet. That robs any beau of his dangerousness, but Morgan Hill was sprightly all the time and a lot of people will learn of his physical misfortune with genuine feelings of regret.

Just Another Prince Florizel

You recall the splendid days and nights of the Fortola Festival. Then you are sure to recall the wondrously romantic figure of Don Nicholas Covarrubias, the "Don Gaspar de Portola" of the occasion.

No man ever sat a horse more gracefully. No caballero ever doffed and dipped his hat to the shouting thousands with more kingly mein. Don Nicholas was the pride and glory of the occasion, and a hundred pleasant stories followed him when he went back to Santa Maria to tell the senoras and senoritas there of the wonders of the festa.

Well, Don Nicholas is now a horse-trader in San Francisco.

One man made the statement at the St. Francis bar and another one was inclined to sniff and curl a lip. But the third one said:

"Gentlemen, you forget Prince Florizel—Prince Florizel of Bohemia, the immortal hero of Robert Louis Stevenson's 'New Arabian Nights.' Just think of the glorious adventures from the Young Man With the Cream Tarts through the Suicide Club and the rest. Well, do you remember where Stevenson left his hero? He was keeping a tobacco stall in London. Why, then, should not our own Don Gaspar go to trading horses in San Francisco?"

The Greatest Man in History

You wouldn't expect it from the Pacific Union Club—but then, you probably don't know the Pacific Union. They had a discussion as to who was the greatest man in history—and the usual talk went round from Confucius to Pericles and Napoleon to Shakespeare.

"Jacques Casanova!"

It was Billy Berg, the great German travler who said it, and everybody admitted that Billy ought to know.

If you, gentle reader, do not know, just get Casanova's memoirs. They'll only cost you a little over $100, but they're worth it.

He Couldn't Watch 'Em All

And while we are on that sort of a subject here is another one that came out of the Pacific Union—just as if good things were flocking out of Nazareth.

They were discussing a recent alienation of affections suit, and one told the newspaper story that the discarded husband had hired a room across from the Poodle Dog and watched his neglectful wife enter with a real man.

"Watched what?" asked the club man.

"Why, the entrance to the Poodle Dog!"

"Man, don't you know there are seven entrances to that Poodle Dog? I've tried every one."

The Law and the Money

It seems that the papers in the particular divorce case concerned in this matter were sealed by Judge Van Nostrand. When the reporters came to glean the particulars they asked the Judge, "Why?"

"It is the law—the Penal Code—that all papers in all divorce cases must be sealed," said the Judge.

"But not one set of papers in five hundred is sealed," said a cynic reporter. "Only those that involve over $250,000."

Which reminds one of the ancient legal axiom: "There is no law for any case involving over $300,000 or less than $300. Because all cases less than $300 are tried in the Justice's Court and every case of over $300,000 is a law unto itself."

Aggressive at Ninety-seven

Former Supreme Court Justice John Curry, now 97, has such bad eye-sight that in signing his name, or writing a brief personal letter, which he does frequently, he has to put his face so close to the paper and his pen point that his nose and snowy moustache fairly touch them. But he is still remarkably hearty and vigorous, going everywhere, unaccompanied and a familiar figure at the Fairmont, where he is a permanent guest. He also retains much of his old aggressive spirit and positiveness in both manner and speech. This was illustrated the other day. In the presence of several men, mostly old-time friends, he had to attach his signature to a document. With his face close to the sheet of paper, he began to write when one friend, winking at the others standing by, remarked by way of warning:

"Look out, judge, you'll get your moustache in the ink."

"D—n you. It's my own moustache, isn't it?" was the emphatic reply without looking up from his writing.

Chauffeur Gets the Money

Major has got over his joy-riding days. It is a leisurely speed in one of the finest of automobiles with him these days. Not so at the time when the horseless wagon was comparatively new and garages were few and far between in this swift-moving town. Some years ago on a New Year's eve celebration he was out in a chug-chug wagon with some companions of his own sex. There had been plenty of thirst annihilators and a lively clip out to the beach. On the way back in the hired machine, the major, feeling in a particularly gay mood, shouted from the rear seat to the chauffeur:

"I'll give you $10 if you'll put this auto at full speed and run us through any old kind of a house."

Saying that he meant what he said in answer to the chauffeur, the latter told him to put up the money with another occupant of the machine he knew. This being done, the man at the wheel began to burn up distance in quick style, whispering at the same time to the man who held the coin. There was no policeman to stop them in those days as the auto rushed from the park and into town on Golden Gate avenue. The chauffeur dashed into Polk street and thence halfway down Hayes towards Larkin. All of a sudden, getting his bearings, he ran through the western end of the St. Nicholas hotel out on to Market street. There was a garage there extending through the ground floor of the building from Hayes to Market and at the time of arriving there both doors were open and the passageway was clear. He got the $10 and there was a hearty laugh, in which the major joined as lustily as any of the rest.

An Aerogram Was His Undoing

He has been very successful in his business of installing wireless apparatus on steamers sailing in and out of this port. The other night, however, he could not, in spite of all his skill, get an answer to his S. O. S. to save him from detection in a great big fib by his better half. At the dinner hour he told his wife he had to go back to work that night and it would probably be 3 or 4 in the morning before he could get home, as he had to complete a wireless job on a steamer that was to sail as soon as he could get it finished. Leaving the house about 8 o'clock, he congratulated himself on his good excuse to get out and have a high old time with the boys. He certainly had some jolly hours and did not reach his domicile until 4:15 a. m. Wife was awake to greet him and with much self-control listened to his tale of hard work putting a wireless on the trans-Pacific steamer. When he had finished and was about disrobed she handed him a message which had come to the house at 9:30 p. m. from that same steamer. She had opened and read it. It was an aerogram from the captain, reading:

"100 miles off shore. Wireless working perfectly. Good luck."

It is but charitable to draw the curtain on the Caudle lecture he got the remainder of that night.

Look Out for This Cocktail

There were several visitors from out of town at the University Club last night who were telling the local coterie of some new drinks in the East. One of them mentioned the Champ Clark cocktail. He did not go into particulars as to the ingredients but remarked:

"If you drink three of them you can hear that houn' dawg baying as you leave the bar."

The other beverage was the Slanting Annie of Kansas towns, where all is supposed to be "dry." It can only be obtained at soda water fountains, in drugstores or ice cream parlors. The narrator of this new drink tale did not explain the origin of the odd name, but said it bobbed up before the public recently at a police court trial in the city of Wichita, when a druggist had been arrested on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The prosecutor asked one of the witnesses:

"Did you have a drink called a Slanting Annie in this druggist's place?"

"I did."

"Did it look like beer?"

"Yes."

"Did it taste like beer?"

"It did."

"Well, wasn't it beer?"

"Not at all."

"Well, what was it then?"

"A Slanting Annie is the only thing I know it by," replied the adroit witness as he was excused.

Something Out of the Ordinary

That was a very creditable thing Frank Marron and his associates did recently when their Pacific Title and Insurance Company absorbed the California Title and Insurance Company. The new merged concern, under the former name, is about ready to move into its new home, the tall modern structure at the northwest corner of Sutter and Montgomery streets, the site before the fire of the old City Savings Bank, now a part of the San Francisco Savings Bank at Grant avenue and O'Farrell. Marron and his partners found that they would not be able to use most of the employees of the other company. They explained to them the situation and then gave each one a year's salary and splendid letters of recommendation as to their integrity and efficiency. Learning that one of the employees, a young woman, was going to get married, they gave her an extra $100.

Strike-Breaker James Farley Dying

Local friends of James Farley, the strike-breaker, say he is dying in his Eastern home. It was Farley and his crowd who put Cornelius and his strikers on the United Railroads Company of this city out of business in 1907. Wearing a wig and a little false moustache, Farley was in town looking over the situation a week or two before his presence was discovered. For some days before the strike was officially declared, he went among the men of the Cornelius union finding out the identity of the worst of the fire eaters for future guidance. The men Farley brought out here did not know what fear was and dearly loved a scrape, preferably one with guns. Most of them seemed to be little, wiry fellows. At a cursory glance, they seemed insignificant, but when aroused they were terrors. I remember being on the front platform of a car a month after the strike had been declared. Both conductor and motorman were small men. The former had come to the front for a moment. Their Southern accent told where they were from. Speaking to the motorman, the conductor observed:

"Jack, things are getting quiet here now. I haven't seen a gun and have only dodged five bricks this week. Let's quit at the end of the week and find something livelier."

"I guess you're right, Tom," replied Jack. "It's getting powerful dull. I've only had three fights this week."

Parson Davies in Failing Health

One of his San Francisco friends tells me that Charles E. ("Parson") Davies, the noted manager years ago of pugilists like John L. Sullivan and Peter Jackson, and later connected with amusement houses in the South, particularly in New Orleans, is now living in Ireland with relatives broken in health. In his day, Davies, always the gentleman and preacher like in appearance, from which fact he got the name of Parson that always stuck to him, was one of the most popular and financially successful sports in either this country or England. He traveled all over both countries with Sullivan and Jackson in the days of their prime. He had charge of Sullivan when Robinson, the pride of the Olympic Club here, made such a fiasco of his limited-round contest with the former in the Mechanics Pavilion. Both Sullivan and Jackson were champions in their day, as was also Corbett. Davies was always of the opinion that Sullivan at his best, with his tremendous physical onslaughts, was the master of the other two in spite of their boxing science. He had a quarrel with Sullivan once and the latter threatened to strike him. "Don't you do it, John, for I'll kill you in your tracks," coolly replied the Parson as the two men eyed each other.

And John did not do it.

Scott Will Probably Be Manager

With the approaching marriage of Miss Jennie Crocker and Malcolm D. Whitman of New York at San Mateo on July 16 next, the gossips are speculating as to whether or not the wealthy young woman will want her husband to take active management of her valuable properties in place of Henry T. Scott. The latter is said to be receiving $25,000 a year for managing the properties of Miss Crocker and her brother, Templeton, a lot of which, like the St. Francis hotel, the Shreve and other buildings, they jointly own. Scott also gets, it is understood, $50,000 a year as president of the telephone company. His share of the Union Iron Works, which he and his associates sold to Charles M. Schwab, was a million. He can therefore contrive to get along in case he ceases to be her manager. The probabilities are that he will continue in that role, for he has been very successful in it. Templeton Crocker is averse to business cares and will have Scott as his manager no matter what his sister may see fit to do after she gets a husband. The two latter, no doubt, will live most of the time in the East after their marriage, so it would seem that it would be just the thing for them to keep Scott on the job.

The general belief that Miss Crocker is worth not less than $10,000,000 is, no doubt, correct. In a great measure, Scott can be credited with the splendid condition of both her large holdings and those of her brother. He was the intimate friend of her father, the late Colonel C. F. Crocker, and, along with Charles E. Green, one of the executors of his estate before its distribution to the three heirs, one of whom was the late Mrs. Mary Harrison of New York, who left two children.

The founder of the house and fortune, Charles Crocker, when he died in the late eighties left an estate of $30,000,000. There are living today two of his four children, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. His descendants have greatly increased the value of the fortunes originally left them, partly by good business methods and partly by fine realty investments. The growth of the community has in a great measure swelled the value of much of their holdings. Again, the sale of the Crocker family stock in the Southern Pacific at a good big figure was a factor in swelling these fortunes. This explains why the $7,000,000 left to Colonel C. F. Crocker by Charles Crocker some twenty-four years ago has so increased as to amount today in the hands of his three children or their heirs to fully ten millions apiece.

An Immense Land Deal

The sale of the Beale ranch properties in the lower San Joaquin and the adjacent mountain country to the south continues, because of the hugeness of the transaction, to be a matter of much talk in land and financial circles. Henry E. Huntington and Messrs. Balch and Kirkhoff, two of his associates in water power rights and electric light power properties in California, are leaders in the purchasing syndicate. There are said to be thirty people in the latter, mostly from Los Angeles. The sellers were the three children of the late General Edward F. Beale. They are Mrs. John R. McLean of Cincinnati and Washington, Mrs. Bakhmetief, the wife of the Russian ambassador to this country, and Truxton Beale of this city, whose wife was the former Miss Oge of San Rafael. The transaction involved 276,000 acres and the purchase price runs up into the millions. There are two lakes and twenty or more streams on the property. The white oak lumber alone on the land is said to be worth $5,000,000. The water rights are far more valuable and are said to have been the main reason for the syndicate's deal. The exact purchase price and the nature of the payments have not been made public. The deal involves the purchase of four of the old Spanish-Mexican grants of early days.

Duke and Duchess Will Be Here

The Duke and Duchess of Manchester and Mrs. William B. Leeds are to arrive here next week on one of the transpacific liners and will be given much attention by local societydom. The two former were here in 1895. On that occasion they mingled but little with the haut-ton. There were reasons for that fact. Those were the days before they came into great favor with the late King Edward and when the duke was in disfavor with his recently acquired father-in-law, Eugene Zimmerman, the Cincinnati multi-millionaire. The duchess and her titled husband have for a number of years been two of the most popular people in London society and are persons grata with King George today. Zimmerman has also got to like his son-in-law and has been most liberal with his purse during the past eight or nine years. On this account, the duke and duchess have been able to more than hold their own in the fashionable display of British upper circles.

This will be Mrs. Leeds' first visit to San Francisco. She is the widow of the late tinplate magnate, William B. Leeds, who left her and her infant son a fortune of $30,000,000. She was one of the prettiest girls in Cleveland. She divorced her first husband, Leeds divorced his first wife at a cost of about $3,000,000, it is said, to marry her. Since her husband's death, she has been one of the most sought after widows in New York and London society and during the past two or three years it has been rumored half a dozen times that she was to marry this and that sprig of English and continental nobility. She is credited with having a pearl necklace worth $220,000. It cost a ten per cent duty to import this jewelry as loose pearls into this country. Later the government demanded an extra duty of $110,000 on the ground that the pearls had been "set or strung" because Mrs. Leeds had worn them once in Paris before bringing them to her New York home. Several years ago the U. S. Supreme Court ruled against this contention of the government.

Spieler Had to Be Rebuked

The megaphone men who shout out the points of interest, beauties and other attractions of the city to visitors who are patronizing the sightseeing cars of the town in large numbers, at times indulge in pointed and personal remarks which get the owners of these "rubber-neck" wagons into hot water. Only the other day one of the "speelers" had to be rebuked by his superior in a most emphatic manner. One of the cars was passing through the Western Addition, where there are many fine residences. The man with the megaphone was telling the passengers who owned this and that house and how much the mansions cost. Going along, he spied another home of attractive appearance, and this was the burden of his little loud talk about it:

"Ladies and gentlemen: This house on the corner to your left, with the pleasing and restful lawn and the gay-plumaged parrot in the copper-wired cage suspended from the front windows, belongs to Mr.

He was one of our police commissioners. He was not able to build so fine a home until after he became one of our police nabobs."

The owner of the home finally heard of this unconventional description of himself and raised a terrible howdy-do. What made the episode all the more peculiar was the fact that the proprietor of that and other chug-chug wagons and employer of the megaphone fellow, with his own peculiar ideas of airy persiflage, turned out to be a relative and frequent visitor of the angry owner.

Hubbard's Bible Is Taboo

Elbert Hubbard, the literary light, prophet, and book and magazine publisher of East Aurora, N. Y., is somewhat impatient, to put it mildly, at the hotel managers of this town. Some of the hostesses here have in their guests' rooms copies of the orthodox Bible that were presented to them last summer when the International Sunday School Association held a large convention here. The Gideons, New York publishers, sent 10,000 copies to this city at that time for distribution. The hotels got several thousands; the idea being to put them in their rooms and have their many guests profit spiritually by a reading of them in the years to come. Hubbard has compiled what he calls "The Common Sense Bible." He has requested the managers to put it in their rooms and throw out the Gideon copies. This they have refused to do. Whether this action on their part is due to their own religious convictions, a desire not to get the church people after them or a spiritual or intellectual objection, or both, to the Hubbard Bible, I have not taken the trouble to inquire. The one plain fact, however, is that with the San Francisco caravansaries the Bible of Mr. Hubbard is taboo.

Knew How to Travel in Luxury

The Brokaw families of both Colorado and New York, judging from recent press dispatches, seem to be very active in the divorce courts. Clarence P. Brokaw of Colorado Springs and formerly of New York wants to divorce his wife, while Mary Blair Brokaw of New York wants a complete cutting of the marital knot from W. Gould Brokaw. The latter and his wife have been living apart for more than a year, he paying her $15,000 a year on an order of the courts. A few days after this latter understanding was reached, W. Gould Brokaw came to this coast in a private car with a party of men friends. They had an outing of sixty days, traveling leisurely all over the West. The expenses of the outing were said to have amounted to $500 a day, including railroad fares, $50 a day for the private car, meals, etc. It is alleged Brokaw gave this touring party in celebration of his separation from his better half. He called frequently on the commissary departments of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe for the restocking of his car with the best of things to eat and drink, being one of their best-paying private car customers they had had in many a moon. Some of the things he also called for from them were choice bathing toilet waters, dainty soaps and the like. One large order for these articles was forwarded to the millionaire and his boon companions at the Grand Canyon, for it seems that they discovered to their bitter chagrin that it had not been swept and brushed for their arrival, thereby making an excessive use of fripperies imperative.

Not the Missing Hesketh

Since his arrival here from England with his wife, Thomas F. Hesketh has, with the assistance of his uncle, Fred Sharon, inquired fully into the recent tale of Dr. B. F. Woodard of Gillette, Wyo., that his missing brother, Frederick E. Hesketh, was working on a cattle ranch 90 miles from Clearmont, Wyo. The story turns out to have no basis in fact. The mother, Lady Hesketh, who was Flora Sharon of this city, grabbed at this report as the probable solution of the mysterious disappearance of her second son in October, 1910, and urged a thorough inquiry into it. A complete investigation of the report has just been finished. It was found out that the man Dr. Woodard referred to, while a young, stalwart Englishman, was not the missing Hesketh. On this account, the relatives are now more convinced than ever that the young man was lost in the Irish Sea while en route to Ireland. He was last seen taking a steamer for that country. He did not occupy a cabin. When the steamer reached the other side, the purser said young Hesketh was missing. His mother saw him the day he left for Ireland, but he did not tell her he was going there. She was the last of his relatives to see him.

'The Atonement of Pan'

All things are not going smoothly with the Bohemian Grove play for this summer, of which Joe Redding is the scribe, and for which Henry Hadley has written the music. The cast was a difficult one to start with; there are two women parts in "The Atonement of Pan," and there is only one real woman actor in the Bohemian club, the right Hon. Richard Hotelling, who despite his willingness, cannot double the role. There is a boy in it, too, and a fluty voiced chorister has been hired for the occasion. Ned Hamilton was one of the chosen, and then came the usual Thespians of the first order of merit in Bohemia, the same that have wrestled with every Jack Jinks since those pageants commenced—Jack Shiels, Charlie Field, W. H. Smith, Jr., Billy Hopkins, Allan Dunn, Courtney Ford and MacDonald Spencer. The hitch came when it was announced that the play is to be reproduced in the Greek Theater to the more lasting and visible glory of Redding-Hadley & Co., and the accrual of the Grove funds.

It has long been an unwritten law in the club that no play produced within its walls should be shown to the outer world, save in such scraps of music as are given at the annual concerts. When the late Peter Robertson wrote his last and greatest play, "Bohemia," for the opening ceremonies of the new club house, a work into which he put all the gentle philosophy of his life, it was hoped that the same could be presented at the Greek theater for the benefit of the club library fund, inasmuch as the production eminently fitted the Greek theater stage, and was an embodiment of the real spirit of Bohemia, but the board of directors turned Peter down without even a reply to his letter, so that the announcement that Redding's play was to be given license for two public performances aroused the umbrage of many of Peter's friends. Then came the defection of the actors. Jack Shiels, who has long confessed himself cured of the theatrical bee in his Scotch bonnet, and who has permanently given up sandals for the stethoscope, balks at the idea of a public production in that it would mitigate against his dignity and success as a physician.

W. H. Smith, Jr., erstwhile judge, thinks the same, so does Billy Hopkins in regard to his insurance business; so Charles Field, editor of Sunset; so do the rest, except MacDonald Spencer, who for the first time was not asked to act. All this has left the casting of the play in a precarious position, with only three of the original members of the cast on hand for rehearsal, David Bispham, Hamilton and Hotelling. Just what Redding is going to do is not known, and the debonnaire author of "Natoma" is his own counsellor.

There Was Gloom at the Picnic

They had a fine time at the Scotch picnic the other day. The sheer joy of the proceedings was somewhat gloomed for a space of time by the introduction of a number not intended to be on the program, which of course consisted of the usual Celtic gambols, such as tossing the caber, listening to the pibroch, two-stepping between claymores, etc., etc. The interruption was caused by the bringing up of that unwelcome and untimely topic, the criticism of the exposition management. Allen Pollock was there, and so were John McLaren and Jim McNab, and the three stood back to back and hurled defiance at their traducers. They had all the best of the argument, for they are a brave trio and well used to championing their cause. When peace once more reigned the games went on right merrily, and the only disturbance was when John McLaren objected in his turn to the taste of the committee which had chosen the prizes.

"To think," said John, "of giving a prize like that to a Scotchman; it's merciful that the laddies were not wearing their kilts today, though they should have done so to befit the occasion; but when a man trains, mind ye, to run a race of two hundred yards which is no light task for a man that's not moved faster than a walk since he was chased o'er the heather for picking gowans out of bounds, when such a man by a supreme effort, wins the race and expects to get something suitable of the great occasion, it's naethin' less than an insult to give as a prize to a Scotchman, and a true one at that, the reward they're offering, a pair of breeks."

Poet May Leave Carmel-by-the-Sea

George Sterling threatens to leave Carmel-by-the-Sea in high dudgeon. No more will the poet seek his inspirations in the pathless woods, strip mussels from Point Lobos or swim like a modern Leander in the chafing tideways of Carmel Bay. His bungalow is rented, and the little "City of the Cuts" is to know him no more, and all this because of the controversy about the forestplay of this year.

The poet, as by right, was one of the small committee chosen to select the play. Two were submitted, "Montezuma," by the minor poet Herron, disciple of Sterling, and one, "The Toad," by an unknown author.

Sterling and his committee decided that "The Toad" had sadly plagiarized "Montezuma," and said so. Then arose Perry Newberry as champion for "The Toad," and, ignoring the committee, called a conclave of the Forest Play Association, which consists of everybody who is willing to pay a dollar for the privilege. George Sterling and his fellow judges, being all men of culture and of mark, objected strongly to the village butcher, baker and candlestick maker having a voice in the selection of the literary effort of the year, and bitter was the fight. Newberry's political experience won, and to add to the chagrin of Sterling it was divulged that he had been unconsciously baiting a woman in the unknown author of "The Toad," the lady in question being Mrs. Newberry, known to her Bohemian circle as "Buttski," one of the little inside circle that made "Coppa's" famous before the fire, and which included Martinez, Mamie Griswold, Porter Garnet and Harry Laffler.

Sterling is essentially a gentle spirit and the wound to his feelings has gangrened so that no longer will he be pointed out to visitors at Carmel as one of the shining lights thereof. Meanwhile "Montezuma," which is said to be a notable performance of great literary merit, goes on the shelf and "The Toad," also a production of strength, is to squat in the limelight at the forest play in Carmel-by-the-Sea.

CRUEL REWARD FOR FAIR BENEFACTOR

Philadelphia Judge Scores Suit
Aimed at Society Woman.

CHICAGO, May 25.—"I think it is a cruel reward for the people who have exhibited this beautiful human charity in rendering a service to the old man in the days of his decrepitude and approaching death in grateful memory of what he had done for them," said Judge Kinsey in dismissing a case brought by Edward N. A. Zerdahel against Mrs. Louis C. Madiera, a social leader in German town.

Zerdahel, who won in the late trial Edward Zerdahel, an accomplished musician of the Hungarian school and intimate friend of the poet Longfellow, sued to recover $300, which, he alleged, remained as a balance of a fund subscribed by Mrs. Madiera and other society women to support his father in his old age. He could not substantiate a single assertion when the case was tried, and after Mrs. Madiera and some of those who had raised money in aid of the old professor had testified, Judge Kinsey took the case from the jury and dismissed the claim.

It was explained by the witness that the entire fund amounted to only $312. When the professor died there was not enough money remaining to pay the funeral expenses. Mrs. Madiera and her friends, seeing the situation, erected a monument on this musician's grave, and Professor Zerdahel was a pupil of the famous master. He was a member of the Hungarian parliament, and taught in the revolution and at its close came to this country. He was possessed of little means and began to teach music to earn a livelihood for himself and family.

His ability as a teacher attracted attention, and he was soon patronized by some of the wealthiest families in German town. Mrs. Madiera, then Miss Marion Clark, daughter of B. W. Clark, a wealthy banker, became one of his pupils.

When she learned several years ago that her old music teacher had become impoverished in his old age, she at once set to work to render him assistance. Starting a fund with a contribution of $300, she went among her friends, nearly all of whom were, like herself, former pupils of the professor. The fund grew until it reached $1312.

Among those who contributed were Mrs. Louis Randolph, Mrs. William West, Mrs. Elizabeth Head, Mrs. Alice Schoettle, Colonel Edward Morrell, Miss Kimball and Andrew Carnegie. The latter's contribution was $100.

After the death of the professor his son became possessed of the idea that a large sum had been collected and that the balance belonged to him. When he made inquiries, however, it was explained to him that the fund never reached $1000 and that all of it had been spent in keeping the old music teacher from want in his last years.

The son refused to believe that there was no balance. He appeared in court shabbily dressed and unkempt in appearance. He testified that he brought the suit as administrator of his father's estate but when examined by lawyers could offer no evidence whatever to support his claim.

He could not tell the amount that had been subscribed, by whom it was contributed or in what sums. It became apparent that his claim was based entirely on an unimaging belief that he was being defrauded by the persons who proved their friendship to his father.

Judge Kinsey asked Albert H. Coggins, who presented the proposition, on what possible grounds he expected the case to be submitted to jury. Coggins said that as no regular accounts had been submitted he thought the defendant's explanation was not "sufficiently full and satisfactory." To this Charles L. McKeehan, counsel for Mrs. Madiera, replied that the case did not permit of any argument, as there was nothing for the defendant to answer, although she had given a full explanation voluntarily.

Judge Kinsey then said it was a cruel reward for the people who have exhibited this beautiful human charity in rendering a service to the old man in the days of his decrepitude and approaching death in grateful memory of what he had done for them, and after Mrs. Madiera and some of those who had raised money in aid of the old professor had testified, Judge Kinsey took the case from the jury and dismissed the claim.

RESISTS PAROLE OF MURDERERS

Widow of Kentucky Feud Victim Fights to Down Pardon.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 25.—In the little town of Jackson Breathitt county, known as the "feud capital," there lives a woman whose deed of sorrow is great. She is Mrs. Abella Marcum, widow of James B. Marcum, lawyer, whose assassination by Curt Jett and Tom White on May 4, 1903, followed the murders of B. D. Cox and James Coddell.

After the murder of her husband, Mrs. Marcum took up the burden of avenging the death of her slain husband, since murdered by his son Beech, who is now serving a life term in the penitentiary, Ed Callahan, the last one of the old-time feud chiefs in Breathitt county, and who was shot Saturday. And others were charged with the assassination besides Jett and White. Jett and White were tried and sentenced to life terms in the penitentiary.

Three attempts have been made to have these men paroled. Each time Mrs. Marcum has made strong representations to prevent their being released. The matter will come up at this month's meeting of the state board of prison commissioners. Mrs. Marcum is making another hard fight to prevent their release. She has filed letters from numerous county officials and other prominent citizens of Jackson showing cause why they should not be freed.

Mrs. Marcum has published a statement telling of the assassination of her husband following months of terror when her husband knew that murderers were waiting for a chance to "get him." Mrs. Marcum says her husband was coming out of the courthouse when Jett shot him in the back. White then shot Marcum in the head.

"I fought a long time to get these men convicted," said Mrs. Marcum, "and tried to reach the ones higher up. Tom White and Curt Jett are in the penitentiary, and I cannot believe the prison board will parole them. The others were acquitted. I fought a long time and did my best. Now I am trying to take care of the younger members of my family.

LOCK HORNS OVER TESTIMONY AT ISSUE

Crisis in the Case Is Reached
Early and Evidence Hangs in Balance.

WITNESS' REMARK IS
CAUSE OF LEGAL TILT

"Had One Juror," Franklin Is Said to Have Told Geo.
Lockwood.

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—George N. Lockwood testified this morning in Judge Hutton's courtroom that Bert Franklin told him he already "had one juror," and immediately the Darrow case was swept into the maelstrom of what probably will be the one great crucial contest of the trial.

The state contends any evidence is admissible which relates to a general conspiracy to defeat justice in the McNamara case by jury bribery, or the bribery of witnesses and detectives, of which it alleges the bribery of Lockwood to be a part.

The defense holds that evidence concerning other than the Lockwood bribery is inadmissible.

The issue has been clearly and sharply drawn from the start, but the final argument and determination of it was not expected so early in the proceedings. Judge Hutton received a number of citations from opposing counsel today and will hear arguments when court convenes at 1:30 Monday afternoon, and presumably will give his ruling within a few days at most.

RULING IS CRISIS.

That ruling will shape the entire case; if he rules for the state at least 40 witnesses will testify for the state who will not be called if his decision is for the defense.

If Fredericks and Ford win, the Darrow case will be a mere formality, offers of bribes to other prospective jurors, attempts to induce McNamagal not to testify for the state, and to hire other witnesses to absent themselves from California, will all figure in the testimony to show the largest of Darrow's corroboration of the evidence connecting him with the Lockwood bribery.

If Rogers and Appel win, all that vast bulk of evidence will be excluded, and the district attorney will have less than a dozen witnesses whom he can call to the stand.

Lockwood had finished giving his account of what Franklin said to him at Franklin's office November 9, 1911. Lockwood had called there at the detective's request. Then he recalled one thing he had forgotten to mention.

ONE FIXED, HE SAID.

"He told me," the witness added, "that he had one man who was already on the jury, that one juror was fixed, a man whom I knew better than I knew him."

That afterthought of the witness brought counsel to locked horns.

Rogers was on his feet at once. He said:

"I move to strike out that statement. It does not apply to this case, and even under the theory of counsel that the declaration of one of the so-called conspirators is admissible against others in the conspiracy, it is only declarations with reference to the particular matter that are admissible."

"On the court please," interrupted Assistant District Attorney Ford, "we have a brief upon the rule if we are as against others in the conspiracy, it is everything done or said in furtherance of a conspiracy and during the continuance of the conspiracy is admissible."

ERROR, HE ASSERTS.

Appel entered the argument at this point, saying that all the decisions were that it would be error to admit that kind of evidence.

"Council on the one point, however," District Attorney Fredericks replied, "that the statement of Franklin was in furtherance of his efforts to get Lockwood to accept this bribe by saying to him that another juror, whom he knew, had accepted a bribe."

"That might have been used as against Franklin himself," Appel answered, "but it cannot be used against Mr. Darrow."

Judge Hutton ordered each side to submit authorities for their argument which he could consider between now and the time court convenes Monday.

Darrow said today in reply to the statement made in Chicago by General Otis, that negotiations looking to a confession by Darrow were pending:

DARROW IN DENIAL.

"I have nothing whatever to confess to in this case, and have never been any conversation with anybody in regard to any such thing, or any intimation or thought in reference to such thing. It is palpably unfair that such statements should be made at this time for the purpose of prejudicing the case."

Following the completion of the testimony of George Monroe from the records of Judge Bordwell's court, Lockwood was called to the stand. He told of his visit to Franklin's office in the Chamber of Commerce building November 9, by appointment. Franklin told him he had charge of the McNamara jury money and could give him $2000, maybe $2500, if he got on the jury and voted for acquittal. He said Franklin assured him there was none but manufactured evidence against McNamara and he would be able to conscientiously vote for acquittal. He said he was offered the money, Franklin said, only because they had been friends a long time. Lockwood was sitting alone in years and Franklin wanted him to have the money.

LOCKWOOD'S TESTIMONY WAS INTERRUPTED WHEN HE RELATED THE REMARK ABOUT THE OTHER BRIBED JUROR.

CALLS AMBULANCE ON SUICIDE BLUFF

Girl Rushes for Doctor on Reading 'Fake' Note of Sweetheart.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Because his sweetheart had threatened to desert him, George Lewis, a letter carrier of 1237 O'Farrell street, made a "bluff" at attempting to commit suicide tonight. Unable to persuade the girl to stay, he wrote a note which he placed on the outside of his door, which read:

"Dear Matty—I am going by gas route. Life without you is not worth living. You will not have to worry about me."

"GEORGE,"

When "Matty" discovered the insidious note, she was terrified. Fearing the worst, she ran down the hill to the Detention hospital and inquired for a doctor. An ambulance was summoned and when it arrived, Lewis was found lying on the ground. He was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for his wounds. The doctor reported that Lewis was in good health, and that the note was a bluff.

HIGH RECORDS ARE MADE BY STOCKS

Peoples Gas, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Cigar Stores in Big Favor.

(By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.)
WALL STREET, NEW YORK, May 25.—New high records were made today in the stock market by Peoples Gas, Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Cigar Stores stock. They held most of their advances. Hardly a stock on the list, but made a considerable advance and the day was very satisfactory to the party—that is, campaigning for higher prices. The underlying reason for strength was nothing more than additional evidence that the crops are prospering and that business in general is growing.

Peoples Gas moved up four points before street paid much attention to it. The advance is due partly to a deal, but very largely to the fact that the earnings of the company have not been appreciated by investors. Another element in this movement is the fact that the company is identified with Brooklyn Rapid Transit and United States Sugar.

All of these stocks are on the move and for very good reasons. Rubber is advancing partly because of the fact that the earnings, but very largely because the great bulk of the common stock is held by insiders. It is useless to criticize the recent financing.

BIG BONDS NEEDED.
Brooklyn Rapid Transit's move is part of a general campaign that will require two or three years to work out. In connection with the building of new subway lines in New York city the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company has issued $100,000,000 of bonds and Interborough Rapid Transit company about $170,000,000. The bonds cannot be placed unless there is a good market for the stocks involved. All of the stocks are at reasonably low prices, particularly Brooklyn Rapid Transit, which pays a five per cent dividend and sells at 80, even with its new high record. Brooklyn sold more than 40 points higher than that when it paid no dividend at all. The market must be better than the technical advantage of not having been manipulated for months. The insiders have been waiting for the city to decide on the subway.

The general party outlook is still showing a distinct trend toward higher levels.

WREATH IS PRESENTED TO CHINESE THEATER

Lee Tung Foo, the Chinese singer, who has been appearing at the Bell theater during the past week, and who is a pupil of Mrs. Margaret Blake Alverson, the vocal teacher of this city, was the recipient of a token from Mrs. Alverson after his appearance at last night's performance.

The wreath was made of the form of a laurel wreath tied with the colors of the new Chinese republic, red, white and blue, the presentation being made by Louis Pritztkow of the vaudeville team of Pritztkow and Blanchard, fellow players on the bill with Lee Tung Foo.

The Chinese, who has achieved a success as a singer throughout this country and Europe, has been a pupil of Mrs. Alverson for eighteen years. He came under her tutelage when yet in his teens and received his entire musical training under her supervision, a fact that was commented upon with feeling in the presentation speech delivered by Pritztkow and written by Mrs. Alverson. The singer is a prominent feature in vaudeville and following his local engagement will go on a tour of the Sullivan & Condon theaters.

The ceremony of last evening was witnessed by Mrs. Alverson and a party of her students and proved a pleasing interlude to the regular vaudeville bill.

Scope of the Waterfront Decision.

The recent decision rendered by the Supreme Court in what is known as the "street-ends case" does not affect the city's title to the waterfront nor will it interfere with the wharf and dock improvements the city has planned on the bay shore. It does not affect any property rights of the municipality, but merely declares that certain property which the city contended was dedicated as streets is still under private ownership.

All the waterfront below the low-tide line, including all wharfing-out privileges, is the property of the city, but the land above the low-tide line belongs, according to a decision previously rendered by the Supreme Court, to the Oakland Waterfront Company or the assigns of that corporation. On the western waterfront the city owns a strip of submerged land 2000 feet wide lying between the low-tide line and the bulkhead line. The city's title to this property was not in dispute and is not affected by the last decision of the Supreme Court.

But the city claimed that streets had been dedicated through the tide lands owned by the Waterfront Company abutting the strip of waterfront owned by the city. The issue just decided was whether the dedication had ever been legally perfected. The Waterfront Company contended that it had, and the city set up the claim that the dedication was complete. In this contention the city has lost.

But the street ends can be opened in the usual way provided by law when traffic demands require them to be opened. It will be many years before there will be any necessity for opening some of them. Access to the waterfront can be had wherever and whenever it may be deemed necessary. If the city had won the suit, it could have gone ahead and opened all the streets at any time, but now it will have to open them by condemnation proceedings begun hereafter. This will entail some trouble and expense, but will not hinder the projected development of the waterfront. It is a mistake to assume that the city has lost any of its property rights on the waterfront in the litigation just ended.

The weather this season is almost as unsettled as politics and fully as uncomfortable. Old Probs seems to have become an insurgent.

Zapata's threat to attack the City of Mexico unless Madero resigns the Presidency in eight days is mere gasconade. Zapata is a mere bandit. He is at the head of a band of mounted marauders, but has no military organization, no artillery, no equipment for regular campaigning in the field, and his force is a small body of undisciplined horsemen held together by the cohesive power of public plunder. A few hundred mestizos of the vaquero type. The idea of this band of plunderers taking the City of Mexico by assault is too ridiculous for serious discussion. The ordinary police force of the city is sufficient to frighten them.

It is stated that Roosevelt does not propose to allow Elihu Root to preside over the Chicago convention as temporary chairman. No one should be surprised. The Colonel has already decided all contests in his own favor, and naturally does not propose to have his decision interfered with. Has he not declared that he will nominate himself and make the platform? He says he is the people and the people must rule.

If the betting odds quoted in Wall street are to be taken as a guide, the New York gamblers do not believe anybody will be nominated or elected President this year. But they are merely making books that will enable them to win no matter who is nominated or elected. They are playing cold mathematics against the enthusiasm of unsophisticated partisans.

Omaha McHarg talks like a Mexican revolutionist. He says the Rooseveltians intend to organize the convention in their own way regardless of the authority of the national committee and the long-established rules governing the preliminary organization of Republican conventions. He says the preliminary chairman will be elected from the floor of the convention. Who will be entitled to vote at such an election? Who will decide as to whom has the right to vote? Over 300 seats in the convention are contested, but it is apparently the Roosevelt program that the contestants who favor him shall be permitted to participate in the election of a chairman who will appoint the committee on credentials. Plainly a coup d'etat is planned. If the scheme outlined with such brutal bluntness by McHarg is carried out it will split the Republican party wide open.

The Hon. Terence Wahoo Hurroo Shanahan, the Tall Shannigan of Shaata, has again risen to defend the rights of the people. His eagle eye sees danger in the proposal to amend the free textbook amendment by the insertion of a provision allowing local boards of education to select the series to be used in their respective ballistics. This time THE TRIBUNE is in hearty accord with the Tall Shannigan. His head may be in the clouds, but it is level on this question. The proposition he opposes would destroy uniformity in the schools and make the cost of supplying free books a grievous burden to the taxpayers. There would be not one, but series of school books. Our system of popular education would have no standard, no unity of form or method. The distinguished and elongated statesman from the upper Sacramento is denouncing the proposition as mischievous and foolish. It is worse; it is extravagant and would plunge our public school system into utter confusion.

It is rather odd but we do not recall that Salt River has been mentioned during the present campaign. Has the public lost interest in that historic stream? Why else should it be dropped from the hyperbole of politics? Be that as it may, the boat will leave for Salt River early in November, carrying the usual passenger list.

The antics of Senator Works has a tendency to convince one that representative government is a failure. But come to think of it, Senator Works is not a representative man, thank heaven.

Socialism in New Zealand.

New Zealand is often pointed to both in America and Europe as an ideal state. It is the example that comes readiest to mind of a successful experiment in modified Socialism. Usually it is cited as an unqualified success, a living proof that the communal system of government promotes happiness and prosperity. But there is another side to the story, one that is far from confirming the rosy tale commonly told of what has been accomplished in New Zealand. A Milwaukee lawyer named Miller spent four months in New Zealand making a study of its institutions, methods of government, etc. His report is an emphatic contradiction of the popular impression that Socialism is a conspicuous success in that country. He pronounces it a financial and industrial failure, says it has about bankrupted the country and caused its inhabitants to deteriorate in moral stamina.

"Socialism has devitalized the people," says Mr. Miller, "and sapped their initiative. Nowhere else in the world have I seen Anglo-Saxons so casual and inefficient. The country has been socialized about as much as it can be. The government owns the railroads, telegraph and telephone lines. It issues life and fire insurance policies. It runs banks. Yet it is hopelessly in debt, because the government has been inefficient and extravagant. Its life insurance has maintained itself, but it has tried so many other experiments that it has had to borrow vast sums to make up deficits, and now about 25 per cent of its income is used in paying interest on these loans. About one person in five is a government employee."

He goes on to state that the doctrine of public right has superseded private right to such an extent as to almost destroy personal interest in the land. Individual improvement is discouraged by a system which makes personal possession precarious or so hampers the right of private ownership as to operate as a deterrent to development. Public spirit along individual lines is torpid, and the spirit of enterprise chilled and dulled to a degree unknown in other lands peopled by the English speaking race. The comparison he draws between New Zealand and Australia and Canada is distinctly to the disadvantage of New Zealand. Yet he says natural conditions in New Zealand are favorable to a high development—more favorable, isolation excepted, than in either Canada or Australia. The climate is temperate and invigorating, the soil fertile and the scenery unrivaled. Both islands are intersected by lofty mountain chains rich in water power and picturesque beauty. The country abounds in clear running streams, lakes and natural meadows. Fresh and salt water fish are abundant, and the forests contain many rare woods. Nevertheless progress lags and agriculture is pursued with the languid method which characterizes tenant farming the world over.

It is a gloomy picture Mr. Miller draws. He may not be wholly unprejudiced, but he is certainly a keen and close observer and submits numerous statistical facts to sustain his conclusions. His criticisms may not be altogether fair, but they are so clearly and intelligently stated as to challenge attention and examination. Unless his statements of fact can be overturned, the case he makes out against Socialism in New Zealand will stand as a strong one. The picture he presents is the reverse of attraction and is animated with vigorous touches on the minor features of a communal system which interferes at every turn with personal liberty and personal initiative.

Roosevelt's boast that he destroyed the political bosses in Pennsylvania sounds queer in view of the fact that Bill Flinn of Pittsburg, Matt Quay's old lieutenant and Chris Magee's old partner, is in complete charge of the works. Flinn was formerly a boss, but since he enlisted under the Colonel's banner he has become a leader.

WORSHIP OF BOOKS

The time is passing when men worshiped books simply as books. Who that has attained middle-age does not remember the gentle, kindly old gentleman or lady who went into ecstasies over a binding, who, revealed in the odd and patchwork appearance of library shelves, who constantly pursued the unusual in snuffy, dusty, second-hand book stores.

Rare volumes still are prized—but they are prized just like any other antiques, simply because they are old and rare. Their rarity determines their value. It is not as it was in the old days, when it did not matter how many copies existed, provided each was a masterpiece of its kind.

The average man today, if he has a library at all, would just about as soon have all the books in one general binding, of the same height and with the titles appearing in a business-like, concise lettering on the back.

They are valuable as they amuse or instruct—but only that far. Once he has derived the pleasure or profit that he desires from them, he does not care particularly what becomes of them.

This is natural. Books are turned out in such numbers, now, so cheaply and so substantially, that they have lost individuality. It's identical with the case of a man who enlists for war. His individuality becomes merged into the mass of the army and only by marked distinction can he rise from the dead level.

Yet, books are more common and more useful today than ever before. Authors are paid more handsomely, their works are more widely read, the avenues to advancement are more numerous and less thorny than ever previously.

However, we have made the reader the great issue today—not the books. No longer is the precious volume the primal proposition, the something infinitely more important because more rare, than the numerous and eager horde of readers.

It's the spirit of the time—a time that respects but does not idolize the printed thought. It is, in a way, indicative of the change that has taken place in the world and that is making all the agencies for man's comfort and advancement subsidiary to the man, himself.—Seattle Times.

FOREIGN TRADE HAS MADE GREAT INCREASE

Total for Year Will Be the Largest on Record for United States.

BOTH IMPORTS AND
EXPORTS ARE LARGE

Coffee Imported, $120,000,- 000, Leading List; African Commerce Large.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The foreign trade of the United States in the fiscal year which ends with next month will show larger totals than in any earlier year. The ten months' figures covering the commerce down to the close of April, just compiled by the bureau of statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor, make it quite apparent that in both imports and exports the totals for the fiscal year 1912 will be the largest on record. Imports seem likely to approximate 1600 million dollars, exceeding by between forty and fifty million dollars the high record import year 1910, when the total was 1577 million dollars. Exports seem likely to approximate 2200 million dollars, or about 150 million dollars more than those of the previous high record of 2049 million made in the fiscal year 1911.

This growth in foreign commerce, while common to both imports and exports, is especially marked in the export trade. Imports have increased approximately $50 million dollars since 1898, while exports in the same time have increased about 1300 million, the excess of exports over imports in the same period increasing from 132 million dollars in 1898 to about 600 million dollars in the current fiscal year. This excess of exports of 500 million dollars for the fiscal year now closing will be larger than that of any year except 1898, 1901 and 1903, in each of which years it was considerably above the 600 million dollar line.

The principal articles comprising the 1600 million dollars of imports in the fiscal year, grouped according to the approximate magnitude of their prospective totals are as follows: Coffee, 120 million dollars; sugar, 110 million; rubber, 100 million; hides and skins, 85 million; chemicals, etc., 90 million; cotton manufactures, fiber manufactures and raw silk, 50 to 55 million; tin, fruits and nuts and wood, including manufactures, each about 45 million; art work, copper manufactures, raw fibers, diamonds and other precious stones, and wool, between 35 and 40 million dollars each, and tea, spirits, wines and liquors, raw cotton, leather, paper, and dairy products, furs and fur skins, fish, cocoa, ranging downward from 20 million to 10 million dollars each. The most conspicuous increases, compared with 1911, occur in art work, over 50 per cent; hides and skins, 40 per cent; sugar, 15 per cent; tin, 20 per cent, and coffee, about 30 per cent.

RAW COTTON, $535,000,000. The leading exports and their indicated totals for the fiscal year are about as follows: Raw cotton, 555 million dollars; iron and steel manufactures, 260 million; meat and dairy products, 180 million; breadstuffs, 135 million; copper, 110 million; minerals, 100 million; lumber, etc., 90 million; cotton manufactures and coal, each about 50 million; agricultural implements, cars and carriages, leather and tobacco, each about 40 million; and vegetable oils and fruits and nuts, between 20 and 30 million dollars each. The largest increases occur in iron and steel, about 20 per cent; meat and dairy products 20 per cent; and copper and mineral oils each 10 per cent, the comparisons, both in imports and exports, relating to values only.

The growth in both imports and exports occurs in our trade with every grand division of the world except Africa, and in the trade with nearly all the leading commercial countries. For the fiscal year the exports to Europe seem likely to reach about 1550 million dollars, against 1308 million in 1911, the former high record year in exports. Exports to North America will approximate 500 million dollars, against the former high record of 457 million in 1911; and those to South America will probably aggregate 125 million dollars, against 109 million in 1911, the former high record in that trade. To Asia the year's exports will amount to about 115 million dollars, a total larger than any other year except 1905, when Japan was drawing large-

Man's Memory Restored After Many Years

GEORGE KIMMEL.

CHICAGO, May 25.—The George Kimmel identification case has taken on a new phase. Kimmel is the man who was serving a term under the name of White, when he was identified by the representatives of an insurance company as Kimmel, who had disappeared from his home in Michigan many years before.

Kimmel's family, claimants for his insurance, refused to acknowledge the claimant, and the memory of his early life was too vague to be convincing on account of a physical infirmity. Mrs. Maud Quigley took an interest in his case and had him sent to the Robert Burns hospital in Chicago where Dr. Loren Widder cut a circular piece from the back of his skull and removed a bone pressing on his brain. He is being nursed back to health by Miss Maud Fritchell.

Those who have talked with Kimmel since the operation say his memory is restored and there remains no doubt that he is Kimmel.

ly upon the United States for food and other supplies for use in the war with Russia, and China was importing large quantities of American cottons to supply the shortage resulting from the closing of the ports and markets of Manchuria, the great Asiatic consumer of cotton goods manufactured in this country. To Oceania the exports for the year will approximate 70 million dollars, against the former high record of 66 million in 1911, or 13 per cent.

RECORD-BREAKING YEAR. On the import side, the totals from all the grand divisions except Africa will be larger in the fiscal year 1912 than in the preceding year, while those from North America, South America and Asia will probably establish new high records. From Europe the year's imports will show an increase of about 20 million dollars when compared with last year, the indicated total for 1912 being approximately 790 million dollars, against 768 million in 1911 and the high record total of 806 million dollars reached in 1910. Imports from North America seem likely to aggregate 320 million dollars, compared with 287 million in 1911 and 285 million in 1910, these being the only years in which that trade has exceeded 300 million dollars. From South America the imports will probably reach, for the first time in any fiscal year, a total of 125 million dollars, the nearest approach thereto having been 118 million in 1910, and 163 million in 1911. The imports from Asia in ten months of the current year were at the rate of 325 million dollars per annum, which sum, if actually reached, will be about 12 million dollars more than the former high records made in 1911 and 1907. From Oceania the year's imports are estimated at 125 million dollars, against 109 million in 1911, the former high record in that trade. To Asia the year's exports will amount to about 115 million dollars, a total larger than any other year except 1905, when Japan was drawing large-

VISALIA, May 25.—An accident that frightened the family of Walter Moranda occurred when Irene, the little 14-year-old girl of Mr. and Mrs. Moranda, wielded a hoe and nearly severed a toe from the bare foot of her sister, Wilma, aged 3 years.

Dr. White was called at once and dressed the wounded member, but for a time it appeared as though the child was going to bleed to death. The baby hid the hoe when she saw what had happened.

Isaac Cohen's Friend Tells of Actions of Tailor Who Met Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—That Isaac Cohen had no women friends; that he scarcely ever communicated or had any dealings with the fair sex and that only a man could have lured him to his death was the statement made by the last friend to see him alive, who gave this information to the police tonight.

The evening of May 18, the day Cohen is supposed to have met death, Fisher dined with him at the California cafe, Powell street, near Ellis. The meal was over at 8:30 and Cohen, after paying his bill, asked to have $20 changed, obtaining three fives and some silver. The money was later found in his own pocket. He told Fisher that he wanted to give it to his son.

GETS A PENSION FOR A FULL TERM

Standing of Soldier Prematurely and Honorably Discharged Explained.

Concerning the pension bill which was recently signed by the President the following query was put to Jesse B. Fuller, United States pension agent at San Francisco.

"Suppose a man enlisted for three years and after having faithfully served sixteen months, was discharged, would he, under the terms of this bill, be entitled to receive a pension of the same amount as if he had served a full term as was his intention when he enlisted, or would he be rated as having served only sixteen months?"

To this Fuller replied: "As I understand the bill, if a soldier enlists for three years and is discharged for any disability incurred when in line of duty, he is entitled to credit for full term. This, however, is a matter that must be decided by the Commissioner of Pensions."

Secretary Knox Expected to Define Nation's Views on Latin Problems.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Announcement was made today of the completed arrangements for the first dinner of the Pan-American Society of the United States, which will take place at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, on the evening of May 27. This society recently organized for the development of more friendly relations between the United States and the other American Republics. It is given in honor of the Secretary of State of the United States and the ambassadors and ministers of the Latin-American countries which comprise the Pan-American Union. All of the twenty-one independent American nations will be represented at the table by their highest diplomatic officers in Washington.

The addresses to be made on this occasion will be of international interest. Secretary Knox is expected to take advantage of this opportunity to outline his views as to the Pan-American policy of the United States, following his recent visit to many of the countries of Central and South America. Ambassador of Brazil, who is regarded as one of the most brilliant statesmen of South America, and a probable future president of Brazil, will speak on behalf of the Brazilian Republic. The distinguished guests, President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Colombia, and Honorable William Gilmer, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, will speak on behalf of the Congress.

FRIENDSHIP ESSENTIAL.
In speaking of the work of the Pan-American society today, Frederick Brown, its secretary, said:
"There has never been a time in the history of this country when the question of our relations with Latin-America has been more vital than it is today. We are opening up the Panama canal to playing our people and our government face to face with new problems and new conditions which by reason of ancient animosities and preconceptions they are ill-prepared to meet. The world's trade routes will be changed and changed permanently; trade conditions both within and without the United States will be modified. New fields of commercial development will be opened up and old ones greatly enlarged, not merely because of the new facilities but because of the publicity that will be given to hitherto obscure opportunities. We need to secure new sources of food supply, and perhaps in time an outlet for our surplus population. These things have been realized by the leading men of Latin-America and are being cordially received by the people of the country."

MUST REMOVE PREJUDICE.
"What do we know of these neighboring countries? What do they know of us? We have had, and still have many misapprehensions of these people, and on the other hand it must be admitted that many of them have had very unfavorable opinions of us. They regard us with much the same favor as a Kansas farmer does a snake. Even the small number among them who look to us for their industrial advancement, do so with a secret regret, regarding us as an evil though a necessary one."
"How then shall we approach them? How shall we bring about amicably the inevitable intermingling of ideas and civilizations so antagonistic at present? Mere commercial relations will do little. A mutual understanding must be established, a knowledge of what each is and what each feels, so essential to an equitable exchange between states, and, one thing being known, which is the basis of contact and association between the leading men of the various countries."
"Such an ideal has brought the Pan-American society into being. Its function is neither political nor commercial, it is purely social, yet social in a large sense. The society was organized last January, and already numbers among its members men of the highest standing in their respective spheres—bankers, lawyers, merchants, journalists, diplomats, all active in fostering social relations between North and South Americans."

WOULDN'T GIVE WIFE CIGARETTE

San Franciscan Is Denied Request and Sues for Divorce.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Whether Mrs. Maud W. Hudson, wife of Edward C. Hudson, a foreman carpenter, is especially fond of the dainty cigarette is not a part of the story, but she certainly exhibited a taste for smoking on a certain occasion in a downtown cafe, if her hubby is to be believed. Hudson sues for divorce, claiming that his wife's habit of smoking cigarettes was brought to his attention by his refusal to comply with her request for a cigarette while they were enjoying dinner in a well-known restaurant. The couple were married May 13, 1911. The court granted the decree.

MARGARET ANGLIN RETURNS TO OAKLAND IN COMEDY

SCENE FROM "GREEN STOCKINGS" IN WHICH MARGARET ANGLIN WILL BE SEEN AT MACDONOUGH THEATRE.

The return of Margaret Anglin to Oakland at the Macdonough Theatre should be a delight to all lovers of fine acting, for she is justly regarded as one of the few great actresses of whom the American stage can boast. It is now two years since we last saw her in the dramatization of Mrs. Deland's fine story, "The Awakening of Helena Richie." On Monday, June 3, for three days, Miss Anglin and her colleagues will be seen in a new and original (and report says decidedly clever) comedy, entitled "Green Stockings," written by A. E. W. Mason, an English playwright, novelist and member of Parliament. This comedy has recently concluded a splendid run of over three months at the Elliott Theatre in New York, where it was hailed as one of the best specimens of what is known as high comedy, to distinguish it from the slapstick methods of latter-day low comedy.

From advance reports it would seem that those who were loth to concede to Margaret Anglin the ability to successfully assume a light comedy role are doomed to agreeable disappointment, for if we are to believe the commentators of things dramatic, the distinguished actress finds herself as much at home in the business of exciting laughter as she is in drawing tears. And so we may look forward with feelings of pleasure to seeing Margaret Anglin as Celia Faraday, the eldest of four daughters, all of whom are married or about to be married, except poor Celia, who, by a singular perversion of fate, is by far the most attractive of them all.

Being an English girl, she was compelled to follow the old English custom of wearing green stockings at the weddings of two of her sisters, and it looks as though she might soon have to purchase a third pair. But no, rather than do that Celia will invent a fancy of her own, and so she does. She tells that she is engaged to a Colonel Smith, who has gone off to Africa to the war, and then, to get rid of the irksomeness of the unknown, she kills him off by inserting a paragraph in a daily paper announcing his death in battle. And then a real Colonel Smith appears, who, having heard of the invention, comes to see what it is all about, and then Celia's troubles begin and continue through three acts of excellent fun.

H. Reeves-Smith, the well-known light comedian, heads Miss Anglin's supporting company.

THIRD HYDE TRIAL STARTS TOMORROW

KANSAS CITY, May 25.—The third trial of Dr. Bennett Clark Hyde, the physician charged with murdering Colonel Thomas H. Swope and attempting to exterminate the Swope heirs that he might gain control of the Colonel's millions, is scheduled to begin in Division 3 of the Criminal Court here on May 27. Both the attorneys for the defense and prosecution stated today that they will be ready to begin the hearing and it is not believed that a further delay will be asked for.

Hyde has already been once convicted of the murder of Colonel Swope. This decision, however, was reversed by the Supreme Court of Missouri and another trial was ordered. The second trial came to an abrupt end when Harry Waldron, a juror, escaped from the jury room and was later adjudged insane.

ARRESTED FOR PASSING FICTITIOUS CHECKS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—William K. Harrison, agent for an advertising machine, was arrested by Detectives Cachel and Armstrong this morning and charged on two counts of passing fictitious checks. He is alleged to have scattered spurious papers among a number of local merchants within the last few months. The complainants against him are a cafe and J. F. Pomell & Co. The amount of the checks were usually under $25.

PLUMAS COUNTY GIVEN IMPETUS

Revival of Mining Industry in Union Valley Leads to Great Activity.

OROVILLE, May 25.—C. G. Pike, a well known business man of La Porte, was in Oroville recently and reports an increasing activity in mining in Union Valley in Plumas county. Pike predicts that Union Valley in Plumas county is soon to be the scene of big mining activity and will become one of the best known camps in the state.

The Hewitt brothers have recently completed the installation of a five-stamp mill upon their property. They are in 600 feet upon their property, and have a ledge 21 feet in width. Most satisfactory values are shown, and indications point to the fact that the property will develop a big paying proposition.

The Wall brothers are now installing a five-stamp mill for Captain Reed, of Oakland, upon the latter's property.

At the Bellevue a force of thirty men are working, and it is known that the company is operating in good paying gravel.

Union Valley was at one time one of the famous placer mining camps of the West. Its quartz ledges have received but little attention until lately. Mining men are now going into the district, and the district is fast coming to the front as a quartz mining camp.

Mr. Pike states that commercially, La Porte and Oroville are now drawing much closer together, and the bulk of the travel from La Porte is now to this city.

Own a Respectable Mouth

If there is anything that will make a person look respectable it is a mouth full of broken, decayed, discolored, irregular or patched-up teeth.

The worst thing you can do to your appearance, and nothing will add to your appearance so much as pretty teeth.

If you don't happen to possess good teeth, even if nature slighted you in the beginning, I can give you teeth that will be the envy of your friends. I make a business of correcting the mistakes of nature—wherever the teeth are concerned.

Best of all, I do the work without causing you any pain. My Tetrasthesia method makes that possible. This wonderful method is really and truly the greatest discovery in the history of dental science. It eliminates pain and fear, and enables people with sensitive teeth to sit quietly and comfortably in my chair while I am preparing, filling, crowning or extracting the teeth.

Will you avail yourself of the grand blessing I offer you or will you pass it by and go to a "tooth-carpenter" who braces you to endure hours of useless misery?

Another thing I want to say, if you have lost most of your teeth don't have the remaining ones pulled, and don't have a partial plate or bridge put in. I can restore all of your missing teeth by my Rex Alveolar method without using plates or bridge-work, provided you have two or more sound teeth left in your mouth.

Rex Alveolar teeth are fixed permanently in the jaws like real teeth. They are so strong and durable that you can eat what you like without danger of breaking them.

Three-fourths of my practice comes to me from pleased patrons, and the reason for it is that I do exactly what I advertise. My prices are within the means of everyone.

Come in and let me examine your teeth free. I'll tell you what you need and what the work will cost. Consultation free.

Hours: 8:30 to 5:30; Sundays, 10 to 12.

Those who cannot call should write for the free explanatory my Tetrasthesia and Alveolar methods.

ARCHBAUD CASE TO BE RESUMED

New Disclosures in Case of Commerce Judge Are Expected.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—New disclosures in the case of Judge Robert W. Archbald, now before the House Judiciary committee, were forecast today as a result of a visit to Philadelphia made by Representative Webb of Virginia, a member of the committee.

Mr. Webb is clothed with power to serve subpoenas. George E. Fitzpatrick, a capitalist; President Thomas of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company; and Edward B. Smith, a director in the company, are to appear and testify. It was admitted that the presence of these witnesses was desired because of an alleged deal with the Grand estate of Philadelphia, in which Judge Archbald was said to have been connected.

Hearings in the case are to be resumed Monday.

U. S. RICH MARKET FOR ALL LUXURIES

Imports of 'Unnecessaries' for Year Reach Total of $200,000,000.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—Luxuries imported into the United States during the fiscal year which ends with next month will exceed $200,000,000 in value. Under this term "luxuries" are included such articles as diamonds, art works, lace and embroideries, champagne and other wines, tobacco and manufactures thereof, ostrich feathers, artificial flowers, toys, perfumery and cosmetics, jewelry, manufactures of gold and silver, and numerous others of this general character.

In many of these articles, especially the more important ones, the imports of the fiscal year 1912 will exceed in value those of any earlier year. Art works, for example, show for the nine months ending with March a total exceeding by 50 per cent the highest record of any earlier year, and will approximate $40,000,000 in value for the full fiscal year, as against $22,500,000 in 1911 and $21,000,000 in 1910.

LARGE DIAMOND DEMAND.

Diamonds will also show a large total for the fiscal year 1912. The nine months' figures thus far received by the Bureau of Statistics, Department of Commerce and Labor show for diamonds and other precious stones a total of $80,000,000, indicating for the full year a total of about $41,000,000, thus exceeding the record of any earlier year except 1910, when the total was nearly $48,000,000, and 1907, when the total was $42,500,000. Uncut diamonds will amount to about one-fourth of the grand total of precious and semi-precious stones.

Lace and embroideries are also an important factor in the general group of "luxuries," or articles of voluntary use, imported. They will amount in value in the current year to about $44,000,000. The growth in the importation of this great group has been very rapid, the total of 1902, a decade ago, having been less than $30,000,000 and the increase in the decade since that time to $14,000,000. Lace includes lace and embroideries, edgings, insertions, ruckings, trimmings, tuckings, lace window curtains and other articles of this general character, whether made of gold and silver.

Other articles and groups of articles which may properly be termed "luxuries" are tobacco and manufactures thereof, which will amount for the year to about $22,000,000; toys, about $9,000,000; ostrich and other feathers, artificial flowers, champagne and other wines, beads and ornaments, musical instruments, perfumery and cosmetics and manufactures thereof.

Europe is the source of the world from which most of these articles of luxury are drawn. Of the $30,000,000 worth of art works imported in the nine months ending with March, France supplied $15,500,000 worth, the United Kingdom nearly $11,000,000 worth and Germany a little more than $1,000,000 worth. Of cotton laces, embroideries, etc., imported, Switzerland supplied about one-third of the total, the remainder being drawn from France, Germany and the United Kingdom. Cut diamonds are also drawn chiefly from Europe, though the product, in that case, of the African mines. Of the $7,500,000 worth of uncut diamonds imported in the latest period for which official returns have been received, $6,000,000 worth was from the United Kingdom and $1,000,000 worth from France. Of the $18,000,000 worth of diamonds, cut but not set, imported in the nine months ending with March, $7,000,000 worth from Belgium, $5,500,000 worth from The Netherlands, $2,250,000 from France and $1,250,000 from the United Kingdom. Of the champagne imports, a very large proportion, approximately nine-tenths, are from France.

PLENTY OF TOBACCO.

The Bureau of Statistics this year for the first time separates the group "cotton, lace and embroideries" into its principal constituents. The first nine months under this new and more detailed grouping shows, for cotton embroideries, about $13,000,000; lace, about $11,000,000; lace window curtains, $750,000; note and net-work, $750,000; and hand-made lace a little over $500,000.

Other articles and groups of articles which may properly be termed "luxuries" are tobacco and manufactures thereof, which will amount for the year to about $22,000,000; toys, about $9,000,000; ostrich and other feathers, artificial flowers, champagne and other wines, beads and ornaments, musical instruments, perfumery and cosmetics and manufactures thereof.

MONEY IS RETURNED TO TELEGRAPH RESIDENTS

Warrants for claims aggregating $14,135.10 were drawn today by George E. Gross, city auditor of Oakland, against the Telegraph avenue opening fund. These warrants are for refunds of assessments levied in the matter of the widening and opening of Telegraph avenue from the northern line of Twelfth street to the southern line of Twenty-second street, a law having been found in the action of the street opening commissioners and Judge Waste having ruled the opening proceedings invalid.

TO SELECT QUARTERS.

Homer Vogt, secretary of the Park Commission, and A. A. Lewis will go to Stockton today to select headquarters for Brooklyn Parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West for the celebration September 4.

APPEALS FOR AID OF FLOOD VICTIMS

Red Cross Society Declares 150,000 People Are Homeless.

NEW YORK, May 25.—The Red Cross has issued an urgent appeal for funds for the relief of sufferers from the Mississippi floods. Money in large amounts is needed—and needed at once to feed and clothe thousands of refugees, to send nurses and doctors to see that hastily patched-up refugee camps do not become hotbeds of typhoid and malaria, and, as the flood subsides, to re-establish the sufferers in their homes, where houses, stock, fences—all the means of livelihood—are swept away.

Ernest P. Bicknell, director of the American Red Cross, issues the appeal and describes the situation in detail. He shows how the flood has been progressive and cumulative. Starting at Cairo, Ill., April 1, it has followed the Ohio and Mississippi rivers down to New Orleans. A great belt of devastated country lies in the flood's path. Farms, villages, cities, have been wrecked. Live stock is dead. Houses were carried away. More than 150,000 people are homeless. There are 25,000 refugees in and about only two of the many flooded districts—at Vicksburg, Miss., and Helena, Ark.

The army has done splendid work, Bicknell says, in rushing supplies, forming refugee camps, rescuing survivors. But the Red Cross must now take charge all down the course of the rampaging rivers. It must continue to feed the people, to maintain order and discipline, to nurse the sick, to provide for the babies that were born in the army tents.

Gradually it must re-establish the people in their homes. "What is the biggest task of all? For that task, the Red Cross is particularly well equipped. Its agents are all through the stricken districts. The need is for money—in generous sums.

Bicknell points out that the comparatively slow progress of the flood has robbed it of the elements of surprise and horror which have been important parts in raising large relief funds following sudden disaster. The prompt action of the army has led some to think that all needs have been met. Just the contrary is the case. To keep tens of thousands of people well in camps and to restore them to their homes and to self-support is a task measuring up in many aspects to the Red Cross work at San Francisco. Contributions should be sent to mayors of cities, governors of states, or to Jacob H. Schiff, treasurer American Red Cross, 52 William street, New York city.

PRINCETON PUTS GAG ON COLONEL

PRINCETON, N. J., May 25.—When Colonel Roosevelt speaks at Princeton University next Monday evening he will not be allowed to make any personal reference to President Taft, although with this exception he may talk politics and partisan matters as fully as he wishes. The condition is expressly put on the ex-President in a statement by President Hibben, granting the use of Alexander Hall for the meeting. President Hibben's statement says:

"The Roosevelt Club is granted permission to hold a political meeting in Alexander Hall on Monday night, May 27, provided that there be no reference of a personal nature to the President of the United States, who has recently been the guest of the university."

The Roosevelt boomers will have to submit to the condition or postpone the meeting, as the university auditorium is the only building in the wilderness suitable for a gathering of this kind.

MEMORIAL SERMON.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—Rev. E. R. Dille, the pastor, will preach at the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, O'Farrell and Leavenworth streets, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "The Christ of Fire." At 7:45 p. m. Dille, who is past deacon of the church, will preach a sermon on "Our Nation's Debt of Honor." Lincoln and Cardwell Post, A. A. R., and auxiliaries will attend.

CERAMIC ART EXHIBIT TO BE MADE AT COLLEGE

Lovers of art will be interested in the annual ceramic art exhibit of the College of the Holy Names on Webster street, which will be open to the public on June 2, 3, 4 and 5 in the studio of the college.

Specimens of work in water color, oils and crayon will also form part of the exhibit. The friends and patrons of the college are cordially invited to visit the studio on the dates named.

GRANTED A LEAVE.
W. S. Gould, a member of the Park Commission, has been granted a leave of absence by the city council, with permission to leave the city. Director Manuel is planning to visit to the interior seaboard.

IMPORTANT TOPICS BEFORE PHYSICIANS

Interesting Program Arranged for American Academy of Medicine Convention.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 25.—One of the most interesting sessions in the history of the American Academy of Medicine is promised by those in charge of the coming convention in this city, May 31 and June 1.

In addition to the routine business, this year's session will be addressed by a number of settlement workers, prominent physicians and sociological experts on subjects of vital importance to the growth and welfare of the nation.

The program for the two-day meeting, as announced today, is as follows:

Friday, May 31.—The report of the committee to investigate the teaching of Modern Civilization in our schools, by Helen C. Putnam of Providence, R. I.; the report of the committee on teaching preventative medicine in universities, by Henry P. Hemenway, M. D., of Evanston, Ill.; and the report of the committee on publishing the details of suicides in the public press, also by Dr. Hemenway. These committee reports will be followed by discussion.

The papers to be read at the first day's sessions are as follows: "Women Wage-earners and Modern Industries," by Dr. James H. McBride of Pasadena, Cal.; "Different Civilization Levels in Modern Society," by M. P. E. Grossmann, Ph. D., of Plainfield, N. THE DEMONS OF THE SWAMP.
Are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then the appetite flies and the strength falls; the man is dead. But Electric Bitter kills and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; gives you a fine appetite and relieves your aching muscles. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucerne, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system. I had had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50c at Osgood Bros.

GEN. OROZCO RALLIES HIS DEFEATED TROOPS

REBEL ARMY TO RESUME CAMPAIGN

American Refugees Journey Twenty Miles on Foot to Make Escape
Many Plantations Owned by Americans Have Been Ruined

AT GENERAL OROZCO'S HEAD-QUARTERS, JIMINEZ, Mex., May 25.—General Orozco is mobilizing his defeated troops today for a resumption of the campaign. The rebel chief found that his reverse at Rellano was serious, having greatly depleted his ranks. All available men have been summoned from outlying districts. Parra, a mining town, has been evacuated by the rebels, who arrived here today. It is believed here that the fact that many railroad bridges have been destroyed since the battle of Rellano will seriously hamper any pursuit by the federals.

REFUGEES JOURNEY ON FOOT. MAZATLAN, Sinaloa, Mex., May 25.—Among the refugees on board the United States transport Buford, which arrived here yesterday, are members of a religious colony of 100 from the islands of Tehuantepec. Tracks had been torn up, bridges destroyed and transportation generally interfered with, they said. The last twenty miles of the journey was made along a trail, two days to await their arrival. The refugees report that a great many bands are operating through the interior. It is said that many plantations and banana plantations owned by Americans have been ruined. No reports of violence to Americans were made, but an anti-American feeling is said to exist at Salina Cruz and no one was permitted to go ashore. The Buford will sail tomorrow for San Diego.

MADERO MAY RESIGN. CHIHUAHUA, Mex., May 25.—A telegram received today at the rebel headquarters here stated that the Mexican Congress has asked President Madero to resign, and he has agreed to do so on July 1. The message has not been confirmed.

It is said that the loss on two claims involved in the suit is worth $250,000. Conklin testified that he had engaged with Howard E. REFINERY MAY BE LARGEST IN WORLD

Millions to Be Spent on Standard Oil Plant at Richmond.

RICHMOND, May 25.—The Standard Oil company is credited with the intention of making the works here the largest in the world. They are already the second largest, only those at Bayonne, New Jersey, center of the oil industry business in the east, surpassing them. Richmond is openly called by the officials of the Standard Oil company, and with some pride, "the home of Standard Oil in California." This state is the greatest oil producing field in the world. It is natural that the greatest oil corporation in the world should establish here the greatest of oil refineries. The question as to when Richmond will become the home of the world's biggest refinery has been brought into prominence by the order received from New York this week that another unit of improvement, costing $1,000,000, be carried out at once. The program for this improvement having already been mapped out, work will begin at once and will be carried on with all the dispatch the Standard Oil company is noted for. Another unit of the Richmond refinery plant, will probably have a big force of men at work executing this order before the end of the month, though no official of the concern will give details concerning this.

SPEND MILLION DOLLARS

On part of this 30 acres, the million dollars last ordered expended will be used to erect a new and better building. These still are mammoth brick affairs. With the 30 in contemplation there will be 123 at the works. Some concrete buildings for various lines of manufacture connected with the oil industry will also be erected. The additional 30 acres that has been brought to grade is on the south side of the works. At the north side steam chisels are cutting into the hills clearing sites for big power house and other buildings. This work is being done under a previous appropriation. You can get exact figures from the Standard Oil people, but a rough estimate would place their investment in the Richmond refinery at $15,000,000. The third pipe line from the great producing fields 800 miles away, to Richmond, is just being completed. The total delivery to the plant here will be about 30,000 barrels a day when it is completed. Many great storage tanks for the finished products and the crude oil already dot the San Pablo hills and many more will be erected. The company has large acreage for storage besides the 373 acres used for the refinery. They now comprise the fleet of the Standard Oil company at Richmond. Two big steamers have recently been added to the Richmond fleet. The company has between Richmond and the ports of the Orient, which are supplied, together with the Richmond refinery, the 175 products of this great refinery. Branch pipe lines are being built by the company in the south and the new field. Some of the steamers run between Richmond and the ports of the Orient, which are supplied, together with the Richmond refinery, the 175 products of this great refinery. Lusty Son and Daughter Tries to Slay Arresting Officer

NEW YORK, May 25.—Dr. David A. Gorton, 622 Eleventh street, Brooklyn, having at the age of 80, married his "littler" secretary, Miss Bertha Rehbein, of half his years, for the purpose (in which his bride fully shared) of testing his scientific and philosophical ideas in the attempt to rear a son at his advanced age, is now arousing keen interest in scientific circles by the success of his intention. Not only has he become the father of a lusty son, whose sex and physical endowment Dr. Gorton declares he had determined by the force of his will, but he has been presented with a daughter, the second twin, born with her brother April 25. Dr. Gorton asserts his experiment is more than successful.

TAFT CERTAIN OF BEING NAMED

President Tells New Jersey Crowds That He Has More Than Enough Votes.

Roosevelt's Managers Declare 'Taint So and Claim Victory on First Ballot.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—With about sixty delegates remaining to be selected, both the Taft and Roosevelt managers today gave detailed figures intended to prove their respective claims to absolute control of the Chicago convention. Representative McKinley claimed 661 instructed and pledged delegates for President Taft, and conceded 663 to Colonel Roosevelt. In neither total did he include the results of the Ohio primaries. Senator Dixon claimed for Colonel Roosevelt 493 instructed, 38 pledged and 62 "will to be elected" in Arizona, South Dakota, New Jersey and Texas. Adding the La Follette and Cummins delegates, 46, he claimed a total of 629 for Colonel Roosevelt.

DEMOCRATIC STATES. Approximately 775 delegates to the Democratic convention have been elected or slightly more than two-thirds of the total of 1904. The maximum strength claimed by the respective Democratic headquarters today was:

Clark—Instructed, 323; pledged, 68. Total, 391.

Wilson—Instructed, 300; pledged, 275; certain as second choice, 30. Total, 505.

Underwood—Instructed, 100. At Harmon headquarters it was stated that an estimate of strength would be prepared next week.

634 FOR ROOSEVELT. ST. PAUL, May 25.—Colonel Roosevelt will have 634 votes on the first ballot, predicted Ormsby McHarg of New York, a Roosevelt manager, who conferred here today with Senator D. L. Landon of Seattle relative to the contest between the Taft and Roosevelt forces for the control of the national convention.

"While I am not at liberty, not would it be advisable to give out specific information relative to contests pledged," said McHarg, "but we have more than enough to control the convention when the doors open. We have enough instructed delegates now to control and with the pledges in the hands of Roosevelt of support from other sources we will have at least 634 votes on the first ballot."

ROOT MAY BE FOUGHT

CHICAGO, May 25.—Comment was made today by Colonel Harry S. New on the declaration of Ormsby McHarg of New York, a Roosevelt manager, that the Roosevelt forces would refuse to abide by the selection of United States Senator Elihu Root as temporary chairman of the national Republican convention. "Senator Root was chosen by the sub-committee on elections as temporary chairman for his conspicuous fitness for the position his eminent prominence in party affairs, and not for his personal preference for any particular candidate for President," said Colonel New. "I believe the national Republican committee will uphold the sub-committee in its action."

TAFT HAS 570 DELEGATES. NEWARK, N. Y., May 25.—"I have more than 570 delegates instructed or pledged," declared President Taft in a speech at Kearney, near here, today. "New Jersey is not necessary to success, but it would be good to add it. Whether I do or not I have 570 delegates and Mr. Roosevelt's nomination is impossible."

CREDENTIALS RECEIVED

CHICAGO, May 25.—Credentials from 700 of the 1073 delegates to the Republican convention have been received by Secretary Haywood of the national committee. The time set by the committee for the filing of credentials and credentials expires May 29.

CHINESE SHOT TO DEATH BY TONG MAN

Suey Sing Falls Victim of Bullet in Los Angeles Gambling House.

Hop Sing Gunman Is Captured After Shooting, and Claims Self Defense.

LOS ANGELES, May 25.—Ching Loy Hing, a member of the Suey Sing tong, was shot and instantly killed in a Chinatown gambling house here shortly after noon today. Quan Gin Gow, a member of the Hop Sing tong, who came here a few days ago from San Francisco, was captured as he was running away. He admitted the shooting, but claimed that the other Chinese fired first. The dead man's revolver was found a few feet from the body, but all of the chambers were loaded. The dead Chinese came here recently from San Francisco, where he was interpreter in a hospital, and is believed to have been followed by three members of the rival tong, two of whom were arrested yesterday. The prisoner was born in San Francisco.

Several more Chinese members of the Hop Sing tong were arrested late tonight in the Chinese restaurant on East Second street and locked up in the city jail as accomplices of Quan Gin Gow. The men were all armed with heavy revolvers. Police Sergeant Willet, who took the men into custody, speaks Chinese, and declares the Chinese tong-men are hired killers from San Francisco.

TREATY OF PEACE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—A treaty of peace "to last forever," as the highly colored Oriental rhetoric styles it, was entered into today between the warring Hop Sing, Suey Sing, Sen Suey Yung and Hip Sing tongs.

The treaty was signed by leaders of the Hop Sing tong at the headquarters of the Chinese six companies. The tongs had been in conference for nearly an hour when word came that a Hop Sing feudist had been killed in Los Angeles.

The news created intense excitement and for a time it looked as if the treaty would be declared off. The heads of the tongs finally put down the clamor, however, and the treaty was signed.

Under the terms of the treaty no indemnities are to be exacted for the tongs killed while the treaty was in force. Each tong is to use its own discretion in the matter of prosecuting men under arrest for shootings during the trouble.

The next day, through his lawyers, he made an appeal to Congressman Sabath, who has asked the Navy Department for a full statement of the case. Kapsa's refusal to submit to vaccination on the ground that he is a Christian Scientist is believed to be the first of its kind on record.

BOWLING GREEN AT EASTLAKE PARK IS READY

New Recreation Grounds Will Be Thrown Open to Public Thursday Afternoon.

After waiting patiently for over a year for the great to grow sufficient to permit playing, it has finally been decided that this can be done from now on, and the popular Scotch game will start on Thursday, May 26, with a match game with the San Francisco club. The purpose of the beautiful new green located near the McMillan fountain, has been a puzzle to great many visitors to the park. This need no longer be so to those who care to visit the park on weekdays, especially on Wednesday and Saturday when the athletic play and the enthusiasm displayed there, will see a repetition of it on Thursday at Lake-side park. The Oakland players are delighted with the prospect of again reclaiming the game, many of whom have not thrown a bowl since giving up the game in 1914. The new green will be thrown open to the public on Thursday afternoon, and in consequence, the long-expected opening will be a realization on Thursday. The park commissioners have spared no effort in having this green a credit to the city of Oakland. The picturesque surroundings and the green itself make it one of the most beautiful and up-to-date in the world, not even surpassed in Bonita Scotland, where every city and village boasts both public and private greens. It is now up to the citizens of Oakland to make the most of this recreation spot. The business and professional men, are welcome to join the club at a small fee per month. It is a Scotch game, and anyone who figures more than golf, and anyone who bowls duck pins will readily learn to bowl on the green. It is hoped to have Mayor Frank E. McHugh roll the first bowl in the match.

Tommy Ryan and Howard Morrow are on their way to Las Vegas to assist in the training of Jim Flynn. Ryan says he will be glad to return here in the fighting line for his middleweight protegee. Although Ryan says he looks for Jack Johnson to give Jack a tough fight, the fans out this way have a different opinion. "The murder in January at Albany of Arthur Brown, one time first baseman of the Royals, is unavenged. The courts acquitted the man arrested for the shooting."

D WHEELMEN ARE STAGE CLEVER BOYS

Rees Will Furnish Next Pugilist for Oakland Fans; Gossip of the Roped Arena

early date the followers of the padded mitts are going to perk up to the next card of the Oakland men, that is, the ten-round bout between Louie of Los Angeles and Frankie Burns of Oakland Matchmaker. Moffitt has signed for the 5th of these two boys should give the fans an exhibit that should please the most exacting for the one can and will scrap. Rees is a new-comer here, a well recommended and in his initial bout evidence that he was all that the southern fans about him.

at the way he handled himself with the gym apparatus, as well as when he boxed with his sparring partners. As an opener to the boxing Rees and Burns, the boy who boxed Willie Robinson one of the best mills ever seen at the Vincennes show, went through two round rounds and the critics were greatly impressed with the style of the youngster up and Rees slipped over a knockout punch in the second round, ending the contest then and there. Today he will begin his gym work at 5 o'clock and will take on Sid Burns for three rounds, and another boxer for a like number who is yet to be found. The last two boxing matches around

TRIBUNE DRUM CORPS AND ROOTERS OFF FOR CAPITAL

This morning at 9:30 Clay Greenfield and his fifteen Bean Brummels of the Tribune Drum Corps will leave for Sacramento via the excursion de luxe that is to run over the Southern Pacific by way of Sixteenth street station. All the boys are primed for the occasion and at inspection last night looked like real live drummer boys in their spick and span uniforms, new and shining instruments and handsome banner. Arriving at Sacramento Clay will take the van and will lead the rooters around the several streets of the capital to the hotel, where a serenade is to be tendered to Manager Sharp and his Oaks. After a lunch the corps will journey to the ball park and help the rooters root for the Oaks. The train bearing the boys and rooters is to leave Sixteenth street station at 9:30 a. m. and will arrive in Sacramento at 12:20. This will allow plenty of time for the parade and a bite to eat before the ball game.

Far be it from white hopes, but one thing is certain then can and do put up a mighty nifty go when pitted against each other. Both are of the lumbering sort of millers who have a punch in either hand that has as much power behind it as the kick of a government mule. This, they demonstrated the last time they met, for each put the other to the floor and almost out with that punch. Besides these two there will stage two other round bouts, also a six-round bout and possibly two. HEAVYWEIGHTS TO MILL. Red Watson will meet Abe Label in one of the 10 round bouts, while Jimmy Carroll and Spidee Roche will box the other. Barney Ritcher and Young Sharkey are down for six rounds. LITTLE INTEREST IN FLYNN. Each day the mail is filled with press agent stuff from Las Vegas, Nevada, about the doings of one Jim Flynn and one Jack Johnson, but in most cases the junk reaches the boys in the basket. One of these fellows are creating little or no interest in the minds of the men that follow the pugilistic game. Maybe it will be all that the press agent says it is to a fight, but the past record of Flynn as an opponent of Johnson doesn't help out the men. The two men are just to make the bout interesting the colored man let the white may stay eleven rounds, but in the hands of W. Fuller. A box of bats is offered as prize in a doubles tournament, which is also scheduled for next week.

TYRUS COBB IS LET OFF WITH LIGHT PUNISHMENT

CHICAGO, May 25.—President Ben Johnson of the American League tonight lifted the suspension against Ty Cobb, the star outfielder of the Detroit club, and gave him permission to rejoin his team in Chicago tomorrow. Cobb was fined $50.

GEORGE STONE SURE COULD HIT THE BALL

A one time great hitter and gracefully into oblivion when the Milwaukee American Association unconditionally released George Stone, the reigning sensation in the American league during 1924. During that year Stone, who was with St. Louis, smacked over 400 home runs, and without fear or favor, finishing the season with the percentage of .358. Stone had a peculiar crouch at the plate and being a left-hand batter, he chopped and swung many of his hits down the left-field foul line and to left center. George, however, was no startling fielder, being particularly weak on round balls, and using poor judgment of fly balls, especially those which went over his head. His wonderful hitting, however, covered these smaller sins until the American League found him weak spot.

OVER FIFTY RUNNERS HAVE ENTERED FOR MARATHON

Crack Athletes From All Over State Will Take Part In Californian Games, May 30th.

Fifty odd runners had entered THE TRIBUNE to Shell Mound park race, given by the Californian club, when the entries closed last night and the field is one of the best ever entered in a race of its kind in this vicinity. Every entry will have to run for failure to appear without satisfactory excuse is a violation of the laws of the Amateur Athletic Union and the registration committee of the A. A. U. will punish any offender. Club giving a race and the public as well must be protected. It is going to be a great race from every point of view and the best of it all will be that this race will only be a curtain raiser to what will follow. The greatest set of open games ever held on the Pacific coast, think of it, 175 athletes competing for the handsome medals, running races, jumping and vaulting contests. There will be the greatest contest of the season with entries from all sections of the bay competing. There is but one regrettable feature about the races and that is not an Oakland grammar school has entered a team while across the bay schools have entered very strong and from far off Stockton a team of 8 youngsters in charge of Professor J. O. Gossett of the Stockton high school and physical director of the grammar schools. This does not speak well for local schools. Today the handicaps will be made out and announced either Monday or Tuesday nights, so watch for your names and handicaps.

BARRY AND LANGFORD SHOULD BE FOREVER BLACKLISTED

How much longer will promoters continue to bamboozle the public with the likes of Jim Barry and Sam Langford? These two have pulled off more crooked stuff in the ring than any ten men one can name. They have worked their bunk from New York to San Francisco and even in Australia. Philadelphia sport writer has the following to say about them: "Including the Australian contest, Barry and Langford have performed the brother act 11 times. Twice in Boston, April 7, 1908, and June 19, of the same year, they became careless, and Barry was knocked out once in the second and the next time in the third round. Just how match-makers and managers could be deluded into staging a bout of this kind has been a mystery to the sports. For both men grace the 15th of July for it was of a decided yellow hue. April 14, 1909, Albany, N. Y. sports were the victors, and they had to stand it for 10 rounds. One year later to the day, another trip to the coast had been made, and this time the California sports wanted something quick, so Barry went down in the 16th round in the ring at Vernon, Cal. They both turned up in Australia at the same time, and went through their brother act once more. The matchmaker Langford had to cut loose because he is angling for a bout with Champion Johnson. American promoters beware, Langford and Barry are itching their faces somewhere."

STOCK BREEDERS TO SEEK VOTES TO REVIVE RACING

Prominent Men of State Meet at San Francisco and Devise Means to Save Industry

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—A general meeting of stock-breeders, agriculturists and horsemen was held at the Palace Hotel this morning for the purpose of adopting a measure providing for the appointment of a State Racing Commission and the privilege of conducting horse races by the pari-mutuel machines and auction pools systems; also to prohibit bookmaking upon horse races or any other event and to prevent the conducting or maintaining of poolrooms in the State of California.

The meeting was attended by some 50 delegates of the different harness racing associations and breeders. Organized further effected with Colonel James C. Kirkpatrick as chairman and J. A. Chancelor of Los Angeles secretary. The Associated Horse Breeders' Association of California was adopted as the name of the new organization. PLAN INITIATIVE MEASURE. A measure drawn up by A. B. Spreckels and seconded by Harry T. Crowell was finally adopted to be submitted directly to the voters at the next general election. The measure at the next general election. The names of some 200 prominent citizens of California were affixed to the petition approving the measure. It is one of the provisions of the act that any association or corporation formed for the purpose of racing and breeding horses shall be subject to the measure. In regard to the racing and breeding of horses and conducting races and contests of speed between horses shall be subject to the measure. The measure provides that no association or corporation shall hold any race meeting to exceed in the aggregate 100 days in the calendar year. In regard to the racing commission the act provides that the Governor appoint five persons all of whom shall have been breeders and raise of horses for five years, preceding their appointment, none of whom shall be an officer in any corporation or association or race track, and the commission shall be paid by the racing corporations or associations obtaining licenses under the act. PROHIBIT BOOKMAKING. Provision is made that any person who engages in pool selling or bookmaking with or without writing at any time or place, shall be punishable by imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than 30 days or more than one year. M. F. Tarpey, of Fresno, addressed the meeting at length and expressed himself in the opinion that under the proposed act horse racing could be carried on not only at a profit to those engaged in the racing of horses, but to the breeder, the State and everybody in general. Unity T. Clemen, in proposing the measure, discussed the proposition along the same lines. Another meeting will be held tonight at the Mission Promotion association hall. It was announced that the meeting of the committee on the weather the matinee races scheduled for the stadium tomorrow afternoon would be postponed until Decoration day. PROMINENT MEN BACK PLAN. Among those in attendance at this morning's meeting, or who signed the petition in favor of adopting the new act were the following: A. B. Spreckels, Richard M. Tobin, John A. Chancelor, Frank R. WILTSE'S WATCH IS LUCK FOR MARQUARD

The Giants say that Marquard has obtained possession of George Wiltse's famous watch, which always brings good luck to its wearer. The story goes that many years ago Wiltse fell into a swamp and came up with a good watch. He lent it to his friends, and for a long time Christy Mathewson was alleged to have it. Anyhow, the Giants used to get runs whenever Matty pitched. Leon Ames never was allowed to pitch the charm, and consequently he lost many well pitched games because the team failed to score behind him. And now the traditions allude to Ruben as "Watch" Marquard.

TRIBUNE DRUM CORPS WILL JOURNEY TO SACRAMENTO TODAY

State Leaguers to Present Formidable Line-Ups at Freeman Park This Afternoon

STATE LEAGUE WILL HOLD FORTH AT FREEMAN PARK

Baby Oaks Scheduled to Meet Baby Senators This Afternoon; Gossip of the Ball Field and Players

By BERT LOWRY.

THIS afternoon at 2:30 at Freeman Park, the Oakland and Sacramento teams of the California State League will make their initial bow to the fans hereabouts, and right here it wants to go down in the little book that these teams; in fact, the whole organization, is worthy of the support of the baseball-loving people.

In the ranks of the major leagues have been found and always will be found California ball players who have been and are stars of the first magnitude in their respective positions. Go where you will and it will be hard to find the superior of Jim Fogarty, Bill Lange, Fred Carroll, George Van Hatten, Jerry Denny, Earl Chase, Ping Bode, Harry Wolters, Duffy Lewis and countless others, and every one of these players was at one time a California buster or more exact a State Leaguer.

It is the aim of the State League to develop players and they have the material and timber to do that, but they must have support. The Coast League naturally is the first love of the fans, but let him support the State League and he will lend his aid to improving conditions in the Coast League.

For an example, should the State League develop eight or ten real first men this season, they will graduate to the ranks of the Coasters, for the Coasters have promised to buy those players and to do all they can to encourage and back up the State League.

This means that with these newly developed players making good the Coast League teams will be strengthened; just what the fans are crying for.

CLEVER YOUNGSTERS IN RANKS.

In today's game at Freeman Park will be found several youngsters that are real clever ball players, but they have never had the chance to show their real worth.

Manager McDonnell of Oakland will have a youngster named Stinson at first, a bank clerk during the week, but an athlete on Sundays. This lad is a really clever first baseman and right now is under the eye of the Coast League managers.

Harry Nelson, sometimes called "Slim," a one-time prime favorite with Oakland fans, is one of his pitchers.

Last year "Slim" was caught cold in his arm and was forced out of the game, but he has been pitching of late in a manner that shows he still has a good game left, as the saying is, and he may work today.

If he doesn't it may be Brookes or Martini of Oakland's cast.

In the Sacramento outfit will be found Charley Doyle, a clever baseball man in brains and playing ability and he has behind him a good bunch of youngsters.

The balance of the teams, Stockton, San Francisco, Modesto and Galt, are well filled with ambitious ball players and the reports of the games so far played are glowing in the way the youngsters have acquitted themselves.

The policy of the league is clean baseball and President George Fryaser and his associates are striving with might and main to make the league a go, and a little encouragement here and there will do a whole lot toward making the California League a success.

CARL MORRIS SAYS HE WAS JOBBED AT SPRINGFIELD

SAPULPA, Okla., May 25.—Carl Morris will not quit the fight game. He emphatically denied this morning that he intended to go back to his engine. Carl says that he is going to take a little fighting and hunting trip and then go up and that he will then go into training again. Morris is emphatic in saying that the Springfield fight was one of the worst frame-ups ever pulled off in the game. "I will give my services to any athlete," he said, "but I can't stop McCarthy in 10 rounds." "But I won't fight with a county attorney or police force for nothing," he said. "The only chance they had to beat me in Springfield was to stop the fight when I was in a little bad shape, and for the first time, too. One understanding I had when I went into that fight was that the officers were going to stop it when one of us got to bleeding too badly. Morris was bleeding profusely from the start and nothing was done. I am a good loser and I am a good winner, but I am not a deal without the people knowing it."

Carl still believes that he will get a fight with Johnson if he wins the Las Vegas fight with Flynn or if he takes out the championship.

MANY PRESENTS FOR CINCINNATI REDS IF THEY WIN

CINCINNATI, May 25.—Cincinnati business men will greatly reward the Reds should they win the National League pennant. At a meeting of a booster club of the Reds, it was decided to present the team with a number of presents if they win the pennant. The presents include a number of automobiles, a number of houses, and a number of other valuable presents.

A president of a large tailoring establishment told the organization that he would give a $40 suit to each member of the team if they win the pennant.

FLAME DELHI WILL JOIN SEALS AT LOS ANGELES

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—"Flame" Delhi, star pitcher for the Los Angeles team in the Pacific Coast League in 1911, who was sold to the Chicago White Sox in mid-season and given a chance in the American League this spring, was turned over to the San Francisco club this afternoon by Chicago and will start for the coast tonight. He is expected to join the Seals in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Since the close of the training season, Delhi has been unable to strike his stride with the White Sox. While the Sox were in Texas, however, he made a big impression on Owner Comiskey and Manager Jimmy Callahan, and for a time he was hailed as a second Ed Walsh.

The "Middle West climate has not agreed with him, apparently, and he has been unable to pitch his best brand of ball.

It was the "iron man" of the league last season, pitching in fifty-seven games, for a pitching average of 5.66. The American League was not so kind to him, and they dumped him with the percentage of .392. Delhi won nearly twice as many games as his team's percentage.

ILLNESS OF AD WOLGAST WAS MAKING OF RITCHIE

Californian Got First Real Start to Fame in Battle With Freddie Welsh; Rise Has Been Rapid

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—All that Willie Ritchie, the San Francisco lightweight, possesses in the way of prestige is due, directly or indirectly, to Champion Ad Wolgast. It was through Wolgast being taken down with appendicitis that Ritchie was sent for in a hurry to box Freddie Welsh at Los Angeles. Prior to that time Willie was a plain, ordinary four-round specialist at the Friday night shows in this city. As Wolgast's understudy he performed so well against Welsh that his star began to ascend. He went east and commanded matches. He did so well that he came to be looked upon as a good, serviceable lightweight.

When anything sensational-like that, occurs people at a distance are inclined to give full weight to the glowing accounts that emanate from the seat of disturbance.

ALLOWANCE IS MADE.

Allowance is made for a very common human error, namely, a tendency to exaggerate the doings of the under dog in a fight, crowd, particularly the hope of witnessing the unexpected ways, the emotions, and to attach wrong values to the things that happen.

In this particular instance, however, the fact remains that a champion of the world had a remarkably close call.

The thing to be avoided is the making of a wrong analysis of Wolgast's showing in the fight with Ritchie. It indicates or suggests a permanent loss of fighting strength or talent. Wolgast was evidently distressed after a somewhat hard bumping match with Ritchie, so much so that the chances are his work during the remainder of the bout was not what it would have been had he not been so badly hurt.

WOLGAST'S BACK.

A great many, when they heard this, murmured, "That's all, fiddlesticks. The operation he underwent has left a weak spot in his back, and he is no longer what he was." Ritchie's shoulders, a year ago he would not have minded a little bump like that. His ruggedness is impaired and his championship days are over.

It is true, it was his back that was hurt, and it was his back that was hurt, and it was his back that was hurt.

TACOMA RAISES $25,000 FOR RACES

Merchants Generously Donate
Big Sum for Coming
Speed Carnival.

Twenty-five thousand dollars has just been raised in Tacoma to finance the coming road races that will be held there June 5 and 6. Although the merchants and business men generally had been parting freely with their cash to further the interests of the elaborate Montanara feste June 30-July 5, it did not take the finance committee long to put another tax of $25,000 on the commercial field of the city.

All that was asked was that they be shown that the races would be a benefit to the city. That much was quickly demonstrated, and the cash was at once forthcoming. It has been with automobile races as with everything else that Tacoma has wanted, in the upbuilding of its industries, resources, commercial interests and its home life. Whatever the Puget sound city has decided it needed, it has gotten by sheer enterprise. It was so with the great concrete stadium that now fills what was once an unsightly gulch; it was so with a fund of $60,000 which was raised in almost no time for publicity purposes, and with many other things, costly but of singular importance to the city at large.

PREPARING FOR VISITORS.

The race committee is now devoting its attention to preparations for extending the hospitality of the city to its summer visitors. The members are confident that they will be called upon to accommodate the largest crowds that ever invaded the city. Speed contests between the pilot kings of the road have ever drawn the greatest crowds ever assembled for their own pleasure. Santa Monica recently had host to more than 150,000 persons when Tetzlaff and his confederates laid some world's records to rest on the road course there.

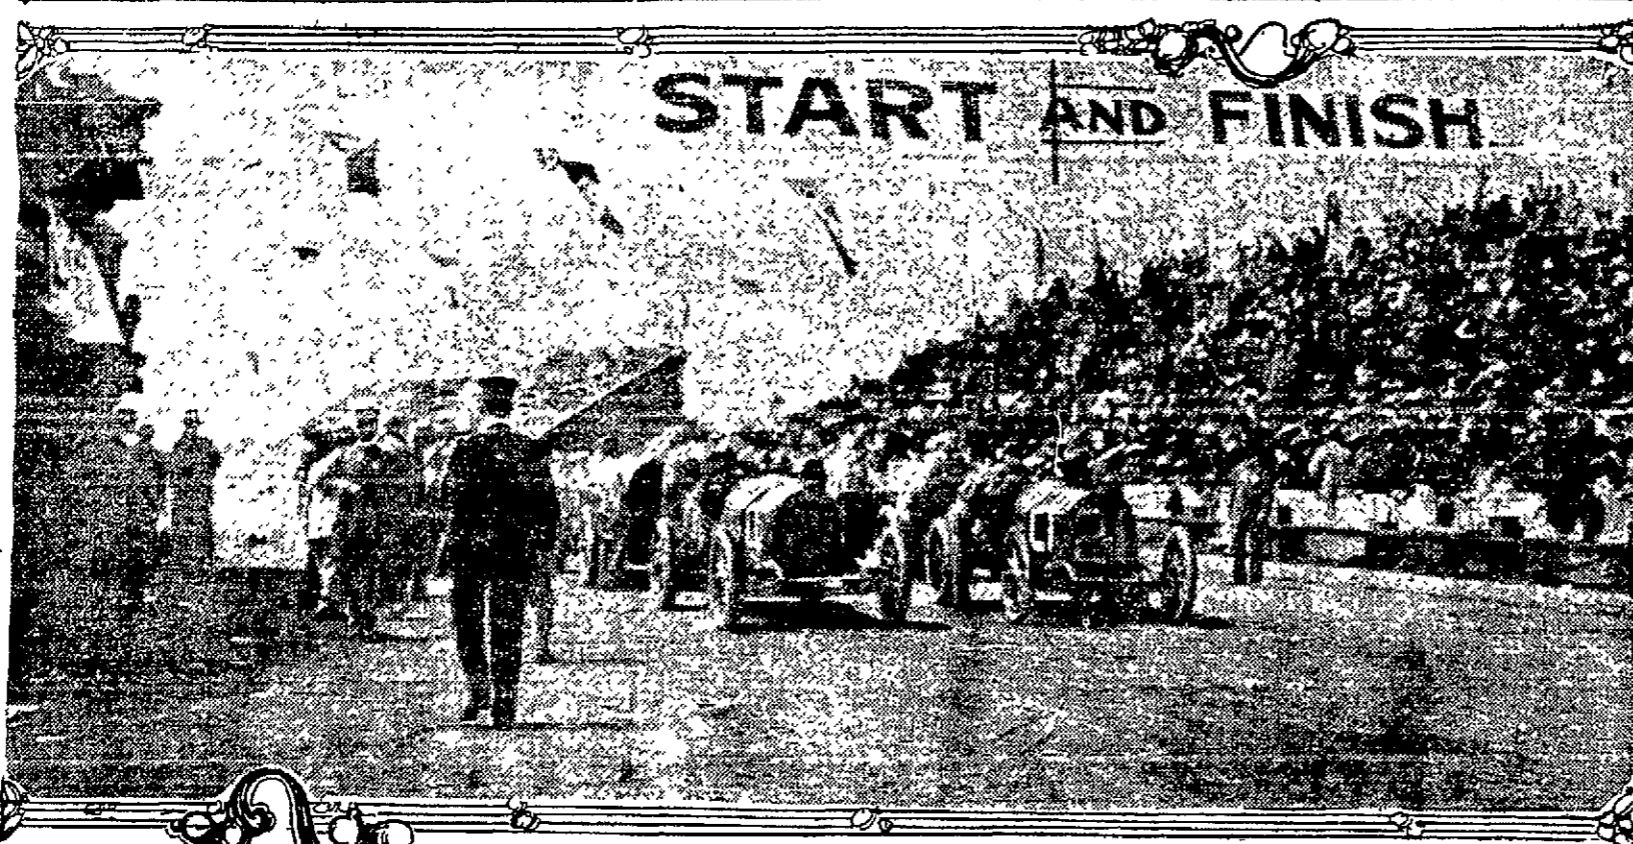

An item of importance in the Tacoma plans is that Fred J. Wagner, veteran motor race starter of the New world, will officiate there in July. He is using his influence in the East to swing some big entries in the Indianapolis race to Tacoma. Robert G. Wagner has been appointed representative of the race committee in Seattle. The committee is making similar appointments each week for various coast cities.

CZAR OF RUSSIA BUYS STODDARD-DAYTON CAR

Motor cars for the crowned heads of Europe have been limited, until recently, to the pick of the foreign products. Kings and crowned princes of the far east—emperors of remote kingdoms that are seldom heard of—are eagerly purchasing American automobiles; but it has been difficult for the European agents of American cars to convince the royal chancelleries that Yankee cars are fit for imperial patronage, despite excellent service which they are giving.

An entering wedge in royal trade has been driven by the Odessa agent of the Stoddard-Dayton car, who has cabled an order for a Stoddard-Dayton "Stratford" headlight to "his majesty," the czar, of Russia, and the car will be shipped by the next steamer from New York.

Getting ready for the start in the recent Santa Monica race. Starter Wagner is giving his final instructions. The cars in front are the two Stutz entries, driven by Cooper and Lewis.

NEW MANAGER FOR OSEN HUNTER CO.

C. L. Hebrank Steps Into Office; Peacock to Go With A. E. Hunter Co.

Of interest to local motor car dealers and owners is the announcement of the withdrawal as active manager of the Osen & Hunter Auto Company of E. L. Peacock. His office duties and title have been assumed by Charles L. Hebrank. The latter makes his advent into the automobile business in taking on the position formerly occupied by Peacock.

Peacock will still maintain his interest in the firm and devote a little of his time to it, but will be more actively interested in the A. E. Hunter Auto Company of San Francisco, a concern in which he will play a big part. Associated as he will be with Mr. Hunter, who also holds stock in the local company, Mr. Peacock will take on greater responsibilities and cover a much wider territory.

The Hunter Company are representatives in Northern California for both Garford trucks and pleasure cars and the Firestone Columbus line. Columbus Electrics are also looked after by them.

Mr. Hebrank has owned half a dozen different models of the Mitchell in as many years and is thoroughly familiar with the line. He is well acquainted here and will, no doubt, meet with continued success as the active manager of one of our oldest and best-known firms.

ELECTRIC MAINTENANCE CO. IS MEETING DEMAND

The Electric Vehicle Maintenance Company seems to meet a want felt among owners of electric pleasure automobiles and electric trucks. The company has made possible for users of this type of car a service formerly needed but not within reach, at least with the same degree of satisfaction.

Dick Scraba, manager of the firm, is confident of the future success of the business.

MULFORD IS PLEASED WITH HIS KNOX RACER

Ralph Mulford has been on the motor parkway on Long Island the past few days tuning up his new six-cylinder Knox for the Indianapolis 500 mile race on May 30. "To use Mulford's words, he is 'tickled to death' with his new mount, and declares it to be the steadiest car he ever sat in. When asked about the speed, his usual smile broadened, and all he would say was, 'I'll make some of those drivers think they are in a race.'"

Wealthy Lumberman Writes of His Experience Since Owning This Car.

The individuality of California is one of its marked peculiarities which caused the stranger within its gate much thought, especially if he be a business man seeking to bring before the citizens of the state his productions.

Henry L. Hornberger, the manager of the new coast branch of the Oakland Motor Company, has been forcibly struck by this interesting condition. In speaking of California's individuality he said: "While the state is California, yet it is interesting to know the different models of motor cars that are in demand in different sections. In the East a model will be popular all over a state, and here one section will take up a special design, and it is almost impossible for the agents to fill orders, while in some other sections the same model will run second in demand to some other. I have found this particularly so with the Oakland cars.

Our Oriole, model 28, is the most popular car in Southern California, especially with professional men, and incidentally doctors. Time and again we have had to rob our reserved stock here for their benefit. To me the cause for this demand seemed unusual, and investigation proved that one of the many attractive features was its low gasoline consumption, as several of the owners were averaging twenty miles to the gallon. We have recently made tests here and find in this section that about the same results are obtained. While the factory has not claimed this for the car, it was most gratifying to know that the Oriole model was giving this satisfaction.

It is one of the most convenient, thorough utility cars that has been designed by our factory, being specially adapted to salaried, doctors and other professional men."

MANY NEW BUILDINGS GOING UP IN RICHMOND

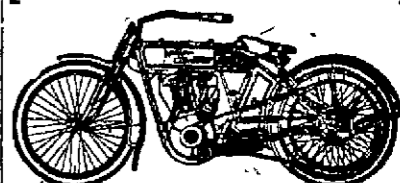

RICHMOND, May 25.—Building permits were issued today by City Architect J. B. Thornburn amounting to $26,000, as follows: W. E. Thurman, 2-story concrete building, $15,000; C. L. Smith, 2-story frame building, $4,000; C. Overa, 2-story frame building, $6,000. More than 100 new dwellings are now in progress of erection, and a dozen or more business buildings, yet it is hard to find anything to rent. Pulling down and all existing tracts and districts are also building rapidly.

FIRST PREMIER DELIVERED BY THE NEW AGENT

F. H. Dalley, head of the company bearing that name, has made his first sale and delivery of one of the new Premier cars, the purchaser being J. V. Rogers of this city. The latter has taken a seven-passenger six-cylinder touring car model, the largest produced by the Premier factory.

The car is a beauty in appointment and equipment and Mr. Rogers has many a pleasant trip in store for him.

The Dawn of the New-Type Tire

After Ten Years

Before this great success came to Goodyear tires we had spent ten years in perfecting them.

We wore out countless tires on testing machines to compare one idea with another.

Then we compared some 200 theories, and some 40 formulas for tread. Thus we compared every method of making.

Then we invented a new-type tire—a bookless tire—which makes air-cutting impossible.

Then we made these tires 10 per cent over the rated size, to save the (drivers) due to overloading.

By these two latter features—No-Rim-Cut and over-size—we doubled the average tire mileage.

Then Men Awoke

Then motor car owners began telling others about these remarkable tires. The demand came like a flood.

In two years the sale of No-Rim-Cut tires has multiplied six times over. It has tripled in the past 12 months.

Now over one million have gone into use, on some 200,000 cars. And these patent tires by far out-sell any other tire in existence.

Ask one of these users to tell you what these tires mean to him. After that you will never buy any other.

Our 1912 Tire Book—based on 12 years of tire making—is filled with facts you should know. Ask us to mail it to you.

ELECT HEAD FOR STANDARD OPEN A 50,000 MILE CLUB SERVICE BRANCH

Lee Meriwether Chosen President of Unique Maxwell Order.

Lee Meriwether, a noted author, tourist and motor scout, who has driven Maxwell automobiles more than 100,000 miles, has been elected president of the 50,000-Mile Maxwell Motor Club, recently formed as a national organization to encourage touring, and reward owners of Maxwell automobiles according to the mileage they have made.

Mr. Meriwether is the first motorist to qualify for one of the gold medals which the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Company is presenting through the club to all owners who have traveled 50,000 miles or more. Naturally, the largest number of owners are qualifying for the silver medal which go to the 5,000-mile class, but the 50,000-mile class has shown a large prospective membership. Mileage as high as 110,000 have been reported by some members.

To Carry Out Policy Already Adopted in Other Cities; Electric Here.

Following out a policy adopted in San Francisco and Los Angeles, where salesrooms are maintained, the Standard Motor Car Company have opened a service department in this city in connection with their Oakland branch.

Placed in charge is an expert mechanic, trained in the care of Stoddard, Dayton, Ford and Federal trucks, three lines the Standard Company represent.

With the added department, the local branch takes its place among those firms who are really prepared to satisfactorily care for owners of their cars.

Tomorrow the first of the new models of Baker Electric will be placed on display in both the Oakland and San Francisco salesrooms, and their arrival and presentation is certain to attract lovers of the latest in electric vehicles. The arrangement by which the Standard Motor Car Company became distributors for the Baker was announced some time ago. Some delay has been experienced in getting the new models out, a condition now remedied.

The Baker has enjoyed quite a little share of the favor accorded this class of car. In its new hands a still larger number of them will be put out.

ROAD TESTING IS POOR SCHOOL FOR DRIVERS

"Road testing, as a school for race drivers, does not make much of an appeal to me," says George E. Daniels, general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Michigan, who recently visited the San Francisco branch of his company. "For a long while we have been endeavoring to pick out a capable driver who can put a car over a prescribed course with care and precision and get the greatest amount of work out of his motor, but we find that all of our good drivers are too intent upon watching the operation of their engines to attempt fast driving or practice themselves in accomplishing creditable driving performances upon the road. This is due in great measure to the fact that our road tests are over a 150-mile stretch, and our boys are always busy studying the action of their cars for flaws."

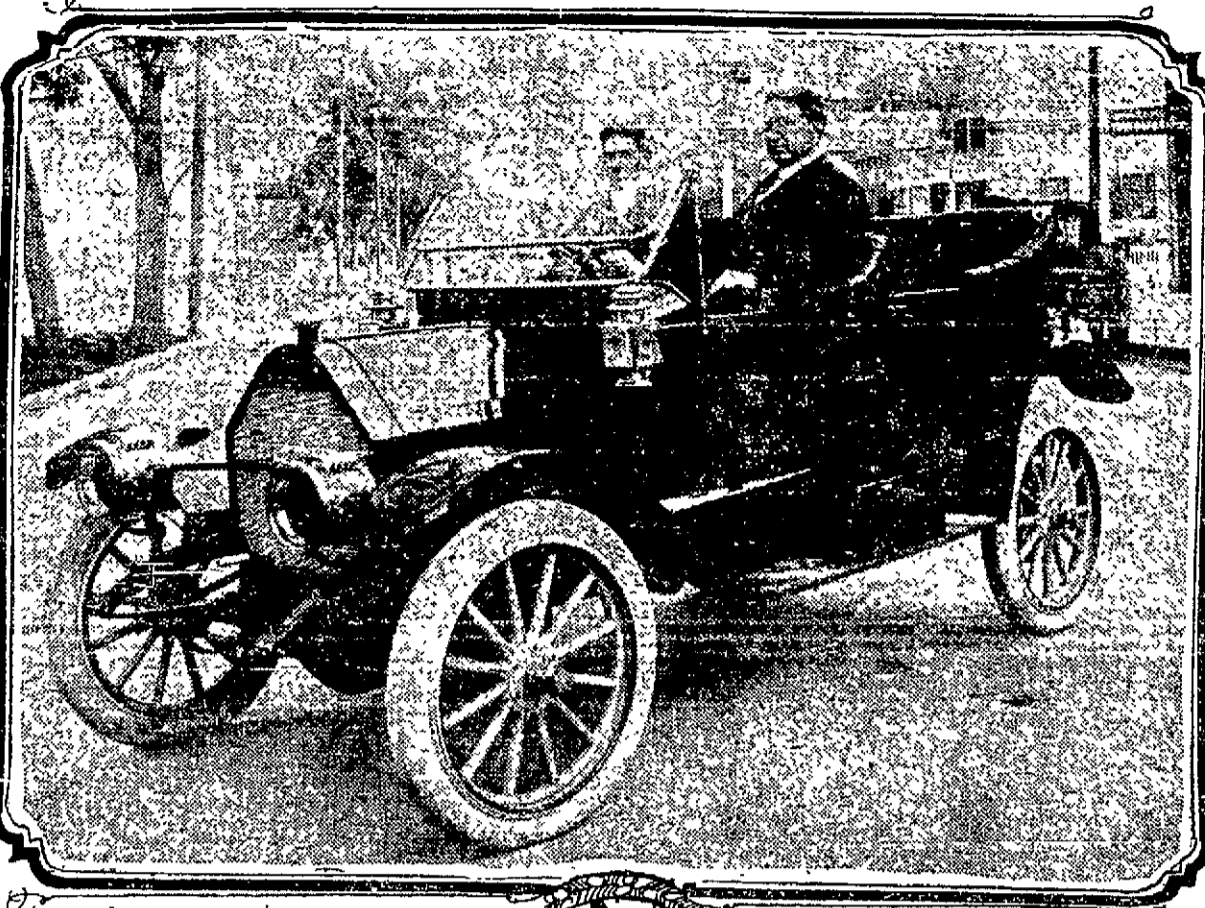

"The driver who is constantly watching his car to detect imperfect adjustments, noisy gears or other imperfections, has no opportunity to exercise his driving ability, and as all our boys seem desperately anxious to turn back cars in perfect condition, we have found it practically impossible to pick a capable race driver out of them all."

NEW JONES AUTO SALES-ROOM IS NOW COMPLETE

Alterations are practically completed at the Jones Auto Company. The increased floor space, made possible by the enlargement of the old salesroom, now places the firm in a position to look after and successfully cope with the present large business.

The new big catalogue, which has been out the press but a month, is in demand throughout the state. As a result of its issue and distribution orders are now coming in from sections never before reached.

CHALMERS PRAISES PACIFIC COAST

Lauds Golden West as 'Progressive, Energetic and Growing Land.'

Hugh Chalmers, of the Chalmers Motor Company, has returned to Detroit after spending two months on the Pacific coast, he being the guest of E. P. Brinegar, of the Pioneer Automobile Company, during his stay in San Francisco, and in an address made by him to Chalmers representatives now at the factory, he stated:

"Wherever I have been, business generally looks good. I believe the country as a whole is going to pass through the political upheaval of a presidential year as well as, if not better, than ever before. I was particularly impressed with the wonderful development of the large western cities, and the energetic, progressive business conditions that are making this development possible. I believe the Panama-Pacific exposition will vividly reflect these conditions, and that business men from the east will do well to visit the Pacific coast at that time. I was greatly impressed with the spirit of civic pride that pervades the western cities. The people there are constantly boosting their cities and their advantages, and they are looking ahead and planning and building for the future. And they are building an indescribably wonderful country."

U. S. IS REALIZING FARM'S NECESSITY

Efficiency Methods Taught by Eleven Agencies of Influence.

As indicating the diversity of methods employed to keep the United States in its position as the greatest agricultural nation in the world, the United States bureau of education notes that instruction in efficiency methods on the farm is now given in this country through no less than eleven main agencies. These agencies, according to a publication just issued for free distribution by the bureau, are: elementary and secondary schools, agricultural high schools, county schools of agriculture, traveling schools teaching the same pursuit, farmers' educational clubs, farmers' institutes, agricultural clubs and like organizations, gardens for city schools, normal schools of agriculture and colleges of agriculture.

In order to supply the basis for a complete understanding of this movement, Edward D. Greenman, in charge of the reference section of the United States bureau of education, has prepared a comprehensive bibliography on the subject. The bibliography includes 517 entries, dealing with every type of activity designed to promote agricultural education in this country.

MOVEMENT IS NEW.
"The majority of these references," said Mr. Greenman yesterday, "are of comparatively recent date, for the reason that the movement toward agricultural education itself has attained considerable proportions only within a very few years. Thus, it is interesting to note that the first chair in agricultural education, as such, in this country was founded by the Massachusetts Agricultural College in 1867. Now about two-thirds of the agricultural and mechanical colleges in the United States are offering some opportunity for special preparation for teaching agriculture. Agricultural institutions of college grade have of course been in existence for many years, but the agricultural education of children is a movement of such recent growth that, like the pupils, it may almost be said to be, even now in its teens."

In addition to a bibliography on agricultural education in all its phases, the bureau of education's monograph contains the most exhaustive compilation of literature on the teaching of domestic science, cookery and home economics yet brought together. This part of the bulletin, which was compiled by Miss Edith Wright, of the bureau of education's library staff, consists of 201 entries.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.
"The nation-wide movement for the instruction of young girls in the household as parallel courses to those in agriculture which are taught their brothers," said Miss Wright yesterday, "is even more of an innovation than the teaching of agriculture itself to children. Nevertheless the newer subject has made such rapid strides that today practically every elementary school or high school which offers agriculture to its pupils also includes domestic science in its course as well."
Indeed, the two courses are regarded as so intimately related that in many colleges the domestic science courses are included in the department of agriculture. The girl graduates from the cooking school receiving the same agricultural degree as do the boys who take the instruction in agriculture.

The government publication, which is entitled "Bibliography of Education in Agriculture and Home Economics," will be sent free upon request to the United States commissioner of education, department of the interior, Washington, D. C.

HOLY GHOST FESTIVAL IS HELD AT SAN PABLO

SAN PABLO, May 25.—Portuguese residents from all over Contra Costa county are present at the annual celebration of the Holy Ghost now in progress here. The two Portuguese fraternities, the United Portuguese of California and the I. D. E. S. are in charge of the celebration. Miss Irene Rose has been chosen as queen of the festival and this evening the two lodges, headed by the Richmond band, and many of the citizens here marched to Miss Rose's home, where she was crowned, after which the parade marched around the town and back to the starting place.

A ball at Maple hall and fireworks concluded the evening's festivities. Tomorrow there will be religious festival at the San Pablo Catholic church, with Rev. Father Porta in charge and during the afternoon there will be more dancing, a barbecue and the raffle of cattle donated for the occasion.

NEW RENSTROM BRANCH HAS NEW DEPARTMENT

The new branch established in this city recently by the Frank O. Renstrom Company, managed by Gus Renstrom, is meeting with success in the sale of both Regals and Kline cars.

As is the case with most of the branch houses on the side of the bay, a service department is part of the plan of operation, and in it owners of the cars represented will be cared for.

PLEADS CAUSE OF UNDERSLUNG CAR

Its Numerous Advantages as Renstrom Sees Them Are Explained.

Prospective automobile purchasers the country over have manifested interest in the merits of underslung construction as applied to automobiles. Frank O. Renstrom, of the Frank O. Renstrom Co., and an authority on automobile underslung construction, has given out the following, which will be of general interest. Underslung construction, declares Renstrom, "simply means that the weight of the automobile is 'slung' below the axle instead of 'balanced' above them. In the manufacture of automobiles it is merely the new application of an old principle. For years in locomotives, rail-way cars, trucks and other vehicles, where safety and ease of riding at high speed were necessary, engineers have used the underslung construction. Its application to the automobile is new for one reason alone, and that is its cost. The advent of the modern moderate-priced underslung car is due to the efficiency of the present-day large scale production."

"Foremost among the advantages claimed for the underslung construction is the safety which it insures the occupants of the car. A low frame makes possible a low center of gravity, and the result is the reduction to a minimum of the tendency to skid or 'turn turtle.' The significance of this advantage will be readily appreciated when it is realized that skidding is the cause of a surprisingly high percentage of automobile accidents."

"Another factor of safety lies in the spring suspension and general design of the car, giving, as it does, immunity from spring breakage. The recoil of all springs is upward, thus reducing the car to a bound and violent jolt so noticeable with other types of cars. Furthermore, if either the front or rear springs should break, such breakage will in no wise interfere with the control of the car. The remaining springs will hold the frame in place just as a rectangular body supported at 3 corners could be released at the 4th corner and sustain weight."

"Equal road clearance is maintained throughout, and the pan is no lower by actual measurement than the low-hanging flywheel and other projections of the ordinary type of car. Until a ruler is brought into service, the ordinary car may appear to have a greater road clearance, but actual measurement disarms the supposition."

"Comfort in riding is another distinct advantage of the underslung type of construction. The spring suspension and large wheels eliminate vibration, so that the sensation experienced by the car's occupants is one of gliding. No type of construction makes easier riding qualities."

GLOWING RECORD OF TIRES ON BIG CASE CAR

Herrick Tells of Remarkable Showing Made on Trans-Continental Run.

Harvey Herrick, who drove the Case car on its pathfinding trip across the continent, has returned with one of the most remarkable stories of tire service ever told. The car which Herrick drove over the southern route was equipped with the United States tires. The Nobby treads, were used on the rear and smooth on the front.

This car battled through the deep sand of the American desert, over the rocky hills of Southern Colorado, and in to the muddy districts of Kansas and Missouri. It was given the hardest kind of service, but the entire trip was most comfortable before it was necessary to make a single tire change.

The car went from Los Angeles across the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Maryland without tire trouble of any kind. This is one of the most remarkable demonstrations of the efficiency Herrick has ever come in contact with, and the plucky driver was loud in his praise of United States tires.

The car went through all kinds of service, but not until the outskirts of Baltimore were reached was it necessary to jack up a wheel and pull off one of the tires.

No trip tests a car so thoroughly as a trans-continental run. Roads of every description are encountered, and a driver becomes so accustomed to hardships he does not try to save the machine or tires. The tires which made this remarkable run will be sent back to the coast for exhibition purposes.

CITY TO BEGIN HARBOR DEEPENING THIS MONTH
Great Ship Channel and Turning Basin to Be Dredged

Work is to be commenced this month on the dredging for the channel and turning basin upon which the two apron wharves in the Key Route basin will front. The contract has been signed between the city and the Standard American Dredging Company for the removal of 2,000,000 cubic yards, the spoils to be used in filling in several city blocks of land behind the rock wall and levee and in making roadways for the extension of Seventh street to the city wharves on the western water front.

The work now under way on the western water front is part of the general scheme of improvement for the Oakland harbor, entailing an expenditure of $2,500,000 on the part of the city. The Key Route basin project is being carried out with the sanction and under the direction of the United States war department, and comprehends one of the most extensive and modern water front improvements ever undertaken on the Pacific coast.

OTHER WHARF PROJECTS.

In the Livingston street wharf completed and saving dockage service to the Great Oakland warehouse and factory district, and with the quay wall along First street and the Oakland estuary being built at a rapid rate by the Healey-Tibbets Construction Company, the engineering department of the city has turned its attention to rushing forward the western water front projects in the hope of having wharfage and dockage facilities at the Key Route basin within ten months or a year at most.

The Key Route basin, which is under development by the city of Oakland and the San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose Railroad, was situated, presented itself as one of the great harbors in the world in the natural advantages it offers to navigation. Facing upon the Golden Gate, the basin is protected on one side by the Southern Pacific mole and on the other by the proposed Key Route mole and bulkhead.

RAILROADS ON BOTH SIDES.

A railroad borders the basin on each side. The basin is backed by the city bulkhead and levee, which is to be crowned by a street 140 feet wide and curving a half mile toward the shore from this street there will be some 300 acres of city land available for warehouse and factory purposes at reasonable rates. The wharves will be approached on the water side by a deep water channel 350 feet in width and widening into a 700-foot turning basin, while they will be approached from the land side by the two railroads and the city belt line and by Seventh street and Fourteenth street and the streets lying between these two.

The Mercer-Frazier Company has already commenced driving piles for the 2000 feet of apron wharf to extend 65 feet from the face of the levee and face upon the deep water channel. This wharf will be divided into two sections, one of about 1000 feet parallel to the Oakland mole and the other of about the same length parallel to the levee and near to the southern end of the basin.

TO DREDGE CHANNEL.

It is to provide for a channel leading to these wharves that the contract was signed this week by Commissioner of Public Works Harry S. Anderson and the Standard American Dredging Company for the commencement of the dredging work toward the close of the current month. The company is now preparing to put in its equipment in the form of a huge suction dredger, with lengthy pipeline, and work will be commenced pumping out the

IMPROVEMENT OF OAKLAND'S MAIN BUSINESS THOROUGHFARE CONTINUES

Old settlers of Oakland enjoy exchanging reminiscences of the days when Broadway, as a business artery, had been developed but a few blocks north of the estuary, and when the mercantile buildings were no higher than two stories. The street is now two miles in length and is being extended to the Tunnel road, in the Claremont hills. Stately structures produce a metropolitan skyline on its lower end, in the section where business houses were few in the sixties. In those days the stores and offices centered further south, near the Seventh-street local line and the estuary. Despite the growth of the retail district west of Broadway, the upper business portion of this great thoroughfare is expected to come into its own in time, following its extension and the activity which cross-town ferry lines bring.

SELL 362 LOTS IN HAVENSCOURT

Out-of-Town Buyers of Home Sites in New Subdivision Are Numerous.

Wickham Havens Incorporated report sales in Havenscourt up to Wednesday at 4 p. m. of 262 sites, which, as they point out, placed side by side, would extend for more than a mile and a half. An unusual feature is that a considerable number of purchasers in Havenscourt are from out of town.

The work of grading and construction of the twenty-one miles of street and sidewalks is being pushed with vigor. Along the East Fourteenth street side of the property of red concrete sidewalk is completely finished, and the pergola entrance on this street has also been completed and parking begun.

NEWCOMER EXPRESSES FAITH IN OAKLAND

George B. Ellison, formerly a heavy real estate operator and prominent advertising man, of Vancouver, British Columbia, who has associated himself with J. Edgar Settle, owner of Brookdale Terrace, 1544 Broadway, says:

"This is my first visit to Oakland since the San Francisco fire, and to me the growth of Oakland and the evidence on every hand of substantial progress is simply marvelous. I can hardly comprehend it. Vancouver, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland are all growing and prosperous but it is this town of Oakland that gets me. I believe you are going to have the largest city on the Pacific coast."

SIX MODERN BUILDINGS ARE UNDER CONSTRUCTION

West of Broadway Section Being Improved at Cost of $600,000

Work has begun upon six modern business buildings in the new retail district west of Broadway. A tour of this fast growing section is necessary to obtain a comprehensive idea of its development. It is not generally known that this amount of building is in progress or that its cost is to total $600,000.

It is significant that while this improvement work is under way the activity in realty sales and in building northward along Broadway and Telegraph avenue is of minor importance. The reason given by brokers is that many property owners are loath to place an acceptable price on their holdings and at the same time show no tendency to improve them with up-to-date buildings.

As a result the section west of Broadway, where more than $2,000,000 in sales have been reported this year, has been advancing with remarkable rapidity. Buildings ranging in height from two to seven stories are being constructed. They are as follows:

Seven-story building at northeast corner of Fourteenth and Grove streets, erected by F. A. Muller and H. C. Morris; cost $75,000.

Seven-story brick building on the north side of Fourteenth street, west of Grove, erected by the Farnham estate; cost $70,000.

Six-story brick building at Fifteenth and Jefferson streets, erected by R. J. Pavert; cost $125,000.

Five-story Woodman Hall, brick, northwest corner of Sixteenth and Jefferson streets; cost $100,000.

Four-story brick building, southeast corner of Fourteenth and Clay streets, erected by Wickham Havens and Walter Belmont; cost $150,000.

Two-story building on Fifteenth street west of Clay, erected by H. T. C. Co.; cost $50,000.

A continuation of realty sales on and near Sixteenth street is reported. Altogether, the week just ended has been an active one, according to the real estate brokers. The trade in residence lots has been brisk, transfers in the various tracts and in close-in sections having been numerous.

Another important Sixteenth-street sale during the week was the transfer of a lot on the north side of the thoroughfare, 50 feet east of Jefferson, 50 by 100 feet in size, by L. S. Fuller to Jacob Surfer. The consideration is reported to be $100,000.

Frank J. Woodward sold to Charles D. Bates and Richard Ayer 70 feet, for $25,000. The land is improved with residences, McHenry & Kaiser, the Broadway realty agents, conducted the negotiations.
